Daily Devotions

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Civil government is ordained of God. The Lord knew that when sin entered into the life of mankind, he would need to be protected from his fellowman. God knew that selfishness would rule the human heart and selfishness covers a multitude of sins. Under the head of selfishness comes almost every evil. It is an abomination in the sight of God. Were it not for the restraint of civil government, men would obtain the possessions of their fellowmen by violence and even life would not be respected. It was for our welfare that civil government was established. Imagine, if you can, what conditions would exist were there no governmental restraint. The church, too, is ordained of God. When sin came in, the forces of evil began to operate in persuading man for the right. Their work is to help men adopt the golden rule for their standard of living. The church in its divine setting has no power than that of persuasion backed by the drawing influence of unfathomable love of God manifested in Jesus Christ. Amen.
