Daily Devotions

By DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

Things do get in the way of our living the life and doing the deeds that are ours to do. The trouble is that the things of our world about us have a habit of making attachments that hinder us from reaching higher realms of spiritual life. And it is in the interests of that free, spontaneous life of the spirit that Jesus makes the demands upon us that He does. The fact that we hesitate, even to think of giving up our lives, shows how completely they stand in the way of a consecration that the Master expects of all who would follow Him. For such imperfect devotion and half-hearted consecration as our lives have shown we crave Thy mercy and pardon, our God. Do Thou help us to a more complete surrender, to a nobler and more heroic giving up of our selves. Thy purpose and programme in the world. Amen.

sic by Miss Esther Miller at the organ and a male quartet. The sermon will be "Faith in Action" by Rev. Ormal B. Trick, the pastor of our Methodist church at Sutherlin. We invite you to share the inspiration of these services with us. Always a welcome to the stranger.

NEW USE FOUND FOR VITAMIN B-1

Rejuvenation Effect Given Elderly People, Various Ailments Eased.

HAVANA, Jan. 20.—(AP)—A new use of vitamin B-1, which acts like a drink from the fabled fountain of youth, was reported to the Pan American Medical association today by E. Has Stern, M. D., of New York City.

For the first time in the history of medicine, his paper said, this vitamin, in synthetic form, has been injected directly into the human spine.

"Some elderly persons," he declared, "actually felt rejuvenated and much younger than their years."

The value of the method has been proved clinically in a large number of different types of nervous disorders. Decided symptomatic improvement was noted in cases of hopeless cancer, beriberi, multiple sclerosis, alcoholic neuritis, sciatica, Von Recklinghausen's disease and infantile paralysis.

Multiple sclerosis is hardened patches in the brain and spinal cord which causes paralysis, tremors, and disturbances in speech. Von Recklinghausen's disease causes pigmentation of the skin, pain in joints and tenderness of skin.

The new treatment is made possible by discovery of methods to make vitamin B-1 artificially. This vitamin is plentiful in food but expensive and rare for general use.

The experiments with the artificially made vitamin have revealed, Dr. Stern said, that people who eat "enormous" quantities of the natural vitamin in their food sometimes get little or no benefit. Their bodies destroy the vitamin before it can get to their nerves. This destruction occurs mainly, Dr. Stern said, in alkaline areas.

He said that there are dangers in alkalinizing the body too much. Alkalosis in blood and tissues fluids may neutralize vitamin B-1 even after it has been absorbed from the stomach into the blood.

Dr. Stern advised using the spinal injection of B-1 in any type of infection involving the nervous system.

Dr. Ray M. Balyeat of Oklahoma City, Okla., said that lardized oil has been used with good effects on 25,000 cases of asthma and bronchial troubles. In some of these cases the oil merely helped to locate the site of the irritation; in others it relieved some or much of the suffering.

PACKERS HIT BOOST IN FREIGHT RATES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Chicago meat packers and representatives of western livestock producers and markets told the interstate commerce commission today farmers would have to bear the costs of a proposed 15 per cent increase in railroad freight rates.

George E. Putnam, economist for Swift and company, declared the increase would add $15,000,000 to transportation charges on meat and by-products and would "consequently reduce by that amount the revenue which farmers get from their livestock."

The public, he contended, would not stand for higher meat prices.

Putnam testified the loss to farm income from the rate increase might run as high as $50,000,000.

Paul E. Blanchard, counsel for Armour and company, testified he believed livestock and meats should be exempted from any rate increase until other commodities carried by railroads began again to contribute their normal shares to maintenance of rail services.

SAFETY STORE 141 HAS NEW MANAGER

Carl Posey, recent arrival here from Marshfield, has been named as manager of Safety store No. 141, located in the Kohlhagen building. Mr. Posey was employed as manager of the Safety store at Reedport and later as produce supervisor for the Marshfield area prior to coming this week to Roseburg. He succeeds Merla Timothe, who has moved to Salem to reside.

MAJOR SERMON SET BIBLE AUDITORIUM

The twenty-seven night series of Bible lectures being held at the Community Bible auditorium is not yet half completed. A large group of people are attending each night, except Monday reports he wishes to call attention to the special lecture for Saturday night of this week. The subject will be "Focal Point of Prophecy." This lecture is the summary of five great prophecies. The evening will contain five in one for those interested in Bible teachings. Pictures on the screen help to illustrate the lectures and make them of interest to even the children.

The sermon, three hours in length, will be given Saturday night, Jan. 29. It has been said that people gain a lot more than they lose by hearing this lengthy lecture. The speaker invites people to bring a pillow if they wish, a sandwich if hungry and a friend if possible.

The evangelist in giving this subject always gives his audience privilege to leave at any time, but the interest in the past has been such that seldom anyone desired to leave.

SIDNEY JACQUES OF GLENDALE DIES

GLENDALE, Ore., Jan. 21.—Funeral services for Sidney Jacques, 66, were held in the church at Canyonville Thursday afternoon, Rev. J. K. Howard, of Glendale, officiating. Interment was in the I. O. O. F. cemetery with graveside services conducted by the Glendale I. O. O. F. lodge, of which he was a member.

Sidney Jacques was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Jacques, among the earliest settlers in southern Douglas county, who settled on a homestead and a donation claim through which the Pacific highway now passes. He was born July 18, 1872, on the home place, the original house still stands, located at the junction of the Pacific highway and the Glendale road and which his brother, Andrew Jacques and his family still occupy. He lived all his life in this community, receiving his schooling in the old Maple Grove schoolhouse. He married Mary Hanks in 1911 and in 1927 they moved to Kirby where they obtained property by trading the Capital Hill Auto village, located on his property, which he built and operated for several years.

Besides his widow he leaves his brother, Andrew, and one step son and two step daughters.

Mr. Jacques passed away in the Josephine General hospital, Grants Pass, Tuesday.
