IF it has seemed a little quiet lately, it may be because quite a few of the gentlemen who would like to peddle undemocratic forms of government in these United States have been left to their meditations in peaceful jail cells.

Hundstuehrer Fritz Kuhn is in hibernation in an upstate New York jug. His lieutenant, James Wheeler-Hill, was recently sentenced to a one to three-year term, also in New York. Earl Browder is under conviction, but is at liberty pending an appeal. Several of Browder's communist companions have been tripped up by the law. Seventeen New York Christian Fronters are waiting to be tried on conspiracy charges against the government.

All in all, it looks like an off season for people who want to take American democracy for a gangster ride. No tears are dropped when enemies of the government are put on ice for a few years. There is no loud protest from the citizenry when movements that are actually subversive are clipped.

Despite the vigilance of authorities and the knowledge that circumstances have combined to cripple un-American groups, it would be a mistake to sigh deeply and say, "That's that." It probably isn't. The communist party, for instance, hasn't been rendered ineffectual, simply because a couple of its leaders are in jail or under sentence.

Its members realize that their cause is particularly unpopular these days, but that will not stop them from pursuing their objectives along different trails. The propaganda of the reds, as well as that of profascist groups, will be disguised a little better, perhaps, but it will not be stopped.

The biggest danger legitimate organizations face these days is the intrusion of communists into their circles, particularly into positions of dominance. Such has been the red strategy in recent years; and, although it was supposedly abandoned some time during the last year, there is little reason to believe that it is not being used now.

There is no reason to suspect everyone within a group. Every dissembler from a popular cause is not a communist. He may be a sincere objector, without any taint of Ism in his character.

Organizations, desiring to steer clear of communist influence, must be doubly cautious these days. Many of them might well follow the lead of the American Civil Liberties union, which has expressed itself in favor of eliminating any known communists from administrative positions.

To hurl charges indiscriminately would be unfair. Motives must be examined, background questioned, sincerity of purpose ascertained before anyone is branded a communist.

But at the same time, this is no time to pamper known reds or fascists. Americans can find no better way of expressing their profound contempt for the methods of Stalin and Hitler than by treating the champions of dictators contemptuously.

A PROPOSAL to simplify the process of naturalizing aliens has been made by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. Under existing laws, she told the Commonwealth club of San Francisco, tests for immigrants are too drastic.

She recommended that requirements for "responsible aliens" be relaxed. This would include, Miss

Perkins said, literacy tests for elderly aliens.

The millions of Americans out of work could not be expected to take kindly to any plan that would open the gates to a flood of aliens, potential competitors for the few jobs available. After a reasonable number of immigrants have been admitted, it should be the desire of officials everywhere to make them good Americans as soon as possible. Sufficient time must be given them, however, for reflections on the responsibilities of citizenship and to make certain they are fully prepared to relinquish their loyalties to any other countries.

a week or ten days in advance. Your dealer sends the order to Detroit. The description comes back, and the motor vehicle division of the secretary of state's office returns the license plates.

When you get there, your car is all ready in a big room, serviced, polished, filled with gas and with the license plates all on. You sign a receipt, your signature is compared with the one on your order (this to head off smart crooks who might try a little impersonation) and you step in and drive off.

It's as simple as that.

A PLEASANT preliminary in-gleach at the Dearborn Inn—a part of the Ford Greenfield Village set-up. It costs a dollar, and would be worth twice that even if there were no food. The dining room is one of the loveliest in America.

THE Village itself ought to have a week. If you're average, you do it in a couple of hours and if you're a poor tourist, your snafu a look over the fence and go home and brag about having seen it.

Greenfield Village is a colonial village, transported to Dearborn and set up in appropriate surroundings. Everything is real. Everything works. There's a colonial school that children actually attend. The spinning wheels spin. And so on.

You may feel otherwise, but to this writer pure colonial architecture, with its clean, simple lines, is so beautiful it hurts. Greenfield Village is pure colonial. That's about all that needs to be said.

AN admission fee of 25 cents is charged, and the records indicate that it costs Henry Ford $1.25 in overhead, upkeep, etc., for every person who goes through. This writer expresses herewith sincere appreciation and thanks for the $1 deficit incurred on his account.

