

INDIANS TO MEET OWN TYPE OF PLAY

Cavemen, Billed Here On Armistice Day, Depend Mainly on Speed.

By M. W. B.

The Indian football squad, returning for practice after a three-day lay-off since last Saturday's game, when the Marshfield Pirates went down to a 12-0-0 defeat at the hands of the local warriors, in what is now or will be called the famous "hog-wallow" engagement, spent the first half hour of last evening's workout behind the gymnasium, pounding out the usual Coos bay mud, which created these uniforms. I spent several minutes walking around through the bleachers and made several inquiries, but as far as I could learn, no claims were unearthed, much to my disappointment.

After Coach Jim Watts finally rounded his squad together, he immediately started putting them "through their paces" with the distinct idea behind it all of eventually bringing his Braves into first class shape for the Armistice day battle with their traditional foes, the Cavemen from Grants Pass high school. Watts is determined to take the "rubber" game between the two institutions, each having tramped upon the eighth time in the last 16 years. If hard work, long hours, and persistence have anything to do with it, the Indian team will send the invaders home on the short end of the score.

Workout is Thorough

The members of the squad were inclined to take things easy during the hammering up exercises and wind sprints, until the gentle but firm reminder from the coach that he could stay out as long as they could, so the boys began to get down to business, and a good workout, which lasted until after the big lights had to be turned on, was the result. Guards and tackles spent their time in an endeavor to speed up the line charge. Centers, ends and backfield men worked hard on pass defense, the object being to build up some resistance against the expected Grants Pass aerial thrusts. The practice ended with a half hour of spirited scrimmages.

As expected, Dave Hennigh, promising tackle prospect, took over the post vacated by the injured Roy Hatfield, and showed well in practice. The first team last night consisted of Pies and Simon, ends; Jones and Hennigh, tackles; Kerschner and Howe, guards; Hennigh, center; Marquardt, quarterback; Butler and Saunders, halfbacks, and Fritz, fullback. On defense were Anderson and Ballard, ends; Foltz and Epstein, tackles; Seefeld and Briscoe, guards; Shoemaker, center; Sutton, quarterback; Sam Thompson and Bishman, halfbacks; and Hargis, full. Most of the workout was spent in improving the timing and blocking for all offensive plays. Retter, Saunders and Fritz made long gains through the second team with the aid of much better blocking. Hargis also looked good in the fullback spot, showing plenty of speed and drive.

Cavemen Are Speedy

It has also been reported by our agents down south that the aggregation from Grants Pass high school boasts a very light, but extremely fast team, with two men in the backfield that can really "go to town." Their unexpected victory over the Ashland Lithians, a team which had previously played a zero to zero tie game with a strong Klamath Falls eleven, from all accounts was well deserved, with the light Cavemen line consistently outperforming their heavier opponents.

Judging from this, if the weather man will just give us a break, football fans of Roseburg and vicinity will probably be given a "gridiron treat" here Armistice day. Both Roseburg and Grants Pass lay claim to light, fast and extremely shifty elevens, with plenty of "speed barriers" in their backfields, each playing a wide-open style of ball that all like and love, reverses, laterals and plenty of passes.

WIDOWS WIN JOBS HELD BY HUSBANDS

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Two comely western Pennsylvania widows, whose republican husbands died while serving as county treasurers and were replaced by appointed democrats, had their jobs today.

Returns from yesterday's election showed both Mrs. Ralph E. Brown, of Mendville, and Mrs. Neva S. Longridge, of Somerset, were elected to four year terms as treasurers of Crawford and Somerset counties respectively.

And in each case they defeated the men appointed by Gov. George H. Eatie, to take their husbands' positions.

Mrs. Brown paced her party's ticket in Crawford county in beating Malcolm Wiser almost by a two-to-one margin and Mrs. Longridge led Richard Kriesinger approximately three-to-two.

A third woman, a blonde, defeated her husband for tax collector of Franklin township, Beaver county. She was Mrs. I. A. Stamm, a democrat, her husband was the republican nominee.

OREGON EVENTS FLASHED FROM WIRE SERVICE

SALEM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Fifteen state-hatted savings and loan associations had assets of $11,456,600 on June 30, there being little change from the previous year.

Five years ago there were 22 associations with $19,615,141 assets.

