WOOL

BOSTON, July 21.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say to—
"While the volume of business done this week has been smaller than that of a week ago and there is rather less excitement, prices are fully maintained on the higher basis than established; that is, quite back to the May levels, with class III fine wools on a clean basis of 68 to 70 cents, as typical of the market."
"Medium wools are rather firmer in price but are reaching the point of famine prices with 32 to 35 cents paid for bright quarter-blood fleeces."
"Activity in the west has been keen and it is estimated that fully 80 per cent of the clip is out of first hands."
"London has declined on cross-breeds fully five per cent since the opening rise and Merinos are just holding steady. Clearly, military requirements are the chief support of the trans-Atlantic markets."
"The manufacturing position appears to be sound, with prices slowly rising."
"Mohair is only moderately active with prices steady."

BRAND INSPECTOR FOR DOUGLAS NAMED

SALEM, July 21.—Appointment of county brand inspectors for all Oregon counties in compliance with a new state law was announced this week by J. D. Mickle, director of the state department of agriculture. Under the law, horses, mules, asses and cattle being shipped out of the state from any Oregon county must be inspected for brands.
In addition, out-of-county brand inspections are required in all eastern Oregon counties, Douglas, Josephine and Jackson.
Deputy Sheriff Clifford Thornton has been appointed brand inspector for Douglas county.
The law provides that livestock owners, before shipping stock, must furnish the brand inspector or deputy with a list of brands, age, sex, color and flesh marks against which daylight inspection is required, the animals to be driven into pens in lots of five or less. One of the four copies of the brand certificate to be made by the inspector must be filed with the sheriff.
The law sets up penalties ranging from $100 to a maximum of $2500 against any violation on the part of the owner or custodian of livestock, the inspector or the common carrier or hauler. It also stipulates the inspector may collect a fee of 10 cents per head up to 25 head, three cents per head for additional stock, and 10 cents per mile one way for travel.

Two planes collided in midair near Deal, Kent; killing two occupants of one plane and the single flier in the other.
A small plane dived into the North Sea near Bridlington, drowning two men.

SHOOTING BAN AT LAKE IS EXTENDED

Extension of prohibition against discharging of fire arms to a distance of one mile around Diamond lake was announced today by V. V. Harpham, supervisor of the Umpqua National forest. Heretofore the ban has extended for a distance of a half mile from the lake shore. The order, Mr. Harpham reported, was made to protect vacationists from the danger of stray bullets, and also to save wild life in the vicinity of the resort. The prohibition will be lifted, he said, prior to the duck season.

GRADING IMPROVES RED BUTTE ROAD

The Red Butte road, which branches off from the Little River road and leads to Watson cabin, has been graded during the past few days and now is in good condition, V. V. Harpham, supervisor of the Umpqua National forest, reports. The road leads to within a mile of the Red Butte forest look out, where a wonderful view of the forest is obtainable. The improvement also will be welcomed by winter sports enthusiasts who have been developing a recreational area in the Red Butte district.

THE MOST PART, CRYSTAL CLEAR. FLY FISHING GENERALLY IS FAIR IN THE LOWER ELEVATIONS, GOOD IN THE UPPER REACHES OF THE RIVERS AND CREEKS.

Diamond Lake District
Fishing: Fishing at Diamond lake still is potty, but has improved during the past few days. Double-bled spoon with worms and trout are proving to be satisfactory trolling lures. For fly fishing the eaddis and bucktail coachman have been bringing success. The mosquito nuisance has abated somewhat at the lake. Stream fishing in the North Umpqua river has been reported good in the vicinity of the hot springs. Yellow-billed brown flies have been particularly successful.
Roads: All roads are open and in good condition.
Change: The half mile zone around Diamond lake which in the past has been closed to shooting has been increased to one mile. This brings the Diamond lake lodge incinerator within the closed zone, where bear are frequently seen as quite an attraction to recreationists. Deer have been noticed in increasing numbers in the district.

BRIDGES DEFENSE CALLS FOR MORSE

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—(AP)—The Harry Bridges defense today requested a subpoena for Wayne L. Morse, head of the University of Oregon law school and arbitrator of the Pacific coast longshore contract, to testify as a character witness for the Australian-born labor leader in his deportation hearing on Angel island.
The application said Morse's testimony would "show Harry Bridges is a man whose integrity and character are such that he is to be believed when testifying under oath."
Bridges has repeatedly denied that he is or ever has been a member of the communist party.