Sharing rare and beautiful things with others deserves thanks.

GREENFIELD VILLAGE, the Ford transportation museum and the great Ford factory itself are something unique in the world, combining beauty and culture and utility as they ought to be combined.

Man isn't a grubbing insect, like an ant. He has a SOUL. Nothing is truer than this: If man spends all his time feeding wild hyacinths to his soul he'll wind up as a sap or a alky—or both. But when he can combine beauty and culture with hard useful work, MAN HAS SOMETHING.

The great Ford enterprises at Dearborn manage to do just that.

Mrs. Kietzer Aspirant for National P.-T. A. Head

Mrs. William Kietzer of Portland, a former resident of Yonahville was certified yesterday to the national board at Chicago as a candidate for the presidency of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

"Gone With Wind" Wins Top Award

Two Women in Cast Also Get
Top Honors; Clark Gable
Second to Robert Donat.

HOLLYWOOD, March 1.—(AP)—Clark Gable, wherever he may be, is Hollywood's "forgotten man" of the moment.

But for Mr. Gable, "Gone With Wind" would have swept the field last night in the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences' 11th annual selection of premier film accomplishments.

"GWTW" did all right, anyway. To the surprise of no one, it walked off with eight of 16 possible awards, including those for the best production, best actress, best supporting actress and best director. Not since "It Happened One Night" grabbed off all the top honors in 1934 has a picture done as well.

Only Robert Donat, among the principal contestants, survived the big take. It was he who edged out Gable as the outstanding actor for his masterful portrayal of 50 years in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

Vivien Leigh made the top acting awards a sweep for England. The British girl, who skyrocketed to stardom as the fiery southern Scarlett, was on hand to happily accept her "Oscar."

Hattie McDaniel, memorable "Mammy" in "Gone With Wind," captured the prize as the best supporting actress, and with it became the first negro ever to be honored by the academy.

Other awards went to:

Thomas Mitchell in "Stagecoach" as the best supporting actor; Lewis R. Foster, for the best original motion picture story, "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

E. Y. Harburg and Harold Arlen for the best song, "Over the Rainbow" from "The Wizard of Oz."

Walt Disney for his cartoon, "The Ugly Duckling."

Another special honor went to Judy Garland, young singer, for work as "an outstanding juvenile."

YOUTH KILLS MAN To Get His Farm

THE DALLIES, Ore., Feb. 29.—(AP)—A 22-year-old youth accused of first degree murder told Wasco county authorities today he killed a rancher six weeks ago and buried the body with the expectation he would acquire an 80-acre farm.

A formal charge was filed against Robert Jensen, The Dalles, in connection with the slaying of Joe Simonall, 45, owner of a farm five miles west of here.

Dr. Joseph Beaman of the state crime detection laboratory, who examined the partly decomposed body taken from a grave 28 inches deep, said Simonall was shot twice in the left shoulder. One of the bullets pierced the heart and lungs.

Jensen related to the officers that he hid behind a door February 8 and shot Simonall as he entered the barn. The body was wrapped in a blanket and buried on the farm. Sexton also stated that Jensen admitted taking $150 from the dead man's pocket.

The investigation began after a neighbor reported the farmer missing. The district attorney announced the circuit court might be asked to appoint an alienist to examine Jensen, who lives here with his parents.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

The world is always asking the church to tell it how it can escape the consequences of its sin, that is to say of its selfishness, for this is the root of all sin. But the church has—ought to have—no interest in doing this. Its chief concern is to tell men how to escape from sin itself, and this will carry with it escape from the consequences. We all start life with a bias in our own interest we are by nature selfish at least in the sense of seeing the world and estimating the importance of all things from our own standpoint. But no one of us is the real center of the world, and the natural, indeed almost inevitable, tendency of everyone is to accept as real the estimate of things prompted by his self-centeredness is what the church learned to call "original sin." It is in our hearts and it gives us a wrong viewpoint of life. We cannot cure ourselves without God's help. This will of ours must be cured before it can give the new direction to conduct, what then can cure it? The cross of Jesus Christ. The love of God confronting our selfishness is a force to be counted with love is the most powerful and yet the most beautiful principle in the world. Amen.
