AUXILIARY PLANS LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

Protection for widows and orphans of World War veterans is the first point of the five-point legislative program which the American Legion Auxiliary will support when congress considers the proposals, Miss Edwin Young, legislative chairman of the local auxiliary unit, has announced.

The other points in the program, adopted as the major legislative program for 1939 by the National Executive committee of the American Legion are: Adequate national defense; universal service; creation of a separate United States employment service under the department of labor; strengthening of immigration, naturalization and deportation laws.

"For a number of years the Legion and Auxiliary have been urging that widows and orphans of World War veterans be given the same protection by the government as is extended to those of veterans of other wars. Progress has been made until now widows and orphans of veterans ten per cent disabled in war service receive protection. We are seeking to bring to all of the mothers and children left dependent by the death of a World War veteran the aid of the government be served.

"The Auxiliary always has been a leading advocate of adequate national defense as a safeguard for peace. At this time strengthened defenses are essential to the security of our country and our organization is working with increased energy in this cause.

"Enactment of the principle of Universal Service into the laws of the United States has been sought ever since the World War. The law we are asking would remove the profiteering motive from war and would provide equal service for all citizens in event of a conflict. We believe it would be a strong peace measure and would greatly strengthen the national defense. The Auxiliary will urge passage of the Sheppard-May bill during the coming session of congress.

"We will also recommend passage of legislation to establish a separate United States employment service, under the labor department with separate funds allocated to it, to maintain efficient employment services for unemployed veterans and all unemployed.

"We also will urge tightening of immigration, naturalization and deportation laws to protect the United States from undesirable aliens."
