If you have not been out on the country highways and had a look at the gorgeous fall colors on one of these brilliant fall days, you have missed a rare treat. The recent soaking rains started the grass. The fall coloring of the leaves on the brilliant green plush background of grass is well more words fail, but "marvelous" nearly describes it.

And speaking of the weather, always an absorbing (and) safe topic of conversation, Reverend Perry Smith explains how the Indian medicine man so accurately predicts the forthcoming winter for the benefit of his brother redskins. The medicine man, says Perry, reveals his secret with this enlightening statement: "White man putten lots of wood in cellar, this fall."

In Detroit 100,000 employees of the Chrysler corporation are out on strike. They have been idle more than two weeks. The corporation states, and the statement is not refuted by the CIO leadership, that the union has one objective and that is to compel the corporation to collect dues for the organization out of the wages due to the workers. The company refuses to do that.

Here is a peculiar thing in the history of labor. The union leaders have engineered a strike, not because of grievances against the employer but to compel the employer to act as a collecting agency for the union. In other words if we understand the situation correctly, the men are striking to force the company to force them to pay dues!

The business boom on account of the war is exceedingly slow in making itself felt. Carloadings are up. Building permits are up. Many commodity prices are climbing. And yet the average prices of leading stocks on the New York Stock Exchange are lower than they were a year ago today. If there was a real boom in progress it would certainly be reflected in the securities markets. People buy industrial stocks when they believe the industries will be doing more business, hence making more profit, hence making the stocks more valuable. The stocks obviously do not appear to be more attractive to buyers than they were before the war—or of offers to buy would hoist the prices.

But what is wrong? Why do not the figures that ordinarily indicate an upswing mean increased earnings for business? It may be that our industrial house is not in order. The trouble at the Chrysler plant and threats of trouble in various other places may tend to make investment in industrial stocks uninteresting.

as to cloud our judgment and common sense. That is what happened in 1917.

MOTHERS of boys who will DIE if this nation permits itself to be swept off its feet by sentiment, as was the case in 1917, can only pray that THIS TIME the common sense of the American people may prevail against the determined efforts that will be made to push us into a war where we have no business.

OREGON EVENTS FLASHED FROM WIRE SERVICE

SALEM, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Keith Henderson, 15, was killed last night when he was struck by one automobile and hurled into the path of another. Witnesses told state police the boy was walking on the road.

OUT OUR WAY

BORN THIRTY YEARS TOO SOON

RAMBLINGS

By PAUL JENKINS

Dear me, but boys will be boys. I reckon last night must have been Halloween. Asked offhand, I don't suppose one youngster out of a dozen could tell just exactly what Halloween stands for, or why he celebrates it. All he knows, it's a time to go out and raise all the hades he can think of, or, all he thinks he can get away with.

STATZ TO MANAGE L. A. BASEBALL CLUB

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Arnold Statz, "the people's choice," will manage the Los Angeles baseball club next year. David P. Fleming, president of the club, handed the 42-year-old outfielder a two-year contract—reward for many years of valuable service to the Angel organization. The appointment was made to replace Harry (Truck) Hannah. Statz has been with the Angels continuously since 1929, but first came to Los Angeles in 1926, re-appeared in an Angel uniform in 1925 and played with the Cubs and Brooklyn in between. He batted .311 last season and was ranked an outstanding fielder.

COPCO FILM SHOWS 'JUICE' PRODUCTION

A technical motion picture, "The Power Behind the Switch," produced by The California Oregon Power company, was given its first showing in Roseburg Tuesday at the regular luncheon meeting of the Roseburg Kiwanis club. The picture was brought to Roseburg by T. H. News, local Copco manager. The film is to be used here for several days in educational programs at the various schools and before civic clubs. The history of the company and much interesting information regarding the production and use of electric energy is presented in unique form by means of the pictures. Until recent years Halloween, as a holiday, always has been kind of a push-over; but dear old Uncle Sam, with his "Projects de Sanitation," bedded and bolted in concrete, has ruined all this. It seems he always does, when he turns his hands to private affairs.

LETTERS to the Editor

LONGER HUNTING SEASON FAVORED AS SAFETY PLAN

Canyonville, Oregon To the Editor: No, the suggestion you made in a recent editorial would not solve the fatal accidents of the hunting season.

