Scorn of World Brought Down Upon Italy, Mayor Asserts; Italians Loyal to U. S.

OTTAWA, June 12.—(AP)—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York asserted yesterday that "Mussolini has deprived the Italian people of a glorious page in history and subjected them to the scorn of the world for generations yet to come."

"Never before have centuries of civilization been suddenly stopped by one individual and an entire nation thrown back to barbarism," he said.

PORTLAND ITALIANS RAP IL DUCE'S WAR ENTRANCE

PORTLAND, June 12.—(AP)—Italians condemned Mussolini's entrance in the European war today and denied the existence of an Italian fascist movement here.

Took the Starch Out of Spuds

It's okay, girls—now you can eat potatoes without gaining weight. Thank George H. Chisholm, horticulturist on the estate of the late Samuel Untermyer at Yonkers, N. Y. By grafting tomato plants onto ordinary Irish spuds, he produced a starchless potato. Above, he points to his new hybrid, which he calls "tomato."

Zinnias Leading In Popularity Race

Zinnias are the most popular flowers in America. In making their way to this eminence they have overtaken sweet peas, asters and petunias, which still are popular to be sure, but are trailing zinnias in the race.

Hay Fever Denotes High Intelligence

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 6.—(AP)—Between sneezes this summer, the hay fever sufferer may find consolation in the thought that perhaps he is smarter than the next man.

Hay Fever Denotes High Intelligence

From data compiled over a nine-year period, in which records of his allergy department were compared with the results of student entrance examinations, Dr. Buenaventura Jimenez of the University of Michigan has developed the theory that there is a definite relationship between a higher degree of intelligence and an allergic condition.

ALIENS GET EDICT FROM EMPLOYER IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, June 12.—(AP)—All aliens employed in a Chicago restaurant chain faced the choice today of getting their first citizenship papers within a fortnight or losing their jobs.

"If they don't take out papers, they'll have to look for work elsewhere," declared President Robert Meyer of Yonkers, N. Y. By grafting tomato plants onto ordinary Irish spuds, he produced a starchless potato. Above, he points to his new hybrid, which he calls "tomato."

No Alaskan Jobs Available, Advice

Workers should not migrate to Alaska or any other section of the country in search of jobs without first obtaining clearance through one of Oregon's 21 employment offices, was the warning today of L. C. Staff, state director.

Me. Staff's statement was prompted by advice from Alaska that inaccurate news circulated along the Pacific coast has resulted in an early rush of workers to the northern territory.

"An Associated Press article last night stated the need for workers in Alaska," said a telegram received this morning from Joseph T. Flakus, director of the Alaska territorial employment service at Juneau. "This statement is false.

"Alaska has surplus workers in all trades. In fact there is a serious unemployment problem. Please endeavor to check the needless migration of job seekers to the territory. If the situation changes and any skilled workers are needed, they will be obtained through regular clearance channels."
