POET'S CORNER

By LENORE ADAMS
When I feel that I'm a poet
But the things I write don't show it
When my heart begins to burst
With off key song
When even I can see the joke
When I get the poison oak
And an inner urge keeps nudging me along
When the skies seem blue above
And I think that I'm in love
And I want to imitate young Ferdinand
When I get out the rake
And start to dig for nature's sake,
And I think the world's okeh and life is grand,
When ambition runs a riot,
Everything is too darn quiet,
It's a sign of only one unquestioned
thing,
For if a grouch like me
Can see beauty in a tree
Then I know, by all that's holy,
it is spring!

NEW FROCK FULL OF TRICKS TO MAKE YOU LOOK LOVELY

By CAROL GRAY

This dress is designed to make your shoulders look upstanding, your waistline look tiny, and to bring the flattery of color contrast and irregular lines straight up to your throat.

That little bow at the belt, in front, is in key with spring's preference for everything Victorian. Pattern 8287 concentrates all its detailing at the top, above a slim-lined, slightly full skirt. Therefore it does favors to your figure.

This is a type to put on and wear right now, for the refreshment of your winter wardrobe. It will also be smart in the spring. It looks subtle and expensive—but it's extremely easy to make. This wool, flat crepe, the silk and prints are nice materials for this.

Pattern 8287 is designed for sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 34 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material; 5 1/2 yard contrasting to trim.
