RECREATION NEWS

Douglas County Conditions Summarized in Forestry Service Bulletin.

With the advent of the hot dry weather of the past week, the streams of the Umpqua area have fallen to new lows for the season. Fishing remains fair to good in the higher elevations, but for the most part is reported to be poor in the lower streams and at those points most easily reached by fishermen.

Bohemia District

Fishing: Fishing is reported to be poor, with very few fishermen on the streams.

Roads: All roads are open.

Fairview: Ninety-nine visitors signed the register at the lookout station on top of Fairview mountain last Sunday. Those wishing to cool off this week will find no snow, as the last of the drifts have disappeared. The temperature, however, has been kind to the mountaintop, with 79 degrees the maximum temperature recorded during the hot spell. It is recommended that those driving to the lookout use the Bruce Creek road, as the Sharps Creek road is very steep, narrow and hazardous.

North Umpqua District

Fishing: Steadfast fishing is reported to be very slow. Exports are landing an occasional fish, the best reported being one of 3 pounds, 14 ounces taken above Rock creek Thursday evening. Five of these great fish were taken in the Idlewild-Rock creek section Thursday, which may or may not indicate that a fresh run is ascending the river. Trout were reported to be rising well in the Steamboat area, with but few fishermen on the river. From Idlewild comes a report of good catches of large cutthroat trout running in length from 12 to 18 inches. Little river is very low and is getting quite warm; fishing poor.

Roads: The North Umpqua road is open to the Hlabece bridge this week-end—closed beyond that point. The Little river and Red Butte roads are in good condition after a thorough working.

Trip: To those wishing to make an interesting drive, much of it through a beautiful stand of virgin timber climaxed by an unsurpassed view from a forest lookout station, a trip to Red butte is suggested. Cars can be driven to within a mile of this lookout, and the balance of the distance is not a difficult walk.

South Umpqua District

Fishing: Fishing at Fish Lake has slumped during the past week and is now reported to be only fair. Fly fishing is still fair in the upper reaches of the creeks, but is reported to be poor in the South Umpqua river and all streams of lower elevation.

Roads: The Tiller-Trail highway is being oiled and it is necessary to detour seven miles between Trail creek and the top of the divide. Aside from this, all roads in the district are reported to be in good condition.

Diamond Lake District

Fishing: Fishing at Diamond Lake is fair. Best success has been had trolling with a Dave Davis and worms. At times the evening fly fishing is fair, almost any grey or brown fly being effective. The streams are becoming somewhat choked out along roads and trails, but fly fishing is still good in the more remote areas. Let's all pull together as one and keep our forests green and enjoyable. They are for your wise use.

Rides: A commercial packer is now stationed at Diamond Lake, with 14 head of saddle and pack stock available for public use.

Pests: Mosquitoes are still present in sufficient numbers to be unpleasant at times.

The past few days seen the highest temperatures and lowest humidity of the year, with resultant dangerous fire weather. The public is urged to cooperate in helping the forest service preserve our forests from fire. This can best be done by conscientious observation of the forest protective laws. These include the law which prohibits smoking while traveling forest roads and trails; the law that requires the securing of campfire permits except in a few improved forest camps (which are always plainly posted to the effect that no permit is necessary); and the requirement that all campers outside these posted camps must be equipped with axe, shovel and water bucket. We are trying hard to keep the Umpqua forest open to public use even during these very dangerous periods, and ask your wholehearted cooperation. Let's all pull together as one and keep our forests green and enjoyable. They are for your wise use.

Umpqua National Forest.

MARKET REPORTS

BOSTON, July 28.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"The volume of business transacted in the wool market this past week has diminished compared with that of the previous week but still there has been a fair business done and prices have been firmly maintained on the basis of a 68-cent market for class 111 fine wools.

"Stocks at country points have become notably reduced. One bears some irregularity in price paid but mostly values are fully on the basis of a week ago and there is no evidence of weakness. Medium wools are very firm.

"In the piecegoods markets, the demand for men's wear lines is reported slower but interest in women's wear is improved.

"London closed with prices on Merinos about at the opening level, although crossbreeds lost about half the opening advance when the

IDENTITY OF DEAD MAN NOT OBTAINED

Sheriff Percy Webb reported receipt of information today from the federal bureau of identification, that there is no registration of the finger prints secured July 20 from the body of a man found dead near Glendale. The finger prints were secured after the body, with the throat slashed, had been found by two boys on Section creek near Glendale, about five days after death. A bloodstained knife and partially consumed bottle of liquor found near the body caused Coroner H. C. Stevens to declare death due to suicide.

pressure for military supplies eased. New Zealand crutchings sales this week have been very strong, with local mills and American keen buyers.

"Mohair is hardly changed, although the demand for kid hair is somewhat improved."
