RURAL FOLKS USE MOST CANNED MILK

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—More canned milk, in proportion to fresh, is used in rural areas of America than in cities. Dr. Leland Spencer of Cornell university told the International Association of Milk Dealers' convention here.

"The largest use of canned milk was found among rural families that kept no cows," he said, reporting results of marketing surveys. "Such families interviewed in a New Jersey survey bought 79 per cent of their milk canned. Buffalo, N. Y., has a higher consumption of canned milk than most other cities."

The greatest amount of canned milk per person, he reported, was found in the cattle country of the west—the Pacific coast states, the west north central and the Rocky mountain sections.

In the cities, he said, those who use the canned product reported they did so chiefly because of cost.

Turkey Growers Open New Shipping Station

The building, dressing and shipping station, recently authorized for Roseburg by the directors of the Oregon Turkey Growers association has been completed and placed in operation. The plant, pictured above, and located at Mosher and Patton streets, affords facilities for killing and dressing with the semi-scale method. Refrigeration facilities permit pre-cooling of birds prior to packing. The method is utilized at similar plants in Canby and Eugene and is reported to provide a much better pack than was obtainable under the former dry picking system. The Roseburg station is under the management of James E. Conn, who is pictured in front of the new building.

The annual convention of the Douglas County Agricultural Conservation Association, to be held at 1:30 p. m. November 8, in the association office in Roseburg, will feature an announcement by J. J. Holland, Parkers secretary.

Delegates from each of the ten community committees in the county are expected. The conservation association is in charge of administering the Douglas county program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, with which 1927 farmers of this county cooperate. All farmers taking part in the A. A. program automatically are members of the conservation association. The following is the list of delegates from each of the communities in this county: Cow Creek community, O. G. Seider, alternate, W. B. Garrett; Hilde community, R. P. Nichols, alternate, E. P. Blumsted; Day's Creek community, John H. Ferguson, alternate, Lawrence Michaels; Myrtle Creek community, O. E. Weeks, alternate, Roy W. Albaugh; Roseburg community, Willard Smith, alternate, Chas. S. O. S. C. OVERCOME BY TROJAN POWER

PORTLAND, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Southern California playing football reminiscent of the great Trojan teams of the early 70s, toppled Oregon State 19-7 Saturday and moved into the portals of the Rose bowl.

The Beavers held off the giant O. S. C. team for one quarter but went down in the second before a piercing aerial attack that netted two touchdowns in approximately 10 minutes. Nave passed to Slatter for the first one from the 11-yard line and Schindler lofted the ball to Krueger for the second from the 43-yard line. Lamsdell passed to Pickett to put the ball on the O. S. C. 5 in the third period from where Lamsdell took it over in three chunks at the line.

Oregon State showed only one belated flash but it was good for a touchdown in the last minute. Gene Gray returned a Trojan punt 26 yards to the O. S. C. 36, then threw a 22-yard pass to Dueden who ran another 33 yards being thrown out of bounds on the Trojan nine. Dueden passed to Hackenbruch for seven and slipped through tackle for the touchdown. Younce converted.

EUGENE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Oregon stepped back into winning form Saturday night and defeated Washington State, 35-0, the most decisive victory for the Ducks this season and their biggest score over the Cougars in history.

Completely outclassed, the WSC men made only one scoring threat. They reached the Oregon 17-yard line after a pass interception but lost the ball on downs.

Oregon scored in every quarter, gained 114 yards and 22 first downs, won the 78 and 7, completing 14 out of 25 passes.

INDIANA MAN WINS CORN HUSKING TITLE

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Lawrence (Shim) Pitzer, 40, Abbea, Ind., felt all along this was his year to win the national corn husking contest—and he was right. Pitzer walked away with the title by out-husking 20 other contestants from 11 states in agriculture's biggest sports classic. Officials estimated 115,000 watched the event. He had a net of 28.39 bushels of corn for the 30-minute contest. The second place man, Richard Huth, Minnesota state champion, husked 27.03 bushels.

