HAWAIIAN LUAU GIVEN BY MR. AND MRS. CARTER FOR HONOLULU VISITOR

One of the most charming and interesting parties of the summer was given Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Carter at their home on Military street, when they entertained a large number of friends at a Hawaiian Luau in compliment to their house guest, Miss Jean Thomson, of Honolulu, Hawaii.

The ladies received attractive leis upon their arrival at the party and the Luau was served at two long tables placed in the garden at six-thirty o'clock. The garden was lighted by numerous colorful oriental lanterns and an improvised stage was placed in the center of the garden covered by a canopy of evergreens.

The tables were beautifully decorated with miniature palm trees, colorful Hawaiian shells, attractive favors and placecards tied with raffia and leis.

Covers were arranged for Miss Jean Thomson, guest of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Ellsworth, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Iles, Mr. and Mrs. H. Schmoll, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alspaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Addison, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gomes, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. English, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. Stanton, Rosemary and Kathryn Irving, Shirley, Ann and Harlan Carter, Frances Irving, Dorothy, Donald, Margery, Alice and Alfred English, Alton, Margery, Dorothy and Treva Alspaugh, Mary Margaret and Jane Ellsworth and Jean and Marylin Keetch.

The Luau (Hawaiian feast) proved unusually interesting to the guests and consisted of Lau Lau, Poi Poi and long rice, Pua, imported Hawaiian pineapple, yams, Kona coffee, Poha, Guava, Mango Chutney and Papia and pineapple imported jellies and jam from Hawaii. The menu was printed on an attractive Hawaiian leaflet.

Charles V. Stanon acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. and Mrs. Gomes, newcomers to Roseburg and former residents of Hawaii, were interesting guests of the evening. Mr. Gomes is an especially fine musician and singer and entertained the guests with numerous delightful selections. A most enjoyable impromptu program of skits, Hawaiian dances, group singing and musical and vocal numbers were presented.

The Carter family made their home in Honolulu, before coming to Roseburg to reside. Miss Thomson is enjoying her summer vacation on the west coast and spent a week here with the Carters, before leaving Wednesday for Tacoma and Seattle to visit relatives. She plans to sail in September for Honolulu to return to her work there.

Contract bridge was the diversion of the pleasant evening hours with Mrs. Finlay winning the prize for high score.

ELDRESS VIRGINIA JUDD AND ROBERT M. KELLY MARRY SUNDAY, JULY 31

At the season's most beautiful wedding, Miss Eldress Virginia Judd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Judd, of Roseburg, became the bride, Sunday, July 31st, of Robert M. Kelly, son of Colonel and Mrs. Edward E. Kelly, of Medford, at St. George's Episcopal church in this city.

Rev. Perry Smith performed the impressive service at three o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of about eighty friends and relatives. Gorgeous bouquets of coral-colored gladioli and tall lighted ivory candles decorated the church.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Homer Grow played on the organ, "Andante Cantabile," by Tschodsky and "Finlandia," by Sibelius, followed by Mrs. Charles A. Brand singing "I 'Love Thee," by Grieg. Mrs. Grow played Lohengrin's processional for the bridal party to enter the church and Mendelssohn's recessional at the close of the service.

The bride was very attractive in a beautiful white satin wedding gown with a short train of satin and fashioned on Princess lines. The color was high in the Elizabethan design and gorgeous inserts of cut-work and tiny pearls on the yoke and sleeves with tiny buttons fastening the back from the collar to waistline. Her wedding veil was knee-length and circular, fitted to her head by a Juliet cap edged in point lace and orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful Colonial bouquet of bouvardia encircled by white gladioli buds. The bride was given in marriage by her father, J. M. Judd.

Little Noreen Ann Kelly, of Portland, a niece of the bridegroom, acted as flower girl and was lovely in a Snowwhite frock of gold taffeta, fashioned with a long skirt and puffed sleeves. Pale yellow gladioli buds, in coronet fashion, were worn on her head. The flower girl was followed by Mrs. Frederick J. Chapman, sister of the bride, as matron of honor. She wore an attractive floor-length model of a sheer torquoise material, made with puffed sleeves, tight bodice and very full skirt. Her coronet was of white carnations and her bouquet was Colonial fashioned of gladioli, zinnias and asters, shading from pale pink to deep salmon and rose. Miss Marjorie Kelly, of Medford, sister of the bridegroom, was attractive in a rust taffeta floor-length frock with wide Circe lace lapels. Her coronet and Colonial bouquet harmonized with her frock by the use of zinnias in rust, gold and brownish tones.

