

PAIR HELD HERE IN CHILD'S DEATH

In the inquiry, Sergeant H. W. Howard of Medford, special investigator, being called to Roseburg Sunday night by Corporal Paul Parsons, supervisor of the Roseburg district, who joined with Sheriff Webb in the investigation. The sheriff said that the local authorities several weeks ago investigated a report from a Danville resident that the child was being mistreated, and that Miss Agnes Pichford, county juvenile officer, found the little girl's eye blackened, but was told that she had fallen from the porch.

Fall Is Claimed

The father and stepmother, questioned last night concerning the child's death, said that she had again fallen from the porch in a fainting spell, the sheriff said. They told the officers, according to Webb, that the girl was subject to "fits and fainting spells." This has been partially substantiated by statements of a Seattle Creek physician that he previously treated the child for digestive disturbances, the officer reported.

However, Webb declared, the marks on the child's body indicate that they were from some cause other than a fall, many of the bruises being parallel marks.

The stepmother, questioned last night, the sheriff reported, said she had whipped the child lightly around the neck Friday, but that the punishment was not unduly severe and that the girl was apparently not physically affected by it. The father refused to answer questions put to him by the officers, Webb said.

The Hopkins family, the officers report, came to Oregon in 1935 from Oklahoma and resided in Eugene until about a month ago, when they moved to Canyonville. Hopkins had been previously married but his first wife died at the birth of Barbara. A year-old child by the present marriage was taken from the mother last night and is being held in care of the juvenile court.

Sheriff Webb and Sergeant Howard spent today in Canyonville, where they are conducting further investigation and inquiry.

LEWIS UNIONS TO GET A. F. L. OUSTER

cuties, the Ford company announced plans for expansion of its plant. An official said Henry Ford had approved construction in Detroit of a 2,500,000 cubic foot gas holder "as high as an 18-story building." The break between Lewis and the American Federation of Labor came a year ago over the question of craft unions or industrial unions.

U. S. BOARD SILENT ON CHARGE AGAINST FORD CO.

DETROIT, April 19.—(AP)—Rules of the national labor relations board prevented confirmation—or denial—today of an announcement by Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, in Washington that charges had been filed against the Ford Motor Co.

At the seventh region office of the labor board it was explained that charges are not made public until preliminary investigation discloses there is basis for a formal complaint that cannot be settled without a hearing.

Such investigation usually requires at least two weeks, a member of the board's staff said. The formal complaints are made public at the time cases are set down for hearing.

"Nine-tenths of the charges are disposed of without formal hearing," it was explained.

There was no comment from the Ford company.

TRADE UNION LICENSES CONSIDERED BY PREMIER

TORONTO, April 19.—(AP)—Premier Hepburn of Ontario said today provincial legal officials are studying the possibility of licensing trade unions which collect dues in Ontario and send the money to the United States.

The premier, openly opposed to the C. I. O. headed by John L. Lewis, said:

"If we could stop the collecting of dues, a large part of which goes across the line to men like Lewis, we would end this trouble (such as the General Motors strike at Oshawa.)"

"I have no antipathy to international organizations, particularly the American Federation of Labor whose attitude to the Lewis crowd is the same as my own."

"We are hoping men of the stature of Mr. Moore (W. H. Moore, member of parliament from Oshawa who has been offered the new labor industries board chairmanship) will be able to settle strikes peacefully and set an example to a bewildered world."

DEAD WHALE OFFERS SMELLY PROBLEM

EUGENE, Ore., April 19.—(AP)—Stuntlaw forest officials were in a quandary as to what they should do with a 49-foot whale discovered on the beach near Florence yesterday.

The minister apparently washed ashore during the recent storm, is believed to have been on the beach a week or so, but was found only yesterday. The odor of the huge mammal is only one of the many worries connected with the discovery, officials said.

It is thought dynamite will be used to aid in disposing of the huge carcass.

John W. Clark, 55, resident of Drain for a number of years, died at a hospital here today following a long period of illness. The body was removed to the Roseburg Undertaking company parlors pending completion of funeral arrangements.

BILBAO WARNED OF NEW ASSAULT PLAN applied to a "local situation" there, where, it maintained, the harbor was dangerously mined. President Amirre of the Basque government was reported to have protested against what he called "Hitler's blockade." He told British consular officials the port was not mined and that long range coast artillery had prevented the insurgents from establishing an effective blockade. Patrol Begins Tonight Near the Basque war zone, non-intervention officials toured the frontier posts to oversee preparations for the combined land-and-sea patrol of Spain which starts at midnight tonight. Neutrality committee agents on the French and Portuguese frontiers were ready to begin enforcement of the committee's embargo against further men and munitions. Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy assembled 60 war vessels to take up patrol stations on the Spanish coasts. A new effort to land food directly at Bilbao was foreseen when the British freighter Saratoga arrived at Bordeaux, France, to have her food cargo checked by the neutrality patrol. The Saratoga was one of several British freighters prevented last week by Spanish insurgent war vessels from putting in at Bilbao. Advice from Madrid said government troops were driving forward in the Teruel sector in a double thrust to pinch off the easterly insurgent salient which has menaced the temporary capital at Valencia since the early days of the civil war. Mediation Spurned A proclamation by Gen. Franco, broadcast from Salamanca, appealing for unity among his followers, was hailed in insurgent Spain as a virtual declaration of dictatorship tonight. It was generally believed Franco would attempt to mould his divergent followers, among whom there were reports of dissension recently, into a new "nationalist state." General Franco denied that any

STATE POWER LINE PROPOSAL SCORED

Continuing Governor Martin said "it is evident that the intent of the framers of this bill is that transmission lines necessary to handle energy from Bonneville shall be built at federal expense within the limits of economic transmission from Bonneville." "Why attempt to do with state money this work for which federal funds will be provided? With the passage of senate bill 2992 the state of Oregon will be relieved of the heavy expenditures that you have attempted to saddle upon the backs of our people. Waste to Be Avoided "You say: 'The transmission improve such electric transmission lines and substations," to be financed by the federal government, and rate schedules would be based upon an allocation of costs made by the federal power commission.

move to mediate the northern conflict had been approved by him. He quoted one of his aides as saying: "There cannot be conciliation between men with common sense and bandits. We cannot live with Marxist acum."

system could now be well along towards completion. "The federal government evidently does not join you in that thought. They have a realization of the need of careful preparation and study before such transmission lines are built, in order that there may be no waste of funds. "If the state were to assume the heavy load you propose, the poor devil who owns property in remote districts of Oregon, having the least possibility of deriving any benefit from the such transmission lines, would become liable for tax on his pro rate portion of the funds necessary to carry the load."

In conclusion the governor urged Zimmerman and all other citizens of Oregon to maintain an open mind on the entire subject, and to proceed carefully and cautiously. He stated that Oregon's welfare with reference to Bonneville power was in such jeopardy that he felt it his duty to go to Washington, D. C. to give what assistance he could to "secure for our people full benefits of this great project."
