POET'S CORNER

A REFLECTED SMILE

By J. Margaret Ashcraft
When you gaze into your mirror
With a smile upon your face
You'll catch one upon the image
That you think's not yours—but
'tis.
Now you just keep on a smiling
As you wander down the street,
You'll find a smile upon the face
Of most every one you meet.
Now it may be they are smiling
'Cause you look so very queer,
But no matter what the reason
It will bring a lot of cheer.
So just smile before the mirror
Smile as you go down the street,
Then show the world will smile at you—
'Cause you are so very sweet.

Build up Relief from FEMALE COMPLAINTS

'Buck Benny' and Moonlight

'Buck Benny' Film Gale of Laughter

Rib-tickling and guffaw-getting is that whacky modern horse opera of the wide open spaces, "Buck Benny Rides Again," starring that mighty man of the great outdoors, Jack Benny, the only cowboy in the world with a valet, and that good Rochester, and almost his entire retinue of radio roustabouts, all of whom appear in the feature attractions which opened at Hunt's Indian theater Monday for a six-day stand.

All your cares and woes will be gone with the wind as you watch that virile westerner, Buck Benny, with matchless courage and spirit undaunted, handle the villains of the badlands. It is one of his best to date. However, it takes Paramount's new star, Ellen Drew, who provides the heart interest, to transport Benny from the cozy cushions of his New York penthouse to the back of a wild Nevada mustang. Andy (Gravel Mouth) Devine, Phil Harris, Dennis Day, the voices of Fred Allen, Jack's radio nemesis, and that of Mary Livingston, are also present. Even Carmichael, the polar bear, has a part.

Rochester, under a 10-gallon hat, is a scream. His romance with an attractive and capable colored girl, Theresa Harris, who joins him in a lay number, is one of the high spots of the show. A specialty dance revue with an Indian motif at the beautiful Nevada dude ranch hotel is another bright moment as are several musical numbers sung by Miss Drew, Virginia Dale and Lillian Cornell, a trio, and one by Jack, himself.

A funny Donald Duck cartoon, a Pete Smith specialty and a news-reel complete the bill.