Edward C. Kelly, of Portland, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and James E. Judd, brother of the bride, and Keith Phillips were ushers.

The bride's mother wore an attractive frock of cerise, blue and green printed crepe with a navy blue hat and a corsage of gold gladioli. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue and white print with navy blue hat and a corsage of rose gladioli.

The wedding reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Judd, on South Jackson street. Exquisite bouquets of pure white gladioli and white bowls and vases were used about the rooms. The many beautiful wedding gifts were on display in one large room. Punch was served in the attractive garden of the home with Mrs. Keith Phillips and Mrs. Ialo Stephens in charge.

The refreshments were served buffet style with Mrs. Bertha Parrott and Mrs. Perry Smith, and Miss Helen Casey and Miss Alice Ueland alternating at the table in pouring. A lovely lace cloth covered the table, which was centered by the beautiful three-tiered decorated bride's cake flanked by six tall lighted white tapers. The cake was cut by the bride. Bernard Kelly, young nephew of the bridegroom, presented the wedding cake to the guests. Mrs. W. A. Bourrell and Mrs. James E. Judd assisted in the serving.

The bride's wedding bouquet was caught by Miss Annabelle Berg.

For her going-away costume the bride chose a blue and white print two-piece frock with a blue velvet collar. A small white hat with a blue band and blue veil and matching accessories completed the ensemble.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left for Portland and will also spend a part of their wedding trip at coast points, before returning to Roseburg to make their home at 904 First avenue East.

Out of town guests attending the wedding included Mrs. Edward E. Kelly and daughter, Miss Marjorie, of Medford; Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kelly and daughter, Noreen Ann, and son, Bernard, and Mrs. Paul Greiner, of Portland; E. Robert Goodal, of Eugene, and Miss Daphne Hughes and Miss Marion Tait, of Bryn Mawr.

The bride is well known here, having attended the local schools and then being graduated from University of Oregon. She taught at the Roseburg senior high school and the past year was a teacher at St. Helens Hall in Portland. Mr. Kelly attended University of San Francisco and also University of Oregon. He is associated in business at the J. M. Furniture store in this city.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Chapman, Jr., entertained at a charming five-thirty o'clock buffet supper at their home in Laurelwood, having as their guests, Mrs. Edward E. Kelly and daughter, Miss Marjorie, of Medford, Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kelly and daughter, Noreen Ann, and son, Bernard, and Mrs. Paul Greiner, of Portland; E. Robert Goodal, of Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Ialo Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Judd and Mr. and Mrs. James E. Judd. Asters, gladioli and zinnias formed an attractive motif for the affair.

NOW IT'S "SHOULDER ARMS" IN FASHION'S CHIC CAUSE

The vogue for strapless evening gowns continues with the best designers making them in a variety of rich fabrics for fall. These two are especially dramatic. The white creation, left, of glistening taffeta is quilted all over with strands of elastic. A matching, figure-molding jacket comes with it. At right, is an ultra exotic strapless gown. Made of black and brilliantly striped fabric from Algier, it is appropriately called "Morocco."

MRS. A. A. YOUNG COMPLIMENTED AT LOVELY BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Bernard Young and Mrs. A. J. Young were joint hostesses at a very charming seven o'clock dessert-bridge supper party Wednesday evening at the former's beautiful home on West First street in compliment to Mrs. A. A. Young, of Bakersfield, Calif.

SCOTLAND INSPIRES FALL FASHIONS

By RUTH COWAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—(AP)—Hoot mon, pipe in the feminine fall fashions—they've gone Scotch.

Plaids and styles inspired by bonnie Scotland were getting a big play today from wholesalers participating in the wash apparel show's fall and winter market.

More than 1,000 buyers saw the three-hour "hit parade of full washables" last night.

And let it be said that "washable" apparel no longer means cotton and linen alone. In 1938 style language it includes synthetic materials that look like silk crepe, velvet, corduroy, satin, flannel and wool.

The jumper frock—that very same style little Mary wore years ago—has been revived with a short paid skirt and solid color blouse and it has now been designed for the college girl and matron.

In some of these models the plaid synthetic material resembles wool and in others, taffeta. Plaids—the predominate color may be red, blue, wine and the new blue-green—have also been used in dirndls, which are carrying over into fall fashions.

Frocks of colorful floral prints were numerous in the style parade. Other prints—and prints were very important—included coin designs, hunting motifs, Persian effects and the new "discovery prints."

In one of these "discovery prints" Columbus is shown landing in the new world, and in another Balboa is pictured sighting the Pacific. Also used in an effective smock was a skyscraper print of New York's famous buildings.
