Louis Knocks Out Godoy in 8th Round

Chilean Battered Into Helplessness

Champion's Savage Onslaught Halted by Referee After Godoy Downed Third Time.

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Battered into a terrible condition by Joe Louis' lethal fists and only semi-conscious, Arturo Godoy of Chile yet was able to lift his hamburgered features down in the dressing room at Yankee stadium last night and say proudly:

"But I can take it, can't, I? Sure Arturo can take it."

There wasn't much doubt about that, and the crowd gathered around the fallen Chilean told him so. It appeared to make Arturo feel much better. He had been knocked down and out in the eighth round of a fight that was too brutal and bloody to witness with any relish, but he had acquitted himself with courage.

None of the nine other fighting men the big negro has beaten since he became champion took more awful punishment than was meted out to Godoy before he finally fell forward on his battered face last night, and was spared further blows by Referee Billy Cavanagh.

In 1 minute and 24 seconds of the eighth Louis had accomplished what he failed to do in 15 rounds against Godoy last February. A crowd of 28,000 got the thrill it was looking for.

Saved by Bell in 7th.

The Chilean had been down twice under terrific punishment before Cavanagh stopped it. He was up but out on his feet after taking a count of six when the bell ended the seventh chapter. His seconds worked heroically to send him out for the fatal eighth, but it would have been more merciful to have left him on his stool.

Louis, never a man to let his wounded prey escape, tore into the semi-blind Godoy savagely, and in a minute had dropped him for a count of eight. Again the Chilean groped his way erect, only to run into another hurricane of lefts and rights. A final short, sharp right pitched him forward as blood gushed from a long cut over his eye. Cavanagh then stopped it.

Louis at His Best.

When he realized what had happened Godoy went plunging across the ring to get at Louis and it took the strenuous efforts of four or five men, including his manager, Al Weill, to calm him down. But it was only a wild, heart-broken gesture. Louis stood calmly and watched it, his face still inscrutable.

Never did Louis look more formidable than last night. At 199½ pounds he obviously was trained to a fine point, prepared to a fine point, prepared to punch relentlessly and long against a foe he knew was rugged. Gradually he tore Godoy down, and when the moment came executed him.

As usual, there was some talk that this might be Louis' last fight. His managers said positively not; that he would enter the ring again in September if the fight between Tony Galento and Max Baer next month provides an opponent.

Padres Halt Slump In 11-Inning Game

(By the Associated Press)

The race in the Pacific coast league tightened around the mid-section today as San Diego maneuvered into position to reclaim its former first division berth.

The Padres, after halting their fall towards the basement last night, pulled up to within six percentage points of Hollywood and Sacramento who are tied for third.

Newsome, ace San Diego pitcher, put the Padres in the winning column for the first time in eight starts by hurling a 1 to 0 shutout over Portland's cellar club.

It took Newsome 11 innings to get the better of Harrell, Portland pitcher, and win his twelfth victory to retain second place among the circuit's regular pitchers.

The winning run in the eleventh came when First Baseman McDonald singled to score Patchett from second base.

Hollywood went into a tie for third by drubbing San Francisco 6 to 1. Fleming, Hollywood moundsman, limited San Francisco batters to two hits and missed a shutout when Shortstop Trower registered for the Seals in the sixth.

Seattle took advantage of an erratic fourth inning to increase its lead with a 5-to-2 victory over Sacramento.

Although the Rainiers got only two hits in the fourth, they scored all their runs in that inning. They came on a single, two walks, one error, a three-run triple and a wild pitch.

Los Angeles made it three in a row over Oakland with an 11 to 6 win.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Joe Louis today collected $55,989 for his eight-round knockout victory of Arturo Godoy at the Yankee stadium last night.

Godoy received $25,629 for the beating he took. Altogether, 27,786 spectators paid $149,505 to see Louis make the 11th defense of his heavyweight title. The net receipts were $125,680, the federal tax $15,665 and the state's share, $8,994.

Elks, Oakland Win City League Games

By EVERETT CROUCH

The Elks club, newest entry in the City Softball league, eked out a 9-to-8 win over the Hancock Oilers in the first of the two scheduled games played last night at Finlay field. Going into the last half of the seventh inning, the Oilers held a two-run lead, but proceeded to lose the game on errors. Robertson hit a homer to leave the Elks club trailing by one run. Ellison then reached first on an error, and scored on overthrows to tie the score. Creason, next man up, reached first on an error, stole second and scored on a single by Sanders.

