THE congress is engaged in a fierce battle over passage of a neutrality bill. Boiled down, the problem is: What sort of a law can be passed that will direct the course of our government in dealing with peoples who are at war with one another so that we do not endanger our own peace?

If the cash and carry plan is adopted, which means that we will deal with anyone who has the money to buy and the ship tonnage with which to carry it, we shall obviously be allying ourselves even more closely with England. Only refer to the speech made by Viscount Halifax yesterday for confirmation of that statement. For years Britain has ruled the seas. Halifax declared yesterday that the British navy is "unchallengeable."

* * *

On the other hand, to leave to the discretion of the chief executive to order procedure to suit the particular situation, has its dangers.

One congressman declares that the people are demanding a neutrality law. Is that true? And if so, what people are making the demand? Sometimes the very loud voice of a few makes a greater impression than the silence of the many. It is a safe guess that the average person has no fixed opinions regarding such a piece of legislation and merely hopes that congress will succeed in doing what is best.

One thing is fairly sure—if we refuse to ship arms or munitions of war to anyone no men will be slain with lead or steel that has been mined in this country and manufactured here. Why not pass a law saying only that?

* * *

But pondering the subject of neutrality naturally leads to a consideration of the opposite term—war. Day by day it appears to be more certain that the outbreak of conflict on a major scale between any of the major powers will involve almost the entire world. As a spark starts a forest fire, that is a matter of minutes spreads over hundreds of acres, so may an "incident" which provokes war place the whole world in the flames of bloody conflict.

Japan, with one major war on her hands now is slapping at Britain and making faces at Russia. Thus the tense situation is spread entirely around the globe with one exception—the land that is the United States. With war on both sides of us, as it surely will be if the explosion comes, nothing short of a miracle can save us from becoming involved. It is not a pleasant thought.

CONFERENCE REPORT GIVEN ROTARIANS

A detailed report of the proceedings of the annual district conference of Rotary International was given the Roseburg Rotary club yesterday by W. A. Pierce, head of the Pierce Auto Freight lines, who lives in Medford. Mr. Pierce has just returned from the trip to Juneau, Alaska, where the conference was held. Following his verbal report, the speaker exhibited two reels of colored motion pictures which he took in Alaska.

Rev. S. Raynor Smith, leaving shortly to take a pastorate in Salem, spoke a brief farewell to the Roseburg club, of which he is a member.

Announcement of the club officers chosen for the ensuing year was made by President Donn Radabaugh. The new officers are Bruce Mellis, president; Carlos Pace, vice-president, and Story Iles, secretary.

NOTED WRITER ON DUTCH LIFE DIES

NEW CANAAN, Conn., June 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Reimensnyder Martin, 71, author noted for her depiction of Pennsylvania Dutch life, died today. Two of her best known novels, "Tillie, a Mennonite Maid" and "Barnabetta" were dramatized, the latter as "erstwhile Susan" with the late Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske in the starring role.

GAIN RECORDED IN CRUSADE ON VICE

Reports to Prosecutor of Seattle Shows Shady Operations Halted.

SEATTLE, June 30. — (AP) — Prosecutor B. Gray Warner claimed victory today in the first round of his campaign to make Seattle a "closed town."

He said investigators from his office roamed the city yesterday and made these reports:

Visits to "14 or 15 alleged houses of prostitution and many gambling and lottery joints" showed operations suspended;

They found "only two places where there was money on the table";

They failed to find any of the customary cigar counter dice games in operation.

Warner's announced campaign—extending even to the banning of Sunday baseball and horseracing, and possibly even of Sunday movies, under a 1909 "blue law"—followed the announcement of a militant clergyman that he had enlisted a committee to crusade against vice and gambling.

The minister, the Rev. James Warren Hastings, 45-year-old pastor of the University Christian church, reported he had a safe full of evidence on "startling gambling and vice conditions" in Seattle which he would carry to the governor over the heads of local authorities.

While the chief of police and sheriff agreed to cooperate in the drive against vice and gambling, they declined to take any initiative in making arrests for Sunday entertainment violations of the old "blue law."

Even Dr. Hastings expressed the opinion Warner's action to clamp down under the Sunday law was "hasty, weak and unwise," adding:

"I don't favor those old blue laws, personally, and I think the people of the state would want them changed."

CATHOLIC CHURCH SETS CONFIRMATION

Most Rev. Archbishop Edward D. Howard will administer the sacrament of confirmation to a large class of children and adults at St. Joseph's church in Roseburg next Sunday morning, July 2, at the 9 o'clock mass. This event will mark the close of two weeks of intensive study of the Christian religion. The archbishop will be accompanied on his visit by Rev. Father Kelly, administrator of St. Mary's cathedral in Portland. Catholic people will assemble on that occasion to give a real welcome to their archbishop.

The younger children, who have been attending the religious vacation school, will receive their First Holy Communion next Sunday morning at the 7 o'clock mass.

Masses on Sundays during the summer months will be at 7 and 9 a. m.

