Daily Devotions DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

To keep religion living and vital it Just always be giving expression to itself. No man can lock it up in the reserve and be quiet if he expects to keep it fresh and vicorous and healtry. The writers of the Old Testament so often remind us of that, as they break forth into song and praise and a telling to others of the goodness and the grace of God. How they found in God their strength and their salvation as they broke forth in praise of God's goodness. A religion untouched by emotion and expressed in gladness can hardly be called a religion at ail, We come to Thee, our God, a multitude of reasons stir us to gratitude and true gladness of heart. Do Thou help us to rejoice in Thee: loosen our tongues to sing of Thy goodness and our lips to speak Thy praise. Be Thou, every day the Joy of our lives, Amen. To keep religion living and vital it sust always be giving sreak Thy praise. Be Thou, every day the joy of our lives.