MT. ANGEL, Ore., Nov. 3.—(AP)—By a vote of 147 to 63 Jacob Brechtold was re-elected mayor of Mt. Angel yesterday. Alois Kober was re-elected city treasurer over Leonard Fisher and P. N. Smith was nominated for recorder. John H. Bieger, Clement Busch and Joe Haussler were elected councilmen.

EUGENE, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Boys of the Thurston district, ten miles east of here, were "suspect" today as the Lane county juvenile officer investigated the case of a cow locked in the church hallway on night.

The lady thoughtfully provided a bale of hay for the cow during her vigil in the church and tacked a notice outside, to assure her discovery before long. The cow he longed in Ross Mathews and apparently was unharmed by her "conversion."

SALEM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The number of domestic corporations in

ELIXIR DEATH TOLL INCREASED TO 67

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The national death toll attributed by the American Medical association to the use of an elixir of sulfanilamide, including diethylene glycol, reached 67 today.

Five of the newly verified deaths, the association said, were in Benton, Miss. One each were reported from Elberton, S. C., Rocky Mount, N. C., and Orange, Va.

Dr. Paul Leach of the association staff explained some deaths previously attributed to another cause upon reexamination were found to have been the result of the elixir.

GOSSIP of the GRIDIRON

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Jimmy Nicholson loomed as a triple-threat star with a scintillating exhibition of passing, kicking and running in football scrimmages at the University of Oregon Wednesday.

Observers felt he was assured of starting in the Webfoot backfield against Washington State college at Portland Saturday.

Bill Raeb, alternate fullback, shared the day's honors in cruncher plays which smashed the freshman line.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Friendly observers who scouted Oregon State college football practice gave Johnny Alexander the edge over Hal Higgins to replace Joe Gray in the Heaver backfield as the two fought for the position Wednesday.

Coach Stiner said Gray, injured in the Stanford game, was the only quarterback unable to play against Willamette university Saturday.

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 4.—(AP)—With Washington's Huskies camped over the hills at Pleasanton, California's Golden Bears planned their last serious workout today for Saturday's game—with Star Left Halfback Vic Bottari still a doubtful quantity.

The Huskies arrived last night in order to get in two full days of practice.

Coach Allison expressed doubt he would use Bottari against Washington unless his "Charley horse" was absolutely well, and maybe not even then.

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 4.—(AP)—Thirty-five Stanford Indians hit the sargath tonight for Los Angeles, where Saturday they will attempt to better their football status at the expense of Southern California's Trojans.

Pete Fay, fleet halfback, will get the starting assignment over Jimmy Coffin, Coach Thornhill announced. It will be the first game in which Coffin has not started since early last year.

"I think we have a chance this time," said Thornhill.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Southern California's football squad slacked down in practice today for its encounter with Stanford here Saturday.

Ed Gene Higgs continued to favor a shoeless alignment but will undoubtedly play while Kenny Carpenter, reserve tackle, is the only Trojan definitely out. His ankle is hurt.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—(AP)—Rounding gradually into form for their game with Washington next week, the U. C. L. A. Bruins stepped through a lively workout today.

Sherman Phinny, sophomore who has been waging a battle with Johnny Ryland for the regular center berth, may move over to a guard. He is exceptionally good on defense, but hasn't been able to oust Ryland from center since the latter recovered from injuries.

BERKELEY, Calif., Nov. 4.—(AP)—If California's Golden Bears continue their winning streak and land a Rose Bowl invitation for Jan. 1, they will not play Georgia Tech in their scheduled football game here during the Christmas holidays.

Georgia Tech defeated the Bears, 13 to 7, at Atlanta last year.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 4.—(AP)—With the prediction that "The Bulldogs are really going over this time," Coach Mike Pecorovich prepared today to start the Gonsagans for Missoula and the University of Montana tonight.

PERIL IN STARTING CARS POINTED OUT

SALEM, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Secretary of State Earl Snell warned motorists today against starting their cars in their garages, pointing out the danger of carbon monoxide gas poisoning.

"During the coming weeks motorists will be tempted to warm up their engines in their garages before starting out, and to drive with their windows closed and heaters going," Snell said in a statement.

"Both these practices are dangerous. At least one window should be rolled down a couple of inches while driving. If all windows are closed, carbon monoxide may filter through the floorboards to make the driver drowsy and unable to control the car."

He also warned against working under an automobile with the motor running.
