NEW HUDSON CARS ATTRACT CROWDS

The new 1937 Hudson and Terraplane automobiles are now on display at Percy Croft's at 332 N. Jackson street.

Commenting upon the advanced styling, remarkable roominess, performance and driving ease of the 1937 Hudsons and Terraplanes, Percy Croft said, "For cars that are so seal-tight and slim waisted in exterior appearance the roominess found inside is a tribute to the skill of Hudson designers. All four of the new cars, the Hudson eight, Hudson six, deluxe Terraplane, and the new super Terraplane are longer, lower and wider than the preceding models, yet the exterior lines sweep rearward from the new narrow distinctive radiator grille with a flowing grace that conceals the great roominess and comfort inside. The front seat, for example, is now 55 inches wide, measured at the cushions, and despite the fact that the car is lower by 2 inches, floors have been kept level, and headroom is increased slightly.

"One of the features most striking about the new cars is the selective automatic shift with the electric hand, both exclusive Hudson features, which enables the driver to shift gears with the flick of a finger and the touch of a toe. This new Hudson contribution simplifies driving and enhances ease of control with resultant safety and freedom from fatigue.

"Another feature which is attracting noticeable attention from those who have driven the new cars is the added power, smoothness and economy provided by the new 'double carburetor' principle introduced by Hudson this year. Hudson's famous duo-automatic hydraulic braking system with the 'double safety' feature is continued on the 1937 Hudson-built line as is radial safety control, another Hudson engineering advance.

wood, Madlyn Henninger, Jane Clark, Betty Knott and Iolo Stephens.

Practice has already begun with Kate Buchanan directing the play, which will be given at the Roseburg senior high school early in December.
