

Gold Sought in South Umpqua River Gravel

"Doodle Bug" Equipment Works Day and Night Near Canyonville on Promising Venture.

News-Review Photo and Engraving
Pictured above are three scenes of the large-scale gold mining operations on the South Umpqua River near Canyonville, which were opened by the Lord and Bishop Mining company of Sacramento last Friday. Using the drag line method with a pontoon float, housing a large rotary screen, riffles and huge Diesel power plant, the company handles 2,000 yards of gravel daily and plans operations on the Umpqua for the next two to three years.

took option on enough property to guarantee three years of continuous operation. Difficulties encountered in their operations near Holland, southern Oregon, forced this company to turn over their holdings to Lord and Bishop.

Work Day and Night

Before work was actually started, however, Lord and Bishop's field man, Joe Benson, who is at present testing property around Canyonville, conducted his own tests with favorable results. The present doodle bug, small but extremely proficient, will handle approximately 2,000 yards of gravel each 24 hours, using a 15-gal bucket on the drag line. Two huge diesel motors power the drag line and the steel float upon which are the screen and riffles. Two Kohler light plants provide illumination so that operations are continuous day and night, with three 8-hour shifts. The gold in this area is of medium course grade and has about a .920 fineness, which is exceptionally high. Ermatinger believes that the gravel they are now working will average between 25 and 40 cents per yard. The riffles are cleaned every 10 days with the first one scheduled for next Saturday morning.

Payroll Sizeable

The Lord and Bishop operation is no small concern, but one that will be of tremendous value to the community. The monthly payroll will average around $3,000 and the cost of operation is approximately $150 per day. Large supplies of fuel oil are consumed and other material is needed daily to keep the drag line functioning without let-down, most all of which will be purchased locally. The crew is at present residing in Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and at the Umpqua Cottages auto camp across the river from the bar upon which they are working. Additional employees will be needed from time to time and most of them will be hired locally, according to present plans.

6th Column to Combat 5th Advised by Legion Head

The way to combat a "fifth column" is by means of a "sixth column," Neil Allen of Grants Pass, department commander of the American Legion, told the Roseburg Kiwanis club at its regular Tuesday luncheon meeting. Mr. Allen defined the "sixth column" as "the united front of American citizenry working through established law enforcement agencies."

The speaker was a member of the official party accompanying H. Elwyn Davis, of Pueblo, Colo., national vice commander of the American Legion, on an official tour through Oregon. Mr. Allen will return to Roseburg Thursday to present the Memorial day address at Hunt's Indian theater.

7th Year Started By Dionne Quints

CALLANDER, Ont., May 28.—(AP)—The Dionne quintuplets, six years old today, awoke to a day of new experiences and another milestone in their upbringing.

Attendance at their first mass marked the entrance of the five little girls into their seventh year—which will bring them a real beginning in their religious instruction in the Roman Catholic faith and take them from the kindergarten to the primary school course of Ontario's educational program.

For the first time they had permission to sample their birthday cake, a five-section affair with six candles for each—yellow ones for Marie, pink for Emilie, blue for Cecile, green for Annette and mauve for Yvonne.

Dr. Allan Roy Dafee, their beloved physician, also came in or his share of congratulations not only for his part in keeping them alive against great odds in their infancy, but also for his 57th birthday tomorrow.

The sisters were joined in the festivities by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olivia Dionne, and several of the other eight Dionne children, some of whom are away at school.

Dr. Dafee made them give up starches and sugar for a while because they were "a little too fat," and their dieting brought the desired results.

Maca Yeast, Packaged in Dry Form, Good Keeper

Although much commercial yeast is mixed with starch or cornmeal which serves as a binder or carrier for the yeast cells, new, fast, granular Maca yeast is composed wholly of yeast cells without the addition of any other ingredient. Claimed to be the only home-baking yeast on the market, its action so amazingly fast, yet it is packaged in dry form so that it may be kept on the pantry shelf for use today, tomorrow, or next week.

In order to insure freshness, package of Maca yeast, lately placed on the market, is dated. Although any yeast will deteriorate with age, scientifically dried yeast, deprived of moisture, is extra resistant to spoilage. Where moist, or compressed, yeast must be purchased fresh for every baking or kept refrigerated until used, dry yeast may be kept on the pantry shelf, ready to use today, tomorrow, or next week. In addition to its storage qualities, this new product has the fast action heretofore available only in a moist yeast.

Death of Two Boys in Icebox Starts Inquiry

ROSEVILLE, Calif., May 28.—(AP)—Chief of Police Lou Allen today was investigating the deaths of two small boys whose bodies were found in an ice box. Allen said it was possible the boys had been locked in by playmates, but that he was searching for any evidence of murder. The boys, Richard Payne, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Payne, and Bobby Richmond, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Richmond, had apparently been dead for several hours when searchers found their bodies. Legionnaires and townspeople joined police in a search for the boys after their parents reported them missing. The bodies were in separate compartments of the ice box, which was in a shed on their parent's property.

Excepting Hermits

HERMITS are people who think two's a crowd. They live in caves or huts, wear long gray beards and eat everything from berries to nuts. They don't, as a rule, buy anything.

Self-respecting hermits spend most of their time meditating, contemplating and talking to themselves. Their minds are hermit-ically sealed to anything going on in the world. In fact, what really puts hermits in a class by themselves is that they don't care a hang about the news.

But for everyone excepting hermits, news is a vital necessity of everyday life. Since the day Eve told Adam about the apple, news has been the leading topic of conversation all day long.

And today the craving for the news is stronger than ever before... because never before has the individual's welfare and happiness been so intimately affected by events at home and abroad.

That's why your daily newspapers draw a larger and more intensely interested audience... day after day... than any other medium. And that, in turn, is the fundamental reason why your advertising in newspapers inevitably hits harder, works faster and brings more immediate results.
