Indian Theater Stars Real Indian

By M. W. B.
 "Geronimo!" That blood-curdling cry once struck fear into the hearts of brave frontiersmen of the great southwest and warned them that the cruellest, most savage redskin of all time was again on the warpath. This venomous speech, which led the last great Indian uprising in the territories of Arizona and New Mexico during the latter part of the nineteenth century, forms the basis for the hair-raising attraction, "Geronimo," which opened at the Indian theatre Wednesday.

Though almost devoid of heart interest, the tale of the terrorizing, ravaging Geronimo and his path of destruction until his final capture, is nevertheless a story bristling with action. It is full of suspense, yet punctuated many times with welcome comedy relief.

The blood-thirsty savage, Geronimo, is played by a full-blooded
 Cherokee Indian, Chief Thunder
 Cloud, who turns in a very convincing performance. A newswear, a color cartoon, "Stoux Me," and another Grouch club comedy complete the bill.

BY means of a few well chosen words spread upon the pages of millions of copies of magazines and newspapers the state of Oregon will this year be moved to within reasonable touring distance from large centers of population south and east. Attractive advertising to be placed during 1940 in various publications under the direction of Harold B. Say for the Oregon state highway commission carries this statement: "Drive to Oregon this summer—the vacation trip of a lifetime! Only 49 hours easy driving time from Chicago, 13 hours from Yellowstone Park, 10 hours from San Francisco—every mile over paved roads."

These advertisements, which will be seen by several million people, emphasize the fact that Oregon is actually not so distant from other sections of the country when the distance is calculated in driving time. They also point out the fact that Oregon scenic attractions may be enjoyed at a low average cost per person per day of travel.

Tourist business this year should be as good if not better than last. Reasons for this prediction are several. Business forecasts unanimously are for a better year—making more payrolls, more profits and consequently more money available for spending on outings. The wars in Europe and in the Orient prevent travel in those foreign lands. The fact that belligerent warships may start their fighting at almost any place—whether the point of conflict be near the coast of the Americas or not—will prevent many people from doing any ocean voyaging at all, so they will doubtless do their traveling in their own country. The New York fair will be open again in 1940. The San Francisco fair will also keep open this season.

Income from tourist travel is new money for circulation in our state. This income represents the largest single income source we have.

The wisdom of the state spending money to advertise for the purpose of increasing this source of revenue is repeatedly proven. Statistics compiled by the highway commission show not only that a substantial portion of the travel increase is directly a result of the advertising but that the tax on the gasoline consumed by the visitors attracted by the advertising almost pays the advertising bill. In other words our state advertising is very nearly a self-liquidating project.

der. All leaves for British soldiers on the western front have been cancelled. New rumors are out that Hitler is planning to strike at Britain and France through the relatively unprotected low countries.

This is the logic of the situation: If you wanted to get somewhere and the shortest road was barred by a high fence, you'd try to get AROUND THE END. Belgium and Holland are at one end of the Maginot line fence.

SALEM, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A. C. Yaden, Klamath Falls attorney, filed a declaration of candidacy today for circuit judge in Klamath county, the post now held by Judge Edward R. Ashurst.

His ballot slogan will be "23 years in law practice—six years referee in bankruptcies."

St. Patrick's Day May Be Observed on April 3

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The 17th of March—the birthday of St. Patrick and a great day for the Irish—may be observed on April 3, this year.

Joseph E. Kerrigan, national president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, explained that March 17 falls on Palm Sunday, followed by Holy week and other feast dates which take precedence in the liturgy of the Catholic church. As a result, he said, the April date might be the first in which Ireland's patron saint could be honored properly.

Inquiry from all sections of the country have caused the national president to ask the advice of Monsignor Fulton J. Sheen, of Catholic university, Washington, D. C., who is national chaplain of the order.

Destroyer Swarm For U. S. is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Samuel M. Robinson, chief of naval engineering, told the house naval affairs committee today the United States navy should have a swarm of destroyers to "control the seas" in event of war.