Bender led the hitting attack for the Elks, getting two doubles in three trips to the plate. McMullen annexed the batting honors for the lowers with two singles and a double in three trips.

In the second game, Oakland lowered the boom on Hub's Indians and clouted out a 12-to-1 victory. Reeves, Oakland hurler, held the Indians to far scattered hits, pitching a shutout game for six innings. An error, walk and a single brought in the lone tally for the Indians in the seventh frame.

Campbell, pitching for the Indians, gave up eight hits, and nine walks. Adding to Oakland scores, however, were eight errors by the Indian fielders. Reeves had his fast ball working to perfection and gave only one walk while striking out five batters.

In the games tonight Dunham's Transfermen will play the National Guardsmen and Boucock's Butchers will meet the Sutherlin Muscovites.

Grillers Battle Crescents Sunday

By EVERETT CROUCH

Beth's Grillers, Roseburg's team in the Southern Oregon league, one game behind the second-place Crescent City team, will meet the Crescents on the latter's diamond Sunday in a game which may be an important contest in the play-off for the league title.

On Sunday also Gold Hill plays at Medford, and Grants Pass draws a bye, due to the withdrawal of the Ashland Talent Atees, will mark the end of the first half of the season.

Grants Pass automatically takes first place, and, therefore, is assured of a play-off for the league championship following the second half of the season schedule. Should Grants Pass also take first place in the second half of the season, the playoff will be with the team holding second place during the first half.

In the event Roseburg should win at Crescent City Sunday the two teams will be tied for second place. This, in turn, would require that Roseburg play-off the game postponed from May 5, when rain prevented playing the season opener. If, however, Crescent City wins it will not be necessary to make up the postponed game.

League standings are as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Grants Pass	7	0	1000
Crescent City	5	2	.714
Beth's Grill	4	2	.666
Gold Hill	3	4	.428
Medford	1	5	.166

Women Bartenders in Oregon Opposed by AFL

KLAMATH FALLS, June 19.—(AP)—After a spirited discussion, the state federation of labor in convention here today adopted a resolution to the effect that the federation sponsor legislation to prohibit women working as bartenders in Oregon.

Gertrude Sweet, vice-president of the Hotel and Restaurant Employes International alliance and the Bartenders International League of America, asserted that if women are allowed to work as bartenders a "storm of public protest" will arise and there will be agitation for a return to prohibition. Ethel Murphy, Marshfield, added that women should not "chisel" on bartenders. Several delegates spoke on both sides of the issue.

Mr. Rainville Here—Joe Rainville, of Tiller, was in Roseburg for a few hours yesterday attending to business.

Cleveland Grabs Lead in American

Boston Red Sox Fall From Top by Losing Doubleheader to Rampant St. Louis Browns.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball's biggest sensation right now is the St. Louis Browns, now in fifth place just a game and a half behind the Yankees. They got there yesterday by blasting the Boston Red Sox in both ends of a doubleheader 2-1 and 11-4 to run their current winning streak to six games.

It is notable that the Browns now have won 27 games and lost 30 while last year they didn't get their 27th victory until August 4 by which time they had lost 68.

They were irresistible as they went about the business of bumping Boston out of the league lead for the first time since May 5. In the first game Piggeling held the Sox sluggers to five hits and Clift came along with a home run in the ninth inning to decide the game.

In the second game the Browns collected four home runs, the most important being Bernardino's with two on.

Indians Grab Lead.

Given the opening the Cleveland Indians rode right into the league lead. Bob Feller pitched one of his best ball games for his tenth victory. He gave the Washington Senators only four hits, struck out 11 and walked but one in winning 12-1.

The Detroit Tigers were defeated 6-4 by the Philadelphia Athletics as Brancato singled with the bases loaded and homered.

The Yankees were shut out 1-0 for the second straight day by the Chicago White Sox, whose John Rigney held them to five hits in 11 innings. It was New York's fifth straight setback.

