Traded a Puppy for Old Master

Painting of an antique shop figured in the Oak Park, Ill., drama of a mysterious little old lady who traded a small fortune for a pet. She wanted one of the spaniels Arthur Lloyd, Jr., raises as a hobby in his shop, and offered a stained and dust-covered picture in trade. Later Lloyd discovered the painting was a work of Jean Baptiste Greuze, French master. Lloyd, painting and brother of the traded pup are pictured above.

Hitler Favorite a Nazi Emissary

W. Leni Riefenstahl had been disturbed by the report, later denied, that she had been ordered to leave Germany because of "non-Aryan" blood, the vicious and handsome favorite of Hitler gave no indication of displeasure when this picture was taken recently in Paris, where she presented an Olympic Games film in the Paris Exposition. Actress Leni is said to be the only woman to enjoy the confidence of Germany's dictator.

GAMING UP TO CITY, SHERIFF DECLARES

PORTLAND, July 29.—(AP)—Sheriff Martin Pratt advised John A. Jeffrey, district manager of the Townsend organization, that with the exceptions of Portland and Gresham, Multnomah county was free from organized gambling. He said that Gresham's ordinance licensing certain types of pinball games was "undoubtedly a violation of the law" but that he believed it was the city's "own particular business," if they wished to derive revenue from that source. "So far as Troutdale, Corbett and Bonneville or other places in the county are concerned, I again say there is no organized gambling," the sheriff said.
