MARRIAGE DECREE PROTESTED BY POPE

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 15.—(AP)

L'Osservatore Romano, vatican newspaper, said today King Vittorio Emanuele had informed the pope
"the holy father's wishes" concerning Italy's new racial marriage restrictions would be given "the greatest consideration."

greatest consideration."

The marriage accree, promulgated list Thursday, prohibited "marriage of ag Italian citizen of the aryan race with a person belonging to another race." This, L'Osservatore said, "wounded" the 1929 lateral accord between the holy seand the Italian government.

The newspaper yesterday disclosed that Pope Pius had sent "two other paternal, handwritten letters" to the king and Premier Missolini concerning the decree.

"Notwithstanding that," said L'Osservatore, 'new legfelative dispositions have come out without agreement with the holy see."

However, the newspaper said today that as a result of the king's assurance, made in a note referring to the pope's personal letter, hope was brighter a friendly agreement might be reached removing the vatican's objections to the marriage decree.

Those objections were based on

Those objections were based on the provision of article 34 of the lateran accord that church mar-riages should be recognized as le-gil by civil authorities and cases of millification of church marriages should be decided by canon iaw.

The Roseburg libary is celebrating National Book week for children. This plan started when worlds for children were far and few between, but according to Hilda Reizenstein, local librarian, it is catching fire and it is with this feeling that the local library sails into the twentieth anniversary of Hook week, that great occasion when children and grown-upshonor gratefully all the authors honor gratefully all the authors and illustrators who have led them ato realms of enchantment.

into realize of enchariment.

Children's Book week, actively promoted by librarians and teachers, has brought more and more books to children, proving that repeated by the children of the children each year, their appetite for good literature is insatiable, and the facilities to meet this nation-wide need is amazingly inadequate.

Cicero tells in his writings that books are the food of youth, the delight of the age; the ornament of prosperity; the refuge and comfort of adversity; a delight at home, and no hindrance abroad; companions by night, in traveling and in the country.

"If the great gains already made are to be consolidated for the benefit of workers as well as management, it is essential that there be cooperation among the wage carning groups, and because of this, I venture to express the hope, as I did also to the American Federation of Labor convention delegates, that every possible door to access to peace and progress in the affairs of organized labor in the United States be left open.

"Continued dissension can only lead to loss of influence and prestige to all labor. On the other hand, collective bargaining will be furthered by a united labor movement making for cooperation, and labor peace which will be in the interest of all Americans."