The National league lead also changed hands as the plodding Phillies mobilized behind Higbe and Chuck Klein to beat the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 in 12 innings.

The New York Giants routed Lefty Larry French and beat the Chicago Cubs 6-3 although outhit. The Pittsburgh Pirates also were outhit but managed to beat the Boston Bees 8-7.

Officers Chosen for Myrtle Creek School

MYRTLE CREEK, June 21.—The local school meeting passed off quietly, with just enough competition in the election of a director for the three-year term to make it interesting. M. McDougall, the retiring director, was renominated, with George Aker Sr., and Oscar Weeks placed in opposition. Seventy-eight votes were cast with Mr. Weeks receiving the largest number. P. W. Cook succeeded himself as clerk with no one running against him.

A special tax of approximately $7800 was voted to enable the school to run next year. A total of 246 pupils were enrolled last year.

Outlying districts heard from report as follows: Boomer hill, Mrs. Dale Weekly elected as clerk and Mrs. Alva Weekly as director. A new teacher will be hired for next year. For the school at Cedar grove, Perry Edwards is clerk, A. J. Patt, director. Mrs. Maude Sitter will teach again next year.

Seattle Reds Cited By Legion Official

23 on Washington U. Campus, Others in Federal Employ, Investigator Declares.

SEATTLE, June 21.—(AP)—Tyre H. Hollander, head of the versive activities investigation committee, last night told a community club that there were 1,821 members of the communist party in Seattle and 71 party units in King county.

"It is up to you people, as American citizens, to defend your country by reporting subversive activities and backing the Legion in demanding legislation compelling aliens to register and to be fingerprinted," he said.

Hollander, an attorney, reviewed "fifth column" activities in European nations which have failed totalitarian aggression, said 23 communists live near the University of Washington campus, many of them attending the university like one young man student who is in the reserve officers training corps and who, with his mother, holds communist meetings every Sunday afternoon.

"Pinks" in University.

Hollander said there were about half a dozen "pink" professors at the university, and that numerous communists are employed in federal government positions and by several of the largest industrial employers in Seattle.

"Dictator nations do not believe they can overthrow the United States by armed force alone," he added, "but believe the combined force of an advance agency working within the country could pave the way for ultimate victory."

PORTLAND, June 21.—(AP)—Norman M. Littell, assistant U. S. attorney general, said yesterday "there is clear evidence of nazi infiltration in Mexico and certain South American countries."

"We will not hereafter be caught napping as other democracies have been, notwithstanding Hitler's assurance that America is for Americans and Europe for Europeans," he added.

"Fifth columnists" are active in the United States, Littell told an interviewer, and "there is every reason to be vigilant and to take every possible precaution through law enforcement agencies against sabotage."

Yesterday: The mining agent is cornered by Dick who wrings the truth from him—the agent is trying to scare the girls into selling—then Dick walks back into the ghost town jail. The girls watch all this as the agent flees.

CHAPTER XI

He gave the man a shove and Packman began running, indeed. The girls, hardly daring to breathe, saw Dick stand arms akimbo for a long minute watching the other man free. Then Dick slapped his hands together as if cleansing them, turned and walked back into the ghost town jail.

"Dick's not the kind who would steal!" Roselee was declaring, once the girls were in bed that night. "Why would he take the money from the old shaft and hide it in the dungeon without telling us?"

"I don't like to think of him as under suspicion," murmured Christine.

They had watched Dick go back into the dungeon, and had seen the faint reflected glow of a flashlight from far back in the forbidding depths of the jail cells. Then, still crouching in the shadows, they had seen Dick come out empty-handed and go back down the street, and they knew he had concealed the money inside. The two girls had returned to the Ace High hotel and gone to bed before 10 o'clock.

"I'm terribly upset, Christy. Honest I am."

"Roselee, do you suppose this man—Packman, wasn't it?—will try anything else? His mining company, I mean?"

"I don't know. But Dick will be on the lookout now, surely. He will take care of everything. He—he would have, I mean. What I mean—he—"

Roselee was confused. Confused in her speech and—worse—in her own heart. Christine sensed it and shared it, and so reached out to squeeze her friend's arm.

"Tell me something, Roselee," she spoke tenderly. "Do you love Dick Bancroft?"

Roselee didn't answer. There was a long moment of silence and then distinct little sounds as of tears.

