Ready For Christmas.

THERE will be a real spirit of Christmas in Roseburg this year. You can just sort of feel it in the air. Heartiest congratulations go to the merchants committee of the Roseburg chamber of commerce. This committee has undertaken the job of decorating the streets, providing a Santa Claus and a Christmas tree, and the streets blaze with countless strings of colored lights. The committee also financed all of this by levying and collecting a modest assessment from each business house.

Work of that sort, done as well as that job has been done, is genuine public service. And not only is the work done for this year but the lights have been purchased and will be ready for use for each and every Christmas season henceforth without further expense.

It is the pre-Christmas frenzy of gift and card buying, planning hand made gifts, and preparing the Christmas surprises that is half the fun of the holiday season. This year there will be more of this than ever before and that is good.

Three Democracies.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, brilliant British statesman, in a recent speech spoke of Britain, France and the United States as having common interests in "the preservation of democracy and individual freedom." After paying his respects to France, he continued:

"Across the Atlantic ocean is another great democracy, a child of our blood and ideals—the United States, which has inherited and expressed in its own way British parliamentary freedom and French revolutionary equality.

"We must not ask too much of the United States. We must try to do the work ourselves. But we may find the United States with us at the end of the road."

It is true that these three nations are the foremost exponents of political and economic freedom in a world now growing more and more "authoritative" and tyrannical. We three still have government by voters, through laws made by their chosen servants, instead of government by self-appointed bosses.

To Americans, no formal alliance with either Britain or France is conceivable; we do not make alliances. But it is natural, and perhaps necessary in this time of confusion and peril, for free nations to give each other moral support and work together informally in economic matters, as the three are now doing to some extent.

We cannot see far ahead and cannot give pledges of future policy. Yet whatever cynics may say, common blood, common culture and common institutions are strong bonds.

device of crossing back and forth over the equator. With airplane service steadily improving, that is coming to be a rather simple matter.

WE ALL think we like summer and that it would be grand to live where summer is perpetual. But, oddly enough, the regions of the earth where summer is more or less perpetual AREN'T the outstanding ones. Humanity seems to have done better for itself in those places where in easy summer it has to prepare for hard winter.

In other words, the necessity to WORK AND SAVE has been a good thing for human beings all over the world.

FAMOUS BREEDERS TO EXHIBIT TURKEYS

Among late entries for the Northwestern Turkey show, to be held at Oakland December 8 to 12, is one from the famous Narragansett breeders known as the Hawkeye Turkey farm of Kenosha, Wis., show officials announced today. These breeders have entered 18 birds to compete for honors in the Narragansett classes, it was announced.

More than 100 entries have so far been listed in the Narragansett breed in a contest for prestige and reputation among the breeders.

Entries in the live show have been particularly heavy during the past week, it is announced, while T. B. Garrison, manager of the dressed bird division reports that department will break all records.

A refrigeration plant is being built into the dressed bird show room in order that birds may be preserved in good condition during the period of the show.
