

BIG PROBLEMS FACE COMING CONGRESS

Social Security, Farmer
Aid, Labor Laws Listed
For Legislation.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Social security, labor legislation and new aid for the nation's farmers stood out today among the problems facing the incoming congress.

Many other highly important tasks confront the legislators as a result of impending expiration of a number of new deal emergency statutes. Hardy legislative perennials will add to the burden.

The senate will have to deal again with the proposed St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada and the president's power to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with foreign countries which expire June 12 unless extended.

The social security act, center of a bitter controversy in the campaign's closing hours, appeared due for some overhauling.

The 30-hour week bill, sidetracked in two previous congresses, still is on the American Federation of Labor's "must" list and Chairman Connery (D., Mass.) of the house labor committee has signified his intention of bringing it up again.

In view of campaign statements some form of crop insurance bill appears certain as well as some additional soil conservation program.

A new bill to stabilize the giant soft coal industry has been promised by Senator Guffey (D., Pa.), co-author of the invalidated coal control act.

Gold Issue Looms
Outstanding among expiring new deal laws are those granting presidential power to vary the gold content of the dollar and maintain a $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund. These expire Jan. 20 unless congress acts beforehand.

Almost every month thereafter until September, some important piece of legislation is scheduled to terminate, including the reconstruction finance corporation's authority to provide emergency financing for agriculture, commerce, industry and financial institutions.

The civilian conservation corps, with its 350,000 enrollees, needs new legislation if it is to continue after March 31. Legislative powers of the electric firm and home authority to finance sales expire Feb. 1; the reduced rate of interest from farm mortgages given to federal land banks and the three cent rate for letter postage both due July 1.

Taxation alone promises to give the new congress plenty of work, for, in addition to expiration of a number of excise levies which produced about $300,000,000 in the last fiscal year, there is a strong likelihood the 1936 tax act with its levy on corporation surpluses will be subjected to revision.
