LARGE BAZAAR IS HELD AT DAYS CREEK

DAYS CREEK, Dec. 8.—The bazaar sponsored jointly by the P.-T. A. and Home Economics club and held Friday evening at the school house was voted a huge success. The various booths were well patronized and the displays of antiques and hobbies drew many admiring comments. Included among the hobbies shown was a display of woodwork, burnt leather work, wrought iron work, photography, and stone cutting and polishing from the South Umpqua Falls CCC camp. Other hobbies shown included collections of very lovely needlework and embroidery, model airplanes, arrow heads, stamp collections, scrap books, doll furniture, butterflies, and numerous other items.

The table containing old pictures of local people was surrounded during the evening by groups reminiscing of days recalled by again seeing scenes and groups photographed many years ago. Much merriment too was caused by the baby and childhood pictures of some of the now prominent citizens of the neighborhood.

There were a number of antiques shown, among them being articles ranging in age from fifty to ninety years.

There was a short but very interesting program presented during the evening, the numbers being as follows: An instrumental number by Gem Hutchinson, Elmer Avres and Lester Ferguson; song, "An Apple for the Teacher," Marjorie Wright, Violet Goin and Dolly Wedrig; playlet, "Products of the Valley," prunes, Donna Sumner; corn, Richard Gaulke; basket of fruit, Hazel Welch hay, Johnnie Moore; turkeys, Barbara Snyder; sheep, Bobby Duncan; forests, Marda Montgomery, and mining, Jimmie Moore; melodrama, "Curses! Foiled Again," heroine, Wiletha Hutchinson; hero, Lester Ferguson villian, Lester Jackson; detective, Roy Boyd; heroine's mother, Susie Crispen, and lady of mystery, Josephine Wright; instrumental number, "Beautiful Ohio," Gem Hutchinson, Elmer Ayers and Lester Ferguson, and a reading, "Fairies," by Alice Welch.

POET'S CORNER

The following was published in a volume of poems entitled Just Cats.

NO SALE

"Observe the cat," my mother urged.
"How clean she keeps her fur;
She washes seven times a day—
"Why can't you be like her?"

I shook my head. "The cat," I said,
"Is not what she appears.
"In spite of all her cleanliness,
"She still has dirty ears!"

MARKET REPORTS

WOOL

BOSTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"Slight improvement is reported in the wool textile markets this week. A little more inquiry for wool reflects a slight improvement in the mill position and a general feeling that, although there may be no acute shortage of wool, there is not likely to be too large a selection on which to trade in the next few months.

"A release of 10,000,000 pounds of Australian wool to this country by Britain is considered insignificant and the basis on which this wool may be obtained (an important phase of the question) is not yet known officially. Meanwhile buying at the cape and in South Africa for this country continues steadily, at firm prices.

"Activity in the west is limited, both cause of the light supply and the firmness of the holders.

"Mohair is dull, with prices barely firm."

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Butter, butterfat, eggs, cheese, country meats, live poultry, turkeys, onions, potatoes, hay, wool, mohair, cascara and hops steady and unchanged.

Toms ranged from 17 to 20 pounds generally with a few going to 25 pounds. Resale prices were about 16½ cents a pound for toms and 21 cents for hens.

British Blockade Illegal, U. S. Says

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The United States, formally reserving all its rights to recover on damages which it may suffer as a result of Britain's blockade of German exports, today called the blockade a breach of the principles of international law.

In a formal note to Great Britain made public by the state department the American government said it was "under the necessity of requesting that measures adopted by the British government shall not cause interference with the legitimate trade of its nationals and of reserving meanwhile all its rights and the rights of its nationals whenever, and to the extent that, they may be infringed."

The department also told the British foreign office that the British order, if applied literally, "would subject American vessels to diversion to British ports if they are found to be carrying goods of German origin or German ownership regardless of the place of lading of such goods or the place of destination and regardless of the ownership of the goods at the time that the vessel is intercepted."

Britain's attention was called to the combat area order, under the neutrality act, which prohibits American ships from engaging in commerce on the west coast of Europe between Bergen, Norway, and the northern part of Spain, and said that "consequently, justification for interfering with American vessels or their cargoes on grounds of breach of blockade can hardly arise."