NATION'S TRAFFIC FATALITIES DROP

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—Traffic fatalities in the nation declined in May for the 19th consecutive month, the national safety council reported today.

The council said 2,220 persons were killed on streets and highways last month, representing a 2 per cent drop compared with May, 1938.

MacLEISH OKAYED FOR LIBRARY POST

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—The senate confirmed today the nomination of Archibald MacLeish, the Connecticut poet, as librarian of congress.

The nomination was approved 64 to 8 after Senator Austin (R-Vt.) had protested MacLeish was not qualified as a professional librarian.

RAMBLINGS

By PAUL JENKINS

"I WONDER," intoned a weary feminine voice in the dim depths of the Indian theatre rotunda last night, "if I took my shoes off, if I could get them back on again?"

I couldn't see who the speaker was, she was sitting behind me somewhere; but the suspicion crossed my mind that, just possibly, it might be one of the gals belonging to an Eagles drill team or drum corps, who had seen strenuous duty on the hot pavements all day long.

* * *

"Conventions are swell when you're enjoying them from the other side of the counter," a waitress of my acquaintance told me yesterday as she handed me my customary morning coffee, "but they're just a pain in the neck to me—long hours, hard work, nights so noisy I can't sleep—"

* * *

The drums and bugles of the various Eagles corps attending the convention here sound cheerful and inspiring, and the convention uniforms of the men and women lend a note of gaiety to the streets which is altogether charming.

A convention of this nature is a fine thing for a town particularly a small town such as ours. It dispels the somberness which all too often claps down on a man's mind like a vise, when he pays too close attention to business. It gets the cobwebs out of his system.

* * *

"I wish you'd tell all the folks who were so helpful when our store burned, and who have been so kindly since, how sincerely we appreciate it," said Mrs. Jack Culver to me in Sutherlin yesterday. "We've tried to tell them, but can't reach them all."

The Culver's new market will be open, at the old location, for business a week from this coming Saturday.

* * *

There are several good convention jokes going the round, which you will hear soon enough, without my telling you.

TEX RANKIN DATED FOR AIR TOUR ROLE

Tex Rankin, famed stunt flier, will participate in the forthcoming Oregon Air Tour, according to word received here today from Allan D. Greenwood, state aeronautics inspector. Rankin, who is now in Wyoming will confer with tour officials at Portland July 10 and will join the tour, which starts August 5 at Albany and comes to Roseburg August 10.

The former Portland flier is flying a new, specially built Great Lakes plane and has added several interesting new stunts to his routine, including what he calls a "square outside loop," and an "upside down flat-spin." The ship is equipped to emit red smoke as it goes through its acrobatics.

The stunt flights by Rankin will be a part of the show to be given at each of the nine stops in Oregon. It also is expected that a Canadian stunt trio will take part in the tour.

Shops and Visits—Mrs. Eva May, of Tiller, was here shopping and visiting yesterday.

Sunday at the Churches

Daily Devotions

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

Burden bearing is well nigh universal. Some burdens are carried high that all may see them, and some are hidden deep within the heart so that others do not even guess of their existence. Burdens are God's best gifts. Souls grow strong from the weight of heavy burdens borne. And for fear they bear too heavily He says: cast thy burden upon Me, I will bear them with thee. Then the heart grows strong and the burden becomes light. It is the lonely road which crushes out the light of heaven. An old myth says that when God created the birds He gave them voices, but no wings. They could sing but they could not soar. At last God made wings and placed them before the birds and said: take these burdens and bear them. The birds lifted them with their beaks and placed them upon their shoulders. At first they were heavy and awkward and hard to bear. But they grew rapidly and the weights became wings. Thou great burden-bearer of the children of men, calm our fears, strengthen our hands, and speak to our hearts. Give us courage to strive until we are able to mount up as with the wings of eagles and find our strength renewed. Amen.

DILLARD CIRCUIT, CHURCH NOTES

It is with pleasure that the pastor and his wife begin their second year as pastor of this circuit. May we once more thank all those for their cooperation, and who in any way helped to promote the work of the church of the past year. It is only as we work and cooperate that the "Kingdom of God" can be advanced. May we have the cooperation of each and every person who is interested in promoting the work of the church during this year. The services will be held as usual until further notice is given.

We also wish to extend a special invitation to all those who are without a church home, or may not be attending church services at other place. It is our aim to promote a church program which we some other place. It is our aim to promote a church program which we believe is the best for the community. We shall be pleased to have your help in any way that may be of a help.

C. E. Brittain, Pastor.

ALASKA PROPOSED AS REFUGEES' HAVEN

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—A haven for political refugees in Alaska was proposed today in a bill introduced by Senator Gibson (R., Vt.).

He proposed colonists be admitted from any nation if they proved they had never engaged in subversive activities in their home lands, and had given up all allegiance to any other power. The number of colonists so admitted, could be equal to the total unfilled immigration quotas of the United States.

Such a plan, he argued, would improve the defense of Alaska and increase the market for goods there.
