

Canada Legislator Raps Henry Ford

Plants Seizure Urged Because of Refusal to Make Plane Motors for Great Britain.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 27.—(AP)—M. J. Coldwell, Saskatchewan cooperative commonwealth federation member, demanded in the house of commons yesterday that the government take into custody all Henry Ford's industrial interests in Canada.

Coldwell, acting C. E. leader in the house, declared Ford's refusal to make airplane motors for Britain was something that could not be dismissed with a "passing reference" in the commons.

In the senate the same question was raised by Senator F. B. Black, New Brunswick conservative.

He said the Canadian government should cancel all purchases of Ford cars, other equipment and forbid their sale in Canada.

Among other properties, Ford has a large plant at Windsor, Ont.

Replying to Coldwell, Munitions Minister C. D. Howe said the Ford Motor company of Canada had placed itself entirely in the hands of the government as to prices on the units it is making and was "beyond criticism" in its cooperation.

"Throughout Europe in recent days treachery has not been confined to a few submerged elements," Coldwell said.

"It is frequently found among the heads of powerful industrial and financial companies."

Henry Ford, he said, had been decorated by the German government.

"His long record is not one that inspired confidence in those who believe in democratic institutions," he added.

"We must take cognizance of treachery, treason and sabotage in high places."

Under the mobilization bill enacted last week the government has unlimited power to conscript resources, Coldwell pointed out.

"I submit to the government that here is an opportunity for the government to show the people it is not going to mobilize only manpower but industry as well," he added.

"Henry Ford is the type of industrialist who has exploited and regimented working men, and when he has sucked them dry he throws them in the gutter."

Horrors Faced as War's Aftermath

Famine, Pestilence, Poverty to Be Europe's Probable Lot if History is Repeated.

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP)—If history repeats, famine, pestilence and poverty will be the uninvited actors on the European stage after the war.

With millions of men being switched from the plow to the sword, belligerent countries already face prospects of scraping the bottom of the meal barrel for some time after hostilities end.

Feeding the population of occupied countries may never become acute if the war lasts only a short time but if it is prolonged some economists and experts say the ravages of famine and pestilence over Europe may be worse than during the 1914-24 period when Herbert Hoover directed the spending of five and a half billions dollars for relief abroad.

"The chance for civilization in Europe to come back again may depend on America," Mr. Hoover said in a recent New York speech. "If the war is long drawn out the United States will need to meet the question of famine and pestilence over the whole of Europe."

During and after the world war, Hoover's relief commissions sent nearly 34,000,000 metric tons of supplies to more than 20 foreign countries. This tonnage would have filled more than 500,000 American freight cars and required more than 6,700 vessels of 6,000 tons each for trans-Atlantic shipment.

Security Signs Seen. Three university professors said in special interviews today that conditions abroad already indicate a scarcity of food.

Dr. H. G. Guthmann, professor of finance at Northwestern, said "all Europe faces the prospect of large-scale hunger."

"Germany faced this situation even before the war began with evidences of food deficiencies appearing in that country's wealth statistics. The trouble lay in the huge diversion of natural resources to the war production that is required by extensive armaments and mechanization. Such a war economy draws men from farm production and prevents the normal exports which the great powers of Europe need to pay for their food and raw materials required by a dense urban population."