N. Y. FAIR SLASHES ADMISSION PRICES

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP)—The New York world's fair moved into the bargain-rate column today, with establishment of two new admission price reductions designed to spur lagging attendance.
Effective tomorrow the admission charge will be 46 cents after 9:30 p. m., reduced from 75 cents. This decision came in response to the clamor on the part of operators of the amusement zone for a lowered admission charge. All exhibits except the amusement area close at 10 p. m.
The board also authorized a nationwide sale of 1,000,000 combination admission-and-concession tickets with a face value of $7, for $2.75. The book will contain five state admissions and 10 tickets for a choice of 10 out of 29 selected amusements.

RUSSIAN THREAT DRAWS JAP FLEET

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP)—The bill to require labeling of wool products with the amount of virgin or reclaimed wool was side-tracked in the senate yesterday.
Opponents claimed farm organizations, most of which favored the measure, had been misled by propaganda.
The vice-admiral also charged that many arrests without reason had been made by soviet authorities, in one of which a Japanese prisoner was kept standing continuously for 11 days until "finally his legs developed a kind of dropsical condition and burst."
The fate of two other Japanese prisoners, he said, was unknown.
Border Clashes Continue
Relations between the two powers were further embittered by continued fighting on the frontier between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia. Asiatic states supported respectively by Japan and the soviet union.
Japanese declared 39 soviet planes had been shot down there in a battle in the Lake Bor region, where intermittent fighting has been in progress since May 11.
The Japanese army's anti-British campaign gained fresh momentum in north China where control of currency exchange rates and export-import regulations slowed business to a standstill. Though Japanese said the measures were aimed principally at Britain, United States and other foreigners said they were suffering heavily and feared ruin.
Fearful of Japanese reprisals, many Chinese were quitting British employment and breaking off business relations with Britons.
In Tokyo, British and Japanese representatives again discussed British assistance to China at a meeting on the Tientsin situation where British and French concessions have been blocked by Japan since June 14.
The British foreign office said the United States and France were being informed of every step in the negotiations and Britain would not act alone to appease Japan in China.
Europe Hears "Peace" Talk
Talks of overtures for "peace" discussions spread in Europe despite absence of any confirmation.
Foreign diplomatic circles heard Britain might favor some "new settlement with Germany" while another report was that the British ambassador to Berlin might soon try to find out from Hitler "just what his terms for world peace."
A German government spokesman stated unequivocally Germany expects favorable solution of the Danzig issue without resort to force of arms.
"We reject 100 per cent such a warlike solution and would regard extremely if that were the only way," he said.
German official opinion is that Britain, pledged to aid Poland against any threat to her independence, will be a restraining influence over Poland by counseling Danzig's return to Germany.
Official Poland, meanwhile, sought to keep Polish public opinion within bounds in face of con-

CORVALLIS, July 20.—(AP)—Bishop Benjamin T. Dagwell of the Episcopal diocese of Oregon told the Presbyterian synod yesterday he believed ultimately the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches would unite.

and Secretary Hull Tuesday night were fully apprised of that fact, he said.
It was at that conference that a decision was reached to abandon efforts to obtain immediate passage of a neutrality bill with an arms embargo section.
Members of the senate who wanted to postpone action, Mr. Roosevelt declared, have been gambling with the possibility that war will not eventuate.
Prayer Only Recourse
The chief executive indicated that the neutrality controversy was closed until congress reassembles next January, so far as he was concerned.
About all we can do between now and January is pray there won't be another crisis and pray awfully hard, Mr. Roosevelt declared.
Six senators who attended the Tuesday night conference talked about it somewhat freely, the president was asked whether he cared to say anything from his angle.
Clashes at Meet Denied
He denied there were any clashes at the meeting, which was attended by both democratic and republican leaders of the senate. Reports of clashes, he said, were made entirely out of whole cloth. There was only one disagreement between any of the individuals present, he said. Senator Borah, he went on, did intimate rather clearly and definitely that his private information from Europe was better than that received by the United States government.
After Secretary Hull had taken Borah up on that point, Mr. Roosevelt said, the senator finally asserted he had not meant to infer his information was better. The whole affair, the president said, was couched in very parliamentary language.
Asked whether Vice-President Garner had "stepped into the situation," the president said he had not. He said Garner had not made a statement, attributed to him by some of those at the conference, to the effect that: "We might as well be candid, captain, you haven't got the votes."