My definition would be to throw wide open the hunting season as of old. Let men go into the woods when and as often as they wish, but restrict them as to number and not allow wasting of meat or killing for hides.

We never, under the old order of hunting, had fathers killing sons, friends or enemies, and you can't law hunters into being careful until too late.

Deer are killed, even though it makes criminals of the killers and less criminals if we did not throw thousands of men into the woods at the same time. I think if the hunting season was opened for eight or nine months during the year so men could take more time and do their hunting at leisure and not be forced to go at a certain time and only a short period at most, hunting accidents, so far as killing one another are concerned, would be a thing of the past. Hunting licenses could cover 8 or 9 months as well as one. I think spot-lighting would also be done away with.

Yours for a longer hunting season. LOU KNIGHT.

YULE SEAL SALE CHAIRMEN NAMED

T. C. Hartlieb, president of the Douglas County Public Health association, announces the appointment of Mrs. C. E. Roberts as Christmas seal sale chairman for Douglas county and Mrs. T. J. Wriston as chairman for the city of Roseburg. The complete list of chairmen throughout the county will be announced later. Committees are being organized and plans made for the 1939 sale.

GRIDIRON GOSSIP

WESTERN STATES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The secret-practice sign was out today when Southern California's football squad reported for its last drill before entraining for Portland and the clash with Oregon State. Extensive pass practice was scheduled as Trojan coaches dissected reports of the strong Heaver line. Quarterback Lansdel seemed to have regained his 1938 pitching form against California last week, and doubtless will handle much of the aerial tactics this Saturday. The team was pronounced in good condition.

PULLMAN, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Washington State college Cougars are showing more pep and fight in their scrimmages this week than at any time this season, Coach Hollingbery reported after yesterday's workout. He said the return to condition of Stan Johnson, the first string tackle, and Rex Bantz, fullback, had put new life in his squad which will run again the University of Oregon Webfoet at Eugene Saturday.

EUGENE, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Leonard Isberg, University of Oregon half back who topped all Webfoet backs in the UCLA contest with an average of 14 yards per down, continued his powerful offensive work in scrimmage yesterday as the team worked out for the Pacific coast conference game Saturday with Washington State here.

Daily Devotions

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

There is an old slogan with which we are all too familiar, "In times of peace prepare for war." Sometimes it is quoted to buttress the argument that preparation for war is the best guarantee of peace. History provides abundant evidence to the contrary. Continual preparation for war is bound, sooner or later to lead to war. The exact moment when hostilities will break out may not be predictable, what is predictable, however, is that war is inevitable so long as nations pile up armaments, equip huge armies and fortify boundaries. We realize, of course, how impossible it is for any one nation to stand out against armed preparedness, when all her neighbors are making military plans. We are not arguing that issue. We merely point out that history provides abundant evidence to support the general thesis, that nations get what they prepare for. The church which is built on the foundation of peace and good-will should be engaged even now, in formulating general principles on which a peace can be made which would be just to all peoples and nations. Amen.

Coach Jim Phelan said he planned to move the accurate passing 155-pound son of the well-known coast conference football official into a second string spot behind Ernie Steele for the Montana game here. In scrimmage all season Huebel has played the role of the opponent's ace in the next Saturday's game.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Oregon State college has waited all its football life for the time, place and circumstances for its big game with Southern California at Portland Saturday. The Beavers, who shine usually only in their own Pacific coast backyard, now find themselves in the limelight, facing the mighty Trojans, and on the threshold of gridiron fame—and shekels—the Rose Bowl. The winner of Saturday's game. It looks from this distance, is on the road to Pasadena. The Beavers are on the small end of 3 to 1 odds, but that hasn't completely dispirited the odor of roses for them.

KIDNAPERS LOSE HIGH COURT PLEA

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 31.—(AP)—The third appellate court today upheld the conviction of Robert and Ollen Grimes on a charge of kidnaping Mrs. Norma Meeks in Sutter county Sept. 1, 1938. The court pictured the kidnaping of the frail woman, wife of a Rio Oro fruitgrower, as a plainly proved case of abduction for the purpose of extortion. The Grimes are serving a life sentence.
