HOLD YOUR HATS, GIRLS! HERE ARE LATEST ANGLES ON SPRING BONNETS

In spite of all the talk about the return to vanity in hats, look what's happened. Consider, for example, the model at left. Your tank it's a geometric problem or the results of a child's effort to build something with his blocks. Don't you? Not at all. It's a hat. And it's made entirely of folds of buckram. Notice the elaborate ear clip shown with it. At right is a little something alleged to have been inspired by the bonnets Marie Antoinette wore. Anyway, it's layers of pink and blue tulle with false curls of pink tulle across the forehead.

W.C.T.U. HAS FINE MEETING WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

W.C.T.U. met in regular session at the home of Mrs. A. C. Marston on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. R. A. Herscher had charge of the devotional period, and in connection read a beautiful poem in memory of Mrs. Alba Stauch. Mrs. Spaulding had been the very efficient secretary of the organization for the past three years and will be sadly missed.

Mrs. C. H. Beard spoke in memory of Mrs. Spaulding and played a medley of beautiful hymns in her memory. The following resolutions were drawn up by the members of the organization:

Whereas it has pleased God in his infinite wisdom to take from our midst one of His children, we bow to His will and altho' we shall miss her sorely, we know that she is with Him whom she so dearly loved and faithfully served.

We extend our sympathy to the husband and son, also the other relatives.

Dr. C. A. Edwards gave the
