Today's Pattern

EMBROIDERY TRIMS CHIC FROCK PATTERN 4372

by Anne Adams

You can literally "blossom forth" into summer chic in this Anne Adams dress, Pattern 4372. For flower embroidery blossoms right on its stunning bodice panel, both at the top and where it curves to form the smooth waistline. Careful directions for the simple transfer motif are included with the Sewing Instructor. Even without the embroiderer, you might get a striking effect by making panel, circle and hoop-over-back sash in becoming contrast. Softening gathers at either side of the panel flatter your neckline; your sleeves may be short or three-quarter length. The simplicity of this style sets off its unusual trim most effectively!

American Legion Auxiliary Activities

In this connection Mrs. George Casey asked that clothing be bought for child welfare during the summer.

POET'S CORNER

WHEN LO, I STOOD ALONE And when I saw The sunset was breaking Over the dim hills, And dying, The night seemed filled With the low wind, Sobbing and crying. When, had I Not been alone, No looking, nor trying, Would have found aught In the night wind Save a soft and gentle Sighing. —G. M. Leeper.

THE MAKING OF A SMILE

If the making of a smile Paints a tear-drop for someone It perhaps may be a smile But very poorly done. —G. M. Leeper.

At a beautiful garden ceremony Miss Cleora Nadeen Eggman, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Eggman, of Oregon City, became the bride of Earl Sanford Younce, son of Mrs. Roy Younce, of Portland, Sunday, June 7, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. Roy W. Acher pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Oregon City and formerly of Roseburg performed the impressive ceremony at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the presence of fifty relatives and friends.

A background in the garden was formed for the ceremony by the use of large sword ferns and cherry trees under which was placed the improvised altar of magnolia blossoms and tall baskets of pastel-colored snapdragons. During the ceremony the bride and bridegroom stood beneath a large bell of purple vicia and wild orange blossoms.

The guests were seated on both sides of an improvised aisle, flanked by bouquets of mixed flowers. A colorful rockery and garden bed faced the altar on the left side, while baskets of purple and pink, Canterbury bells and roses formed the decorative motif for the right side of the altar.

Proceeding the ceremony Miss Eleanor Hessemer (Roseburg teacher) sang, "Because," by Guy D. Hardnett, and "Ich Liebe Dich," by Grieg, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Willis at the piano. Wagner's "Bridal March" from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Willis for the bride party to enter the garden, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" from "Midsummer Night's Dream" was played at the close of the ceremony by Miss Willis, who played "Liebestraun" by Liszt during the service.

Two boys and four girls headed the professional holding a long white ribbon streamer and taking their places on each side of the aisle, followed by the minister, best man, ushers and the bridegroom. Two flower girls, strewn rose petals along the aisle path, were followed by the maid of honor, two bridesmaids and the bride, who was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was charming in a wedding gown of white net and lace with long train. Her veil was finger-tip in length and was fastened with a halo of pearl pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of pink, rosebuds, bouvardia and
