No Explanation Offered by Chief; Mattson Ransom Payment Rumors Are Not Confirmed.

TACOMA, Wash, Jan. 8.—(AP)
—Federal agents, livestigating the Charles Mattson kidnaping, swept into action unexpectedly today and at least four automobile loads of officers vanished from Tacoma.

Twenty agents dashed out of one hotel at 4:30 a. m. on an unexplained mission. A few minutes inter, the automobiles sped out of one garage and converged on a downtown street corner where the agents apparently conferred a few minutes. The cars, exhausts open, scattered for undisclosed destinations.

Their whereabouts was a mystery six and a half hours afterward.

Rumors that the Mattson boy had been reclased upon payment of $28,000 ransom by his father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, were without of $28,000 ransom by his father, Dr. W. W. Mattson, were without confirmation from any source.

A second insertion of a "Mable-Ana" advertisement in/the Scattle Times, medium used for communicating with the kidnaper, added doubts to the rumors.

Various reports indicated they might be somewhere in the triangle between Olympia, Shelton and Aberdeen, Wash. This triangle, bounded by main highways, includes some of the wildest country in western Washington, with dense underbrush, swamps and shille.

The federal agents from the bureau of investigation had hardly left the hotel before the state police became active Orders flashed to highway patrol cars and they swept toward the triangle. They acted independently and, an executive said, had not been called by the federal authorities.

Nathan Ocesn't Explain

At Tacomu, Harold Nathan, assistant director of the bureau of investigation, returned to his cifice at 9 a.m. after an unexplained absence since 4:30 a.m. and refused to explain his agents' activities.
