ROGUE RIVER MUD DUMP BILL BEATEN

$30,000 exhibit in the New York world's fair in 1939, the legislative ways and means committee indicated today.

The committee, informed that the state highway department would put up $10,000 for the exhibit, approved an appropriation for $20,000 as the state's share.

As a supplement to an earlier appropriation, the committee approved a $15,000 grant for road control on public lands, bringing the total for this department to $30,000.

A letter from Governor Martin urged appropriation to care for the release of those convicts affected by the "good-time" bill that recently passed both houses of the legislature. The letter was referred to a sub-committee.

Liquor Law Altered

Receiving final approval of the legislature were the two bills containing amendments to the liquor control administration, the main additions including:

1. An amendment declaring train employees to be agents of the liquor commission, and allowing hard liquors to be sold on trains.
 2. Prohibiting the sale of alcoholic liquor both at wholesale and retail by certain licensees of the Oregon liquor control commission.
- Both bills now go to the governor.

Sluiceway Bill Postponed

By unanimous vote, the senate postponed indefinitely a bill providing certain places on the Sluiceway river where sluiceways could be used. The bill had previously passed the house of representatives.

ROOSEVELT RAPS SUPREME COURT

Guffey coal act, the first railroad retirement act "were successfully outlawed as the child labor statute had been outlawed 9 years before."

"You know who assumed the power to veto, and did veto that program," he reiterated after mentioning each law.

Recalling the decision which ended NRA regulation of hours and wages and the subsequent decision against a state wage law, he said these declared no legal power existed for the nation "to deal with its most difficult problems—a nation's land of final finality."

"Furthermore," he continued, raising his hand for silence, "for I'm not through yet, court injunctions have paralyzed the machinery which we created by the labor relations act to settle great disputes, raging in the industrial field."

"We hope that this act may yet escape final condemnation by the highest court," he said, disdaining the unwritten tradition whereby decisions impending in the court are not made subject to comment by officials in other branches.

A decision in the Wagner act cases may come next Monday.

Nation's Ills Cited

Time and again, in referring to the policies behind new deal laws which have been enacted, the president "defied" anyone to read the opinions of the court and tell what, if anything, could be done at this session of congress to effect those policies "with any reasonable certainty that what we do will not be nullified as unconstitutional."

Affirming his belief in those policies, he said: "We cannot afford, either individually or as a party, to postpone or run from that fight on advice of defeatist lawyers."

"Here is one-third of a nation ill-nourished, ill-clad, ill-housed—now!" he exclaimed.

In short, pointed sentences he referred to the farm problem, "inadequate pay" child labor, strikes, threats of flood and dust storms, the crossing state lines, and added each time the same word—"now!"

"If we would keep faith with those who had faith in us? If we would make democracy succeed, I saw we must act—now!"

With that, he looked across the room, waved repeatedly to the shouting, applauding crowd as it stood to bid him farewell, and then returned to the White House.

Despite opposition by some leaders in his own party, to his proposal for enlarging the highest court unless aged justices retire, the strength of the democratic organization was being marshaled today in support of the Roosevelt views.

Comments by cabinet members and some leading senators as they turned homeward from the dinner indicated they were counting on a tremendous public reaction in the president's favor.

Foes to Strike Back

While messages accumulated at the White House, the opposition both in the senate and house took steps to strike back without delay. Senator Glass (D., Va.), and Senator Borah (R., Idaho), were mentioned as prospective spokesmen, to be ready possibly Monday when the senate reconvenes.

Aware of the threatened party schism, Mr. Roosevelt indicated a readiness to let the dissenters go their way rather than sacrifice his objectives in labor, farm and social legislation.

"I will take courage to let our policy be held and meet the needs of the nation," he said slowly. "But for our party, now as always, the counsel of courage is the counsel of wisdom."

"If we do not have the courage to lead the American people where they want to go, someone else will."

The dinner, bringing together the heads of nearly all government agencies and many of the rank and file, was one of 1937 held simultaneously in 43 states and the territories.

The message estimated about $400,000 was raised toward paying off the $420,000 party deficit.

More than 500,000 persons attended the dinner, and heard the president by radio.

U. S. APOLOGIZES FOR LA GUARDIA

ties of each other."

NAZI PRESS VOLLEYS AT N. Y. "CRIME CONDITIONS"

REUTERS, March 5.—(AP)—The United States embassy today temporarily closed its doors to a press conference in Washington.

Flouting the ban on press conferences against Mayor La Guardia the "crime conditions" in New York, appearing in Der Angriff, the newspaper of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda and public enlightenment.

The embassy made no comment on its report, forwarded to the state department.

Der Angriff, which yesterday filled columns—as did other newspapers—with a stormy attack on Mayor La Guardia personally for his "hall of horrors" remark before a meeting of Jewish women.

today ran a series of news photos intended to show New York and the United States as "the land of freedom—and for all gangsters."

Lehman Also Assaulted

One picture showed a manacled prisoner, "bank robber number one," who has not yet reached the stage of mayor or governor.

Another photograph purported to depict the family of a New York slayer "kneeling at the gates of Sing Sing" to give thanks to "Jehovah and his faithful servant, the Jew Governor Lehman," for saving the kinsman from the electric chair.

The newspaper said Governor Herbert Lehman, "La Guardia's boson friend," had seen to it that the man whom Angriff identified as a subway holdup killer, "was allowed to remain alive."

Der Angriff, in another place, assailed the "shilly-shally" treatment of the La Guardia case by the Washington state department, "which incites La Guardia to ever new faults and earmarks this (New York) as a state in which 75 million taxpayers have no other recourse except that of dying silently of hunger in the gutter."

The new Nazi press onslaught against La Guardia resulted from his suggestion before the Jewish women's meeting in New York Wednesday, that the 1937 New York world's fair have a "hall of horrors" the chief figure in which would be "that brown-shirted fascist" who, he said, was manacled world peace.

A formal German protest followed in Washington, and Secretary of State Hull yesterday made an informal expression of "regret."

Nazis Not Placated

La Guardia "despised" the United States rather than der Fuehrer, Hitler's own name Voelkischer Beobachter bluntly observed, for in a well governed state such agitation would be confined "either to an asylum or a penitentiary."

Other journals said the Washington government would not be able to "cross over" this incident by pointing out the government has no control over the speeches of an individual.

If laws permit an individual to endanger friendly relations with a foreign country then a decided iteration of such conditions would seem imperative," one paper declared.