"You don't have to tell me, darling," Christine whispered then. "I know you do love him. I know how you feel now, too. I can't think he was planning to conceal the money from you. Why don't we go and ask him?"

"No!"

"At any rate there was some good news in it—the man said Goldcrest ore was valuable again. He even said there was a few outcropping worth a hundred dollars a ton, Roselee!"

"I d-don't . . . care!"

* * *

Christine was holding her friend's hand now as she lay there on her pillow for a long time, thinking. The hour wasn't late, and she thought back over all the events since school was out. She thought, too, of Roselee and Dick Bancroft—and of Franklin Larraway.

Franklin was gone tonight. Franklin had fallen for her, Christine knew, from the moment he had met her. A girl can sense such things, intuitively. It had been amusing then. Franklin was more boyish. Slender and rather shy, and unable to conceal his shyness with his forced geniality and banter. He was extremely loyal to his friend Dick.

Franklin had shown more and more refinement and lovability and intelligence as the days had passed. Christine had left herself drawn to the larger, more commanding Richard Bancroft at first. Just as Roselee had been. For one thing they had "discovered" Dick under dramatic circumstances, like a movie romance. There in twilight at the bank vault—goodness! And he was undeniably handsome. "But Franklin is every bit as good looking," Christy reminded herself now.

She wondered what had come over her. Somehow she had undergone a kind of spiritual change just lying here thinking. She wasn't sleepy. She wanted to think—to think about Franklin.

"And I make Franklin believe I was crazy about Dick!" Christine recalled, horrified now at the thought. "There, painting the signboard he tried to be nice—tried to let me know—!"

Now it was Christine's turn to cry, and she sobbed harder than Roselee had done, until both girls finally turned over their pillows and went to sleep in companionable misery.

* * *

Mrs. Hogan had a good breakfast for the three young people. At the table Roselee and Christine watched Dick expectantly, but he did not mention the previous night's affairs. The girls were keenly disappointed, especially Roselee. Dick had hidden the $12,000. Dick had secrets which he thought they didn't know, and he wasn't sharing them. Roselee's lovely face was dark with anxiety.

A few tourist automobiles were coming in by 9 and the young people had to serve as guides. It was Christine, though, who kept alert and at 11 saw Franklin Larraway's rattly old car coming across the Joshua tree desert before she heard its noise. She joined her little knot of tourist guests with one of Roselee's and hastened to meet Franklin.

The young man's eyes brightened with obvious pleasure when she came to his car.

"Hello!" he said. "You look fresh as a dewdrop! Your new cowgirl outfit is very becoming!"

She laughed a bit, haplily. "Bring me anything, hmm?"

She asked it casually, teasingly, as a child might have, and just as casually picked up the parcel at his side. If she had given it a thought at all she would have assumed that the parcel contained something for use at Goldcrest. It was a natural assumption. They had had to buy a lot of odds and ends—tools, sourvenirs, cooking utensils, items of clothing, provisions and such—on trips in to town. And in a thoughtless instant Christine had shaken the loose wrapper off this parcel too.

A calfskin purse, beautifully beaded, dropped out.

"Oh," she cried, staring.

Franklin blushed, rather painfully. "Yeah," he finally managed, swallowing. "Yeah, I did. But you beat me to it, Christy. I—well I mean I forgot it was laying there on the seat. I intended to get it to Dick first."

"To—Dick?"

"Yeah, that's it! Dick! He, uh, he told me to bring it, for you, Christine. He's—well I guess he wanted to be nice and all, and I was going in to town, see? Maybe we better not tell him you've already seen it, see?"

Christine looked at Franklin, looked into his frank gray eyes. He was trying to be casual, trying to smile and laugh a bit. But Franklin wasn't a good actor and he wasn't getting away with it. Christine felt a sudden hurt within her. She knew Franklin was lying—she knew Dick hadn't ordered that purse! She wasn't sure exactly what really had happened, but her heart told her that things were all mixed up some way. She felt her throat tighten and she was afraid she was going to cry again as she had cried last night. So she turned hastily away.

"Oh sure," she forced herself to say. "Don't tell him. It's sweet of him to think of me, wasn't it? You—you better hurry up and come to work!"
