Dennis asserted, "that it is none of our business what takes place in Europe and China."

While Dennis advocated retention of the present neutrality law, Dr. Esther Caukin Brunauer, of the American Association of University Women, backed the Thomson-Geyer bill to embargo trade with nations which violate treaties with the United States.

his arrest was issued." She noted there was no evidence to indicate Bridges advocated overthrow of the government by force and violence, and explained it would be necessary for the department to show the communist party advocated overthrow of the government.

ATTEMPT TO FREE ROSSER RENEWED

SALEM, April 21.—(AP)—Another attempt to free Al Rosser, former AFL teamster secretary for Oregon who was sentenced to 12 years in prison for arson, was made today when his attorneys, John and George Mowry of Portland, asked the supreme court to admit him to bail pending his appeal. Ralph E. Moody, state coordinator, and Bruce Spaulding, Polk county district attorney, said they would fight the application. The high court probably will hear the appeal about June 1. The court would have authority to free Rosser only as far as the Polk county arson charge is concerned. If Rosser were admitted to bail, he still would have to contend with the Multnomah and Washington county circuit courts since he is under indictment in those counties. Rosser tendered $65,000 in bonds in the three counties to obtain freedom, but all these bonds were canceled after the supreme court refused to allow Rosser to appeal. But when the high court reversed itself to permit Rosser's appeal, Rosser's attorneys asked Circuit Judge Walker of Polk county to admit Rosser to bail. Judge Walker refused two weeks ago to accept jurisdiction, asserting it was up to the supreme court. The bond in Polk county originally was $100,000, but after Rosser's conviction, Judge Walker reduced it to $25,000. Rosser, now in the Multnomah county jail, has been in jail 14 months. He was convicted of complicity in burning the West Salem box factory.
