Wage Bill Action Urged

Prospects improved for enacting wage-hour standards and crop control legislation, other points in the president's program, before congress quits for the Christmas holidays.

A statement by John L. Lewis, terming the wage-hour bill "undesirable sound" in principle, despite "serious limitations," encouraged its sponsors to redouble efforts to get the bill before the house.

Lewis wrote Chairman Norton (D., N. J.), of the house labor committee that labor's non-partisan league, which he heads, would do everything possible to bring about passage of the measure as soon as possible.

Mrs. Norton, who has asked Secretary Perkins and President Willard Green of the American Federation of Labor for their views, continued her campaign to force the bill through the house rules committee. A petition to accomplish this has been signed by more than half the required 218 members.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, asked representatives of the federation's four departments to meet him tomorrow to determine the federation's policy toward pending wage and hour legislation.

At its convention in Denver last summer the federation expressed the opinion the best type of a wage and hour bill was one which would provide for one minimum wage and one standard for maximum hours. It opposes a federal board to fix differentials.
