Millionaire Howard Hughes Flies When He Pleases But Always Returns With Facts

By DEVON FRANCIS (AP Aviation Editor) NEW YORK—If this, wife Howard Hughes, the millionaire now turned transatlantic flyer, pleases a taker's dam about what other people think of him, he has never shown it during his 34 years. Hughes announced he was going to fly the Atlantic. Why was his husband? A few years ago he was making hit movies. He abandoned Hollywood. That was his business. A year ago last summer he streaked across the United States to set a speed record which has never been approached—7 hours, 58 minutes. Creative from his chin he was courteous, tolerant, uninformative. He merely wanted to do it. If a man wanted to risk a neck valued at several millions, it was his affair. He took it up. His few intimates show he is a blue chip playboy. What he does he does what pleases his fancy with a courage and energy which set him apart. "Before let someone else take a chance on it," said Hughes, who built his "Fishes" record race, "I had convinced myself in your to leave you built it. I have enough confidence that it will fly."

due to his father's invention of a rotary drill bit for sinking oil wells. The older Hughes founded the Hughes Tool Co. in Houston, of which the son is board chairman. Born rich, Hughes followed his father's technical bent. At the age of 12 he had constructed his own radio receiving set. The Hughes home made automobile was a common sight in Houston. At 15 he had taken his first flight. In his twenties he established himself as one of Hollywood's foremost movie producers. He made money. Among his pictures, "Hell's Angels," "Scarface," and "The Front Page" helped make movie history. Keeps Full Logs Like his father, Hughes is interested by anything scientific. When he flies he works every minute. His "logs" are "complete." At the close of a flight he can rattle off his average fuel consumption, cylinder head temperatures, manifold pressures, the altitudes at which he navigated, his speed and even the temperature of the air outside the plane. For his current flight he installed every piece of scientific apparatus in his "Larches" 147 transport that came to mind. With an extremely heavy load the machine is expected to cruise at 175 miles an hour. Though danger means nothing to him—until recently he held the world's landplane record of 552 miles an hour over a measured course—he is loath to risk the lives of others. President Roosevelt once told Hughes he would like to make a flight with him. "Well," replied the young millionaire, "if you do, Mr. President, it will be the most nervous flight I've ever taken."

Still A Bachelor Shy in the extreme, Hughes has made a speech only once in his life, before the New York Advertising club. "Speed is nothing in itself," he said then, "it must be adapted to commercial use if attaining it is to be worth while." He lives simply but indulges a voracious appetite. He cares nothing for clothes, has often been seen with unpressed trousers. He has been known to touch his lips

Family Swims Atop Garage

These sultry days the Henry Allendorf family of Cincinnati park their cars in their garage and then go up to the garage roof and take a swim—just like that. Their unique swimming pool is 20 by 40 feet and 6 feet deep. The top picture shows the Allendorfs having fun in their plunge and the lower photo shows how the pool is built over their four-car garage.