Defending the destroyer building program against criticism of Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.), that perhaps the destroyer figures of the naval expansion bill were much too large, the admiral, who is coordinator of naval construction, asserted:

"Our situation is much like that of England, in the matter of control of the seas. A nation like Germany, at the outbreak of war, must surrender control."
 Vinson remarked:
 "The bill calls for 40 new destroyers. Why are we running wild on destroyer construction, as compared with ships of other categories? Why not forget them for a while and we can authorize them later on?"

Robinson replied the plan was to buy down 76 destroyers (including replacements) in the next four years at a cost of $822,800,000.

As Vinson asked the naval officer to "bear in mind the pocket-book," and explain why the navy insisted on so many destroyers, Robinson replied that he'd rather not answer the question.

Representative Bates (R., Mass.) however, asserted:
 "Isn't it because other nations have embarked on great building programs and isn't it true that the submarine is the answer to the destroyer building question?"

Robinson nodded his head vigorously.

LETTERS to the Editor

DEFENDS GERMAN PEOPLE, WOULD OUST THEIR RULERS

Canyonville, Ore., Jan. 12, '40
 Editor News-Review
 Replies to questionnaires sent out by the publisher of "Pathfinder" indicate that over eighty per cent of us would like to see Germany defeated in the present war. Why?

Before trying to answer that question it may not be amiss to consider the historic background of what is now the Reich ("ed" pronounced as "s" in try). Germany includes Prussia, Austria, Bavaria, Saxony and a number of smaller kingdoms and principalities, also Danzig and the provinces which the treaty of Versailles had given to Poland, Austria, which had seceded from the Germanic federation in 1866 is now reunited with the "Waterland" as well as Bohemia, which had been a member of the federation for 900 years.

In fact, a king of Bohemia was elected German emperor when that empire was elective. In the recruiting of the Germans there is really nothing that should concern us. Why, then, our antagonism?

England's reasons for making war upon Germany are not our reasons. England fears for her world supremacy. A strong Germany may compel the return of the colonies, which were mandated to England, France and Belgium, hence England would like to see Germany again broken up into fragments. It is a war not for the protection of small nations but of the "haves" against the "have-nots" in our country.

We cannot ignore that we are deeply indebted to the Germans for much splendid work done in all fields of science and for the best in music. Those of us who, traveling or as doughboys quartered in Germany, came in close contact with the Germans, found them to be friendly, industrious folks, whom it would be difficult to hate. Do we really hate the German people?

We may blame the Germans for allowing themselves to be misled by Hitler's extraordinary, persuasive oratory, by his promises which the Fatherland was sunk in deep despair and by his achievements in re-uniting the nation, but have we the right to criticize when we ourselves often elect political candidates to high offices in our man-

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DHL CHAS. A. EDWARDS
 The prophet Jeremiah pictured a day of great restoration for Israel, when his captivity would be over, and her liberty and enlargement should come. Jeremiah was never in much doubt as to why his people had been afflicted. Their troubles had come upon them because they had forsaken their God. That, doubtless is an old-fashioned philosophy, of course, but nothing has happened in the World from that day to this to prove that it is not essentially true. And it is just as true in our world today as it was in Jeremiah's day. Our day of real thanksgiving and merry-making will not come save through a new devotion to the will and mind of God. Thou must be true to thyself, if thou the truth wouldst reach. Thy soul must overflow if thou another soul wouldst reach. For it takes the overflow of man's heart to give the lips full speech. Give us grace and wisdom dear Father, to listen to thy voice and to obey thy commandments for Jesus sake. Amen.

Portland Commissioner Charges "Open" Gaming

PORTLAND, Jan. 18.—(AP)—J. E. Bennett, city commissioner, charged yesterday that gambling was "wide open" in the downtown district.

Bennett wrote Lieut. John Schmitt, police vice squad chief, that between 25 and 50 establishments were operating, including a lottery room within two blocks of police headquarters.

The commissioner said he made an investigation Tuesday night. Police pointed to the street docket which showed 29 persons arrested
