OREGON is noted for its great diversity of farm crops, for its world wonder—Crater lake, for its splendid scenic attractions, for its recreational assets, for its vast timber stand and for various and sundry other things.

Though attention has not been especially called to the fact, Oregon has produced more, far more, than its share of good writers—nationally known writers.

The current edition of the Saturday Evening Post features two young men of Oregon. The leading fiction story, the beginning of a serial featured on the front cover was written by Robert Ormond Case. The principal non-fiction article, dealing with forest fires, was written by Stewart J. Holbrook.

Just a few months ago another story by Case entitled "Wings North" appeared in the Post and he is the author of numerous books and short stories. Holbrook recently enjoyed the prominence of being the author of a book listed as a best seller. It was "Holy Old Macdonald"—the story of the lumberjack.

No doubt Ernest Haycox has a story in Colliers this week—he writes a vast amount of fiction for that magazine. He is an Oregon product. Another Oregon writer, H. L. Davis, was the Pulitzer award winner in 1936 for the best novel of the year—it was "Honey in the Horn." Edith Marshall, known for many years as a successful fiction writer was a Medford boy and attended the University of Oregon. Ared White, author of a current serial in Adventure Magazine and of numerous books, is a well known Oregon man though his friends use his other given name. There are numerous other successful writers in Oregon. No attempt is made to give the names of all of them.

Though good writers are born and not made, there has been an influence and an inspiration in Oregon for some 25 years that has contributed much to the success of many of the writers mentioned above. Reference is made to the work of Professor W. F. G. Thacher, teacher of classes in short story writing and English at the University of Oregon. Professor Thacher is himself a successful writer of short stories.

Though class instruction is useful, it is doubtful that successful writers can be created by teaching. The great contribution Professor Thacher has made toward the success of these young writers is in recognizing writer ability and by giving encouragement where and when needed.

State Press Comment

The Dalles Chronicle: Another cherry harvest is at hand and growers are beginning to watch cloudy skies with anxiety. After an early spring that set a new record for dryness, rain now emphatically is not desired by orchardists during the next few weeks.

Several years ago The Dalles crop was "trained out." With a good yield and the prospect of better than usual prices, old Dave Phivins sent a downpour that turned optimism into gloom almost overnight.

This year prospects again appear bright. The local crop, while not large is of fine quality. Reports from other producing areas indicate that tonnage will be reduced this year, and buyers all ready have expressed interest in local fruit. Opening market quotations in California would indicate that the superior quality Ore-ron cherries should command a fair price this season.

Asst. Budget Ex-Governor Martin, back in Washington as a witness before the senate committee considering Wagner act changes, was able to tell the committeemen a thing or two about operations of the act in Oregon, and the outspoken general evidently did just that. General Martin, who fought sootery and racketeering during his term of office, had plenty of experience with the failure of the Wagner act to prevent or stop labor disputes, and with the inadequacy of the national labor relation board's efforts to settle such disputes. The governor had little or no help from the act or from the NLR's representatives in his fight against the unions. In fact, General Martin is in a position to testify that the Wagner act machinery did more harm than good. General Martin was never one to hide his thoughts. He told the senate committee just what he believed and knew, whether members liked it or not. And his straightforward testimony was something they might well consider, as coming from a man who knew whereof he spoke. Many have found fault with General Martin's handling of the labor situation here, but none can deny that he was honest and direct in his methods or that he is not a sincere worker for the good of Oregon and all its people. His experience with the Wagner act were bitter and made him all too familiar with its faults. So his testimony should bear real weight.

THEATER OPERATOR BURNED IN FIRE

KLAMATH FALLS, June 1. (AP)—Matt McCoy, motion picture projectionist at Davis, 21 miles southwest of here, was seriously burned last night when a fire burned in an independent projection booth, and ignited. His action in conducting the show in the projection room was credited with preventing serious spread of the fire. The audience fled out of the theater without injury to any member. McCoy first tried to carry the flaming box outside but because of danger to the audience changed his mind and hurried it back in the booth room and slammed the door. The Davis fire department quelled the blaze after it had gutted the projection room. McCoy suffered hand and arm burns and cuts.

LETTERS to the Editor

UN-AMERICAN PURPOSES OF COMMUNISM DESCRIBED

To the Editor: It seems as if all current news is impregnated with communism. What is communism and what is its aim? What is the nature of its proposed world plan? It is six-fold and such an abolition: 1. Abolition of private property. 2. Abolition of the family. 3. Abolition of patriotism. 4. Abolition of inheritance. 5. Abolition of religion. 6. Abolition of all ordered government.

MARKETING ACT IS SIGNED BY F. D. R. WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—President Roosevelt signed into law today a bill making the agricultural marketing agreement act of 1937 applicable to apples produced in Washington, Oregon and Idaho. Producers of Pacific northwest apples will be enabled by the legislation to enter into marketing agreements if sufficient of their number approve. The law previously excluded the producers of all types of apples from participating in marketing agreement programs.

Daily Devotions DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

"I press forward, to secure the prize of God." Here we have one of the secrets of Paul's matchless career. It is no wonder that he went so far and climbed so high. His aim had in it an unflinching incentive to give the best he had of brain and brawn to the cause of Christ, to which he had given his life with complete faith and trust. Christ had his whole life to the last fiber of his power. In the presence of his gifts and graces we may be discouraged when we think of our own efforts. We love the gentle life, but breadth, and depth, and height. It is not reputation that measures our worth, but Christian character and devotion to noble ends inspire us, our God, with a desire to do Thy perfect will for Jesus sake, Amen.

GREYHOUND STRIKE ACTION IS HELD UP

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1. (AP)—A move to hold in abeyance strike action against the Pacific Greyhound lines had the approval today of San Francisco bay area members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen for at least 30 days. After announcement the dispute over jurisdiction of drivers in seven western states would be taken to court, the drivers in this area agreed last night to withhold strike action, but amended their resolution to state that if after 30 days no progress had been made, officers were authorized to call a walkout. W. P. Nutter, representing the independent Brotherhood, said the national labor relations board planned contempt action against the company in the circuit court of appeals in an effort to force it to comply with an NLRB order giving the brotherhood jurisdiction over the 600 drivers in California, Oregon, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

NO MONEY NEEDED. SAYS MORGENTHAU

WASHINGTON, June 1. (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today the treasury will borrow no "new money" this summer, but will refund a note issue coming due in September. The treasury head said the $2,784,293,293 cash working balance in the treasury was sufficient to meet the difference between expenditures and income at least until the next regular financing date which is September 15. On Monday, Morgenthau said, he will announce an offer of a new five-year note to the holders of the $125,534,600 worth of one and three-eighths per cent treasury notes which mature September 15.
