TRAGEDY SURVIVOR ON SKATING TREK

Ken Chrysler, 20, professional roller skater, who was one of the few survivors of the bus tragedy at Salem, Ill., last March, when 19 persons were burned to death, is leaving Roseburg Monday to resume his journey on skates from Portland to Hollywood. Chrysler has spent several days here while awaiting arrival of a new pair of skates to replace those worn out on the trip from Portland to Roseburg.

He plans to make the 1,186-mile trip in 39 days, and expects upon arrival to secure a motion picture contract.

He gave a skating exhibition

In Daring Satire of the President

"President Franklin Delano Roosevelt" was balancing another budget—in a Boston theater and with Actress Joy Hodges as his helper—when this picture was made. But it wasn't the real budget or the real President Roosevelt. It was George M. Cohan in the new play, "I'd Rather Be Right," a satire on the administration, so stinging it would have been tabooed in almost any other country. Cohan portrays a singing and dancing chief executive, and throughout the cast pseudonyms are abandoned for real names.

Hires His Ex-Wife to Keep House

A mother's devotion to her children brought Mrs. Blanche Boles, stocky, 31-year-old brunette, inset above, back to her divorced husband's Beaver, Pa., farm as housekeeper. She "hired out" for $5 a week and the use of a mechanical washing machine to be with their six children, shown above, ranging in age from 3 to 14.

here Thursday night at the armistice day dance. He is scheduled for an exhibition tonight at the Indian theatre.

Chrysler still shows the effects of injuries suffered in the bus wreck, when he was cut about the face and suffered a crushed side. He was one of the party of professional skaters traveling in the bus after an exhibition at Chicago. An explosion wrecked the vehicle which then caught fire, causing the death of 19 passengers and injuring 23.

Then he rejoined Mrs. Garner and boarded a train for the capital. As he left the barber shop he handed the negro shine boy a quarter.

"Thank you, huh," smiled the boy. "That's a quarter," rejoined Garner. "Yes, huh, I know it's a quarter," replied the boy. "Well, I want some change," Garner demanded. He got back 15 cents.
