

U. S. Capital Wars On Horde of Rats

WASHINGTON — Wanted: A Plod Piper.
The nation's capital is having rat trouble... not the kind that spawned during prohibition and in the rackets, either... just old-fashioned gray rats that grow big

What visitors say about Stokely canneries:

SO CLEAN YOU
COULD EAT OFF
THE FLOOR!

Enjoy canned foods put up in kitchens spotless as your own

Clean? Sanitary? You should see these canneries!

After each batch of vegetables and fruits goes through, the machinery is bathed with live steam. Every day, the floors, tables and benches get a vigorous scrubbing. Everything's kept spotless. Just one more reason why it pays to look for the Stokely label when buying canned foods.

All of Stokely's Finest Foods bear this seal of approval

Elsie's right — and Borden's is proud of the responsibility of bringing such good milk to Borden's plant.

Borden's is happy to evaporate and to irradiate it there.

Quick to ship it to your grocer, each can identified by the familiar Borden label. Do plan to stock up today—several cans!

For Elsie, for Borden's and for you—the pleasure will be moo-tual!

and fat raiding the hen houses and garbage cans.

Some unprofessional estimates run as high as 400,000 for Washington's rat population, but the scientific fellows pool-pool that figure, guess that there are not more than 100,000 to 200,000.

No matter what the number, the capital has declared a blitzkrieg on the rodents. Platoons of rat-hunters are being organized in several sections of the city and, under guidance of men who know their rat poison, starting a lightning war of extermination that should by early summer make the city completely ratless.

Reason for rise of the rats is simply that Washington is an old city. Scattered between the islands of new housing developments and new buildings are thousands of old houses that date back 40 to 70 years.

M-J-B WHY?

"It was worth getting lost to find out..."

1 I'm not one to get lost in the mountains, but I was lost this time, all right. My wife kidded me about forgetting my Boy Scout training, but it was no joke to me. It was getting dark and we were tired and hungry. Just then we saw the light of a campfire through the trees. "We're saved!" I shouted.

3 "It's no trick," says the lady who's doing the cooking. "You see, I use M-J-B. Its Richer Roast takes the gamble out of coffee-making—has a fine flavor no matter what method you use." And that's the story of why we switched to M-J-B. It was worth getting lost to find out.

M-J-B's RICHER ROAST gives you RICHER FLAVOR
