COIFFURE THAT FITS FACE WILL FIT YOUR AGE

Upswept Hair Doesn't Give That "Older Look"

By ALICIA HART

(NEA Service Staff Writer)

"I want to change my hairdress, but I'm afraid that an upswept coiffure will make me look years older," writes a young matron. "I'm tired of a long bob, but it is youthful. Shall I keep it or shall I change? And if so, how?"

Well, by this time all and sundry seem to agree that upswept coiffures simply do not make one look older. In fact, many a woman has discovered that brushing her hair upward and wearing a cluster of little ringlets right on top gives her a younger, more plump look than she ever achieved with a long bob.

However, if your neck is terribly thin or your face is very long, ears too large or nose too prominent, forget extreme versions of the pompadour and go in for some

The styling of the "Plateau profile" coiffure coordinates smartly with new versions of the small Watteau hat which tilts forward and to the side, Notice that the clusters of soft curls, lifted high at the back, fill in the space between neckline and coiffure is especially attractive.

(Coiffures by Dumas, New York)

Lovely with new little summer hats that perch precariously on the crown of one's head, this "Plateau Profile" coiffure is suitable for evening, too. One of the official hairdresses of the New York State Hairdressers' late spring showing, it is flat on top, has a back-sweeping curl at the front while soft curls at the back are lifted high.

J. P. Dillard, Mrs. Grant Osborn, Mrs. A. B. Taylor, Mrs. L. W. Metzger, Mrs. E. R. Metzger and Mrs. Post. High score for the afternoon was held by Mrs. Post with Mrs. Taylor winning second high score.
