Today's Pattern

DAINTY FROCK OR SUN-OUTFIT PATTERN 411

Every fond mother who loves to dress up her child gets even more satisfaction out of it if she "makes every stitch herself." In Pattern 411, Anne Adams presents a versatile style that's an all-day frock or a sun-and-tan outfit. The bodice panels, front and back, smartly square out into yokes. Omit the puffed sleeves and the sides of the bodice, cut the round neck lower, and you've a sun-frock. The square shoulder-pieces prevent too much sunburn. A matching or contrasting sunbonnet is demure and useful for shading young eyes from the sun. Do go gay with ric-rac or ruffing on the sun-style; lace and bows on the frock.

Pattern 411 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 dress, takes 2 yards 35 inch fabric; sun-tan frock and bonnet, 2 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS and STYLE NUMBER.

Send your order to News-Review, Pattern Dept., Roseburg, Ore.

Ruling May Cost Oregon Big Area

By PAUL W. HARVEY, JR. SALEM, March 29.—(AP)—The refusal by the United States supreme court last Monday to review the Elk Hills oil case leaves the state land board afraid that the United States some day might demand return of some of the state's 700,000 acres of eastern Oregon grazing lands.

The decision permits the secretary of the interior to determine whether lands, given by the federal government to states or private corporations, were known to have contained minerals when they were surveyed.

If he finds in the affirmative, he can rule the United States is the owner.

The state land board fears that if oil or other minerals are found on the grazing lands, the government might demand their return.

That is exactly what happened in the Elk Hills dispute. The Standard Oil company of California obtained the land from the federal government in 1903, and then discovered oil. In 1935, Secretary Ickes ruled the tract was known as mineral land in 1903, and hence the full title did not pass to the company.

Oregon and several other western states joined Standard Oil in asking the highest court to reconsider the decision, the other states also being afraid they might lose some of their school lands if the government determines they were known to have contained minerals when they were surveyed many decades ago.

Oregon's grazing lands produce little revenue for the common schools, but if minerals were found on them, it would be a different story. It could result in the state's being able to support schools with little help from local districts, which now do almost all the supporting.

The land board wants to make sure the schools, not the government, would benefit from any mineral discoveries on the school lands.

Hospital Sued In Mix-Up of Babies

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—(AP)—Mrs. Frances Mahoney, suing a hospital for damages on a "baby mixup" charge, testified today that after giving birth to a son she was presented on separate occasions with three children and told that each was hers.

"They tried to give me one baby with a mouth like Joe E. Brown's," she cried.

The suit is against the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California.

Mrs. Mahoney testified she had a baby at the hospital Sept. 12, 1938.

Eventually, she said, she was induced to take the third child given her but she still is not convinced it is really hers. The doctor has made it impossible for her to eat and sleep well, she added.

Mrs. Mahoney and Mrs. Anna Doaz gave birth to sons in the hospital, September 12, 1938. Mrs. Doaz also brought suit against the hospital, charging a mix-up in the babies, but a settlement was effected out of court.

Billion Paid in 2 Years in Jobless Insurance

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP)—The nation's idle workers received almost $1,000,000,000 in unemployment insurance benefits during the last two years and are asking for more.

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, announced today that the 48 states, the District of Columbia, Alaska and Hawaii distributed $970,293,528 since the unemployment compensation system began operating on Jan. 1, 1938.

Officials had no estimate of the number of persons who received these benefits.

The board reported state totals in unemployment compensation benefits paid in February, with the percentage of change from January, included:

California $5,684,801, up 11.6; Oregon $511,765, up 118.7; Washington $1,259,457, up 39.

Nice Jail

HAVERFORD, Pa.—Jailed on a burglary charge, Fight Pan William Evans, 32, struck a bargain.

Protesting that the jail in nearby Norristown, the county seat, has no radio, he agreed to plead guilty tomorrow if authorities would permit him to remain in jail here to listen to the Louis-Paychek heavyweight championship fight broadcast tonight.

The officials agreed and Evans happily returned to his cell.

Indictment Hits H. Fleishhacker

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—(AP)—Herbert Fleishhacker, west coast financial power for a generation, was indicted by a federal grand jury today on charges of misappropriation of funds and the causing of a false bank entry.

The indictment charged that Fleishhacker, 68, on Oct. 22, 1937, caused to be withdrawn $55,109 from the account of the Pacific Mail Steamship company in the Anglo California National bank, and that he put to his own use 39 cashier's checks into which he was alleged to have converted the money.

Fleishhacker was president of the Anglo bank from 1911 until late in 1938, when he resigned. He and an associate acquired most of the assets of Pacific Mails in 1926. The company gradually was liquidated. The indictment charged that Fleishhacker was not empowered to draw on Pacific Mails' account in October of 1937.

The indictment was returned to Federal Judge Michael J. Roche by the grand jury of 17 men and four women.

There were 11 counts in the indictment. Each count would carry, on conviction, a maximum penalty of 5 years in prison or a $5,000 fine or both.

Fleishhacker has not been connected with the Anglo bank since he resigned as president. His petition for an extension of time to pay debts is pending in federal bankruptcy court.

