Daily Devotions

By CHARLES A. EDWARDS
The author of Hebrews greatly stresses the virtue of loyalty. He likes writing about the people who endured; who endured in the midst of temptation and persecution and fierce struggle. It would seem to us that some of his heroes did not have a great deal to be true to, but the fact that they were true to it was to him a redeeming fact. He lists a number of them and hints at their deeds, that he might stir his readers to a like fidelity. But we must not forget that in the very forefront he places Jesus, "the author and finisher of our faith." His was loyalty at its highest. Our heavenly Father, we would make this great request of Thee, that we might, by Thy grace, be made loyal and true followers of Jesus Christ. If that should take us into hard and difficult ways, or make great and supreme demands of us, do Thou help us still to follow where Thou dost lead. Amen.

CONVICTS THREATEN CONFESSION GETTER

Mrs. Fawcett, Witness in Bassett Case, Will Be Moved From Prison.

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Women convicts at state prison have threatened the life of Genevieve Padelford Fawcett, famed woman swindler who obtained the confession of Mrs. May E. Smith in the Bassett murder case. Prosecutor B. Gary Warner said last night. Warner said Mrs. Fawcett will be transferred to King county jail for her own protection, and will be the star witness against her former co-mate and Mrs. Smith's son, Decast Earl Mayer, scheduled to go to trial in mid-September for killing James Eugene Bassett here 20 years ago.

New evidence, hinting Mayer had an even wider career in murder-for-profit than officers suspected, was obtained by Mrs. Fawcett and Mrs. L. E. Nixdorff, former head matron at the prison, Warner said.

Mrs. Nixdorff was recently discharged by Warden McCauley for her activities in the case. He charged she sent copies of the confession and other information to a private detective. Mrs. Nixdorff said she only went "outside" with her information when McCauley failed to act. Warner gave Mrs. Nixdorff credit for "breaking" the Bassett case, long marked unsolved in King county records.

Mrs. Nixdorff will also be an important witness in the Bassett trial, Warner said.

Confession Received
Reviewing the case, Warner said Mrs. Fawcett obtained Mrs. Smith's confidence when they were both inmates of the prison. Mrs. Smith disclosed to her cellmate her son had killed Bassett, former naval officer, to obtain Bassett's car. Bassett's body was dismembered and buried in northern King county, Warner said the confession stated.

Mrs. Fawcett told Mrs. Nixdorff of the murder disclosure, and Mrs. Smith further incriminated herself in letters she thought Mrs. Fawcett was "smuggling" to her son in the prison, Warner said. The letters will be important exhibits at the trial.

Warner said the letters hinted that Mayer is not Mrs. Smith's son. The prosecutor indicated two new murders were laid at Mayer's feet by the disclosures to Mrs. Fawcett. Mrs. Smith has already told that he killed three other persons besides Bassett in Idaho and Montana. The new evidence, Warner said, connects him with the murder of an illegitimate mother and her child for $2,000, paid him by the babe's father, 20 years ago.
