PEDESTALS OF FASHION

Gay Gypsy Stripes and Sedate Magenta Have Equal Chic

Up-to-the-minute and back-to-the-Eighties ideas are seen in these smart clothes chosen by stars of the entertainment world. Marsha Hunt of the films (left), wears an evening gown of emerald green silk jersey with the skirt gaily striped in gypsy colors. The long sleeves are modifications of the dolman. The novel heart-shaped handbag is of gold kid. Operatic star Lily Pons (right), revives magenta, a color favorite of the Eighties and combines it with mist-blue in her Valentino costume. Of silk crepe, the dress is simple in line. A wide shirred belt, facing in front, creates a corset effect. The tuxedo coat is of mist-blue wool crepe. Mist-blue is also used for the net which forms the hat and veil. Topping the hat is a high nosegay of French roses.
