

NEWSPAPERMEN AT MEET AIR VIEWS

EUGENE, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Political writers of today must take as their chief objective the exposure of sham, intrigue and hypocrisy which lie behind the gilt-tongued and magnetic voice of politicians who now have the modern advantage of the radio, it was declared here today by Harry N. Craft, managing editor of the Salem Capital Journal, in an address before newspapermen gathered from every section of the state for the 20th annual Oregon press conference.

WINS PRIZE, NOW SUES FOR MILLION

The sweetness of victory turned sour for 16-year-old Marian Shadley, above, when the prize she won in a Chicago community beauty contest turned out to be a $5 liquor certificate. A non-drinker, Marian and her father declared her feelings were damaged a million dollars' worth by laughter, hoots and ridicule of the theater audience when she was given the award. Now she's suing sponsors of the contest for the million.
