Rotary Club Entertained By High School Boys

Entertainment for the regular weekly luncheon meeting of the Roseburg Rotary club was furnished yesterday by three high school boys, Nathan Stielwig, Elmer McLoughlin and James Moran. Two of the boys played guitars and James Moran whistled and then sang a solo number. Expressing the hope that the local trades program at the Roseburg high school may be improved, Walter Morse, supervisor for trades and industries in the state department of vocational education, stressed the necessity of training for employment. He was the principal speaker at the meeting. All boys expect to do some sort of work as they go through life, he said, and the trades program places emphasis upon training for successful employment. The club will not meet next week. It was announced, since the regular meeting day falls on Memorial day.