Pitzer won the Indiana championship four consecutive years—a record—from 1932 to 1935. He is married; has a son 17 years old, and farms 300 acres. He has 160 acres of corn awaiting his attention, but "sh-h-h, I'll use a mechanical corn picker on that."

POTATO CENTERS SHOW LOWER CROPS

PORTLAND, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A market survey showed the output of three major northwest potato producing centers, Klamath Falls, Deschutes and Yakima, probably would be less than preliminary estimates.

Joe Jacob of Malin reported the decrease in the Klamath county production ranged from 25 to 33 per cent. The quality remained good but the tubers were smaller. Trilake, Calif., potatoes were cleaner because of dry weather.

The quality of Deschutes potatoes were described as "excellent" but there was a shortage of No. 1 stock in Yakima.

OREGON BOY RAISES CHAMPION STEER

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Bill McDonald, 19-year-old graduate of The Dalles, Ore., high school, won the grand championship of the 11th annual Western Livestock show with his Hereford steer, Oregon Supreme.

McDonald, a 4-H club member and owner of a 10-acre ranch, said he would use the money he received from the sale of his prize-winning steer to buy more land and livestock.

The steer, which will probably bring around $1 a pound for his live weight of 1,000 pounds, will be auctioned Friday.

The grand champion lamb at the show sold for $2.50 a pound. The champion was a 90-pound Southdown bred and raised by the Brownell ranch of Woodland, Calif.

FARM ODDITIES

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia.—J. Homer Walcott, farmer at nearby Chain Lakes, is wondering whether an undercove "livestock exchange" is in operation on his farm.

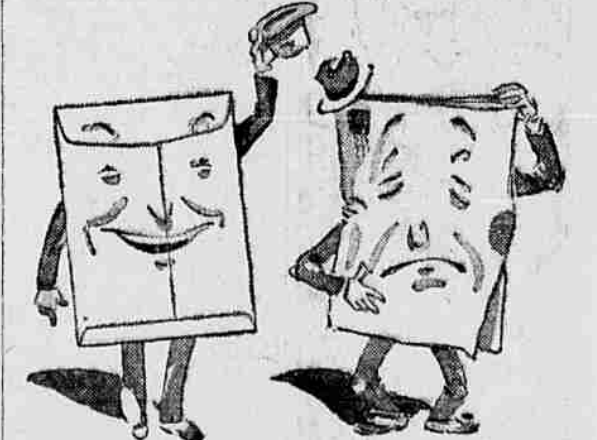

Walcott said he found eight small black pigs on his farm a week ago that were not his. Several days later 10 more of a like variety were found at the place.

Mystified, Walcott began checking his own livestock and learned a steer was missing.

LYNCHBURG, Va.—This city, where Thomas Jefferson taught the public that the tomato was good to eat, now boasts a tomato-growing champion. W. E. Martin, the champ, produced a tomato plant which grew to a height of 12 feet in his back yard.

SPRINGER, N. M.—(AP)—Here

Here's some "horse-sense" about HORSEPOWER. Horsepower isn't much good if you can't use it. And by use it we mean—put it to work WHEN you want it—WHERE you need it. For example, the "Caterpillar" Diesel D2 Tractor turns more than 80% of its engine horsepower into drawbar pull. That's because of its simple, direct transmission and the positive grip of its tracks on all kinds of ground. Try one and you'll see what we mean by "horsepower you can use." Which Salesman would get the Order? If you're thinking of a mailing piece, you'll be interested in seeing some practical "case histories" we have where the pulling power of envelope-carried mail is compared with that of self-mailers. We have no axe to grind—we can print either kind—but would like to find the most effective plan for you. We can also show you what are the standard envelopes, of all shapes, sizes, types and stock. The use of a standard envelope often saves money—and usually saves time. Let us show you the "case histories," and talk mailing pieces with you. Orders taken until November 25 only at this price.
