

A Hat that fits it's name.

"The Holiday"

You young fellows will like the feel of this new light weight hat, and the look of it in the mirror. Put it on a smart angle, snap down the brim, dent in the crown, you're all set.

POETS CORNER

PITCHER OR JUG

Written March 3, 1887
They tolled together side by side
In the field where the corn was growing;
They paused a while to quench
their thirst,
Grown weary with the hoeing.

"I fear, my friend," I said to one,
That you'll never be richer;
You drink, I see from the little brown jug,
Whilst your friend drinks from
the pitcher.

"One is filled with alcohol,
The fiery drink from the still;
The other with water clear and cool.
From the spring at the foot of the hill.

"In all of life's best gifts, my friend,
I fear you will never be richer,
Unless you leave the little brown
jug,
And drink like your friend, from
the pitcher."

My words have proved a prophecy,
For years have passed away;
How do you think have fared our friends,
That tolled in the fields that day?

One is a reeling, drunken sot,
Grown poorer instead of richer;
The other has won both wealth
and fame,
And he always drank from the pitcher.

MAN

Man is a creature that the world would be lost without.
Some are tall and lanky and others short and stout.
Some are poets and writers while many are the business type.
Yet there's men who have their minds in the gutters
Over cheap and costless trips.

Now take the business man for instance,
He generally works hard all day,
He does his best to get ahead and make the best of pay.
He works and slaves in an office
or travels on the road,
But what he does or doesn't do,
his burden he must load.

A writer or a poet is a man with a gigantic mind.
There's many in this world of ours,
some crippled and totally blind.
Some writers write of adventure
and others of love affairs
But as long as it entertains us,
the type written nobody cares.

But a bum is a bum wherever he may be,
If on the coast, or in the mountains, or far over sea.
Refinement is the type that is wanted all over.
What women now wish is a perfect lover.

—By James W. Howard Jr.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN
The evening sun is setting far in the golden west,
The birds, bees and blossoms have gone to their daily rest,
The day is nearly over and that toll and work is done
But tomorrow life will be anew—
with traffic on the run.

Life is composed of work and hardship
Laughter, gayety, sorrow and worry.
Without God's help and certain friendship,
Life is nothing but hurry scurry.
Love plays the part of happiness
and contentment,
Hoping and waiting for life to continue.
Then young ones grow up having
rudegans and resentment, O'er difficult situations that they've put themselves into.

So on and on the whole thing goes,
But where or when it stops nobody knows.
It always has been and it always will be Until the end of the world, just you wait and see.

"CADDIE WOODLAWN" OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Caroline Watkins of route one, Portland, who is known all over the United States to boys and girls as "Caddie Woodlawn," celebrated her eighty-fourth birthday anniversary February 22 at the home of her daughter and son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pfeil. Her admiring readers sent her six pounds of chocolates, 159 birthday letters and 20 birthday cards, besides numerous other gifts.

The story of which she is the heroine won the Newberry medal for 1936. Her granddaughter, Carol Ryrie Brink, the author, informed Mrs. Watkins the story will be printed in the Swedish and Danish languages and will be available for children of those countries in April.

Mrs. Watkins, is the mother of Mrs. Wanda Armour, of Roseburg, and is well known here, having formerly made her home with Mrs. Armour, before going to Portland to reside with another daughter.

Since the book, Caddie Woodlawn, was published, Mrs. Watkins has received 3500 letters from people all over the United States. One whole pack of letters was sent by one school, where the teacher had read the book aloud to the students. The book is in both libraries here.

OSBORN-TAYLOR TEA IS CHARMING AFFAIR FOR MRS. C. D. CANNON

One of the loveliest and most charming affairs of the week was an informal tea given by Mrs. Grant Osborn and Mrs. A. B. Taylor at the home of the former in Laurelwood Saturday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. C. D. Cannon, who is leaving soon for La Grande to make her home.

About thirty neighbors and close friends called between the hours of three and 4:30 o'clock. The rooms of the Osborn home were especially lovely with large bouquets of spring flowers and pussywillows. The tea table was attractive with a centerpiece of daffodils and Jasmine.

MRS. THOMAS GRAHAM HONORED SATURDAY NIGHT BY MRS. M. J. NEWLAND
To compliment Mrs. Thomas Graham, who left Sunday for Empire, to make her home, Mrs. Maurice J. Newland entertained informally Saturday evening by inviting Mrs. C. F. Pierce and Mrs. T. H. Reeves as guests honoring Mrs. Graham at a theatre party at Hunt's Indian.

Following the theatre, bridge was enjoyed at the Newland home on West First street. The guest prize was presented to Mrs. Graham and the high score prize was won by Mrs. Pierce. Later Mrs. Newland served lovely refreshments.
