CARS ARE PRIZES IN ESSAY CONTEST

A nation-wide demonstration and essay contest was recently announced by the Pontiac division of General Motors offering as prizes five new 1937 Pontiac automobiles and 90 valuable cash awards.

Everyone is invited to enter the contest—the only requirements being each contestant first take a brief demonstration ride in a new Pontiac and then write in 100 words or less "Why I think the 1937 Pontiac is 'America's Finest Low-Priced Car.'" Official entry blanks upon which the essays must be written can be obtained at Roseburg Motor Co.

In making the local announcement of the contest, Hanson said that complete preparations have been made to take care of everyone in the city who enters the contest.

"There is no reason why at least one of these fine prizes which are being offered by Pontiac Motors cannot be won by a resident of this city," said Mr. Hanson.

"Our sales staff will be on hand every day until the contest closes midnight, May 31st, to help with questions and facts about the Pontiac car. We have set aside a number of new demonstrators so that everyone can have a ride and there is an adequate supply of the contest blanks which must be filled out and used for the essay by every person competing."

KITCHEN CABINET BOUGHT FOR $3 PRODUCES $650

MALTA, Mont.—(AP)—It was a pleasant surprise for E. McFarland of Malta, Mont., when the drawer of an old kitchen cabinet he had purchased at auction for $3 fell open and disclosed $650 in currency.

McFarland bought the cabinet when administrators auctioned the belongings of James Wilson, an eccentric recluse who died last spring. There were rumors he had money hidden in nooks and crannies of the building he occupied but officers had searched and failed to find it.

McFarland turned the $650 over to the administrators.
