DOG BURNED FOR SPEED, SUIT SAYS

PORTLAND, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Burning a racing dog in the heat of the pants is no way to make him run better, George Chute alleges, so he sued Gus H. Huthman for $5,950 today.

Chute claimed that Huthman, a veterinarian engaged to examine dogs at the Multnomah stadium race track, burned his dog in the hind quarters with a lighted cigar, causing the animal to suffer from a "fear complex and become unfit for racing."