Officer Gives Lawyer Exact Reproduction

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 29.—(AP)—If Attorney Frederick V. McMenimen wanted an exact reproduction, he got it. Questioning Patrolman Arthur E. Johnston in a case involving drunken driving, he asked how the officer handled the defendant when found.

"You ripped his shirt, didn't you?"

"I heard something give," the patrolman replied. "I assume it was his shirt."

"Grab me by the shoulder just the way you grabbed the defendant."

Johnston complied. R-e-r-rip. McMenimen's collar parted from his shirt. He lost the case in the bargain.

State Heads Visit K. of P. Lodge Here

The lesson taught in the knight degree of the Knights of Pythias lodge is one that should be given every American citizen, Walter G. Gleason, grand keeper of records and seals, declared here Wednesday night at a meeting of Alpha lodge, K. of P.

Elmer Patrick of Corvallis, grand vice-chancellor, and Mr. Gleason, of Portland, assisted the drill team from Corvallis in presentation of the beautiful and dramatic initiatory degree.

"The principal theme of this initiatory work," stated Mr. Gleason, "is to teach us to have confidence in our fellowmen. Confidence in these times of unrest is a wonderful thing. Friendship, one of the principles which has made the Knights of Pythias popular, is another lesson that should be taught every American, in order to make this a better country in which to live."

The ceremony Wednesday night was greatly appreciated by the members of the local lodge, and announcements were made that more degree work will follow in a few weeks.

New members becoming affiliated with Alpha lodge, No. 47, were Ralph L. Olman, William Black, L. S. Kerschner, Roy Sullivan, Thomas C. Hartel, J. D. Myers, H. Jackson and Harry Lancaster.

Sex-Mad Slayer Object of Search

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 29.—(AP)—Lacking a definite clue to the sex-mad killer of 17-year-old freshman co-ed, investigators today appealed to Pennsylvania State college's 6,000 students to report immediately "any suspicious persons" and especially "not to shield anyone."

Rumors ran rampant, suddenly transforming this usually calm community into a center of great excitement, but Wilbur Leitold, borough officer, declared "there's not a single worthy clue to the identity of the slayer yet."

State and borough police joined in the hunt for what they described as a sex fiend who criminally attacked Rachel Hutchinson Taylor, hampered her to death and dumped the fattened body in the driveway of a consolidated school three miles outside town.

Representatives of some 50 fraternities on the magnificent state college campus were first to be called into the quickly made up investigation headquarters to hear Leitold's plea that they report any vicious persons.

Honest Glenn

RICE LAKE, Wis.—City Treasurer Glenn Hartzel, after collecting $110,000 in taxes, found his books were four cents off. He went through the receipts and tax roll three times—the job took three days—before he found that he had credited a taxpayer with $3.69 in stead of $3.73.

Retail Institute Dated at Eugene

An interesting program is being arranged for the fourth annual conference of the Oregon Retail Distributors' Institute, to be held on the University of Oregon campus, Monday, April 8, according to Tom Parkinson, proprietor of Parkinson's Food store, who is the local representative of the institute.

Mr. Parkinson today is distributing copies of the institute program to local retailers, and is anticipating attendance at the meeting of several Roseburg merchants.

Among the speakers listed are Vernon P. Jenkins, of Foster and Kleiser, Portland; Dr. N. H. Colmish, U. of O.; Reese Dooley, Albany; Thomas L. Willis, president of the Northern Wholesale Hardware company, Portland; Clayton Morse, manager of the Newport Building Supply company; G. Vandeneve, manager of Sears, Roebuck company, Salem; Paul E. Skeen, manager of Fosters, Klamath Falls; L. A. Roberts, controller of Fred Meyer, Inc., Portland; Keith Fennel, druggist, Eugene; Richard G. Montgomery, J. S. Gill Company, Portland; Dean Victor P. Morris, U. of O.; and Dean Alfred Powers, Eugene.

Colonel Robert A. Ross, San Francisco, will be the principal speaker at the banquet Monday evening. Other banquet speakers will include Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of U. of O.; Richard G. Montgomery, president of the institute, and Edward Weinbaum, Portland, adviser of the institute.

Wool

BOSTON, March 29.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say of the wool market tomorrow:

"There is a lack of interest on the part of buyers for all descriptions of wool except for the most pressing requirements from the mills. Prices have continued to drift downward pending developments in the goods market. Spot business on summer wool has narrowed down to a small volume to the situation abroad, and the regular trend of futures during the early part of the week. There was some call for medium and low grade fleeces wools and limited quantities were sold at unchanged prices. The same buyer, however, would not increase his purchases except at lower prices.

"Easier wool prices in the face of higher cloth prices has produced a difficult situation in the worsted industry. This may easily mean increased activity in woolsens.

Because of price, contractors for new clip wools at country points is almost at a standstill because of lower buying limits brought about by the general situation here and abroad. Blends of rayon goods are expected to take a more prominent part in the regular wooled cloth trade in this season because of price.

"Prices of foreign wools locally are below replacement in the primary markets.

"Fluying of the spring clip of mohair is just beginning in Texas at 45 to 55 cents, respectively, for adult and kid hair."
