WHAT NEUTRALITY ACT DOES

Granting of credits to belligerents or solicitation of contributions for them, except for relief of suffering caused by war, is prohibited by neutrality bill.

Arming of American merchant vessels restricted to such small arms and ammunition as are necessary for the preservation of discipline aboard ship.

Foreign vessels cannot fly flag of the U. S. to escape capture, nor can they use markings to indicate they are American ships. Vessels so doing would be barred to U. S. ports.

President empowered to bar subs, armed ships from U. S.

American vessels may not sail in combat area shown on map, cannot carry passengers or goods to ports in this area. President is empowered to proclaim, as he has indicated he would, that American citizens travel on belligerent ships in war waters at their own risk. Title to all goods shipped to combatants must be transferred before these items leave American shores.

Munitions exporters, exporters must register, list products.

HAWAIIAN VISIT FOUND INTERESTING

MYRTLE CREEK, Nov. 7.—A recent letter received by Editor C. A. Riddle from George Godfrey, who with Mrs. Godfrey is living in Waianu, Oahu, T. H., has much interesting news in it. The Godfreys had intended to sail for America early in October and it was so reported but these plans have been canceled and they will not return until April, at which time their son, Vera, who is employed in the pineapple industry, can get an extended vacation and come home with his parents.

Business is picking up in the islands, says Mr. Godfrey. The army and navy forces are being greatly increased. A very unusual sight was observed recently when the Canadian liner, Empress of Japan, steamed by on the north side of the island, close in, exactly opposite their regular route.

The waters on all sides are being patrolled by planes and the smaller fighting ships of the U. S. navy to enforce neutrality. All the U. S. ships have large flags painted on sides and decks.

Mr. Godfrey also stated that on their return they will probably locate in Myrtle Creek again.

MYRTLE CREEK

MYRTLE CREEK, Nov. 7.—Many old friends of Mrs. H. V. Jones, who has been ill for a long time, will be glad to learn that she is improving, having recently completed two quilts, and is also able to get around her home and attend to some of the household duties.

Several trucks are engaged in hauling the cedar lumber which has been cut by the local R. H. Savage Co. and stacked near the plant, to the new company warehouse located at Riddle. The shed is not finished but is partly roofed and the cedar is being placed in that part of the building until it is completed. Most of the hauling is done at night so that building operations will not be interfered with.

Both are! The idler squanders time and opportunity. The drudge never rests. He forgets that overwork brings fatigue that dims his wits. How wise are those who go to neither extreme... those who can give work and responsibility their full share and then turn to well-deserved recreation. For it is in these hours of relaxation that your family enjoys your companionship. By living a balanced life—you build friendships and develop the art of hospitality. Temperate in all things, you come to a full realization that the world abounds with people and ways to make life inviting, colorful and more worthwhile. Just as surely as a fine violin gives its voice to a symphony, or a soft light complements a painting, so does Budweiser add its contribution to an interesting life-time—a contribution of companionship and contentment for Man and his mood when day's work is done.
