Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it.

STUMBLING down her Golgotha, France treads the path of humiliation and defeat. Hitler is master of the European continent from Russia to the Atlantic.

Five years ago, to a reichstag assembled to hear him launch the German arms program whose fruits now ripen, Hitler spoke these words: "Our racial theory therefore regards every war for the subjugation and domination of an alien people as a proceeding which sooner or later changes and weakens the victor internally, and eventually brings about his defeat."

"In no future war will the European national states be able to achieve—apart from the temporary weakening of their opponents—more than petty adjustment of national frontiers, of no consequence in comparison with the sacrifices made."

Was his statement then a mere effort (successful) to belittle the issue before confused European diplomats? Or was it a moment of clear-sighted vision obscured later by the rush and pressure of events which seized control of the men who launched them?

We cannot know. We know that Hitler has met and beaten Generals Gamelin, Weygand and Pétain. Perhaps he has yet to meet General Wainwright, General Hunter, General Deane, General Reubin and General Revolution.

No military victories, no matter how sweeping, settle nothing, solve nothing, build nothing, end nothing. It may be Hitler still faces the crucial clash in the long series of "My Battles."

IT'S hard to get any real satisfaction out of a violent attack of hay fever.

But science, that purveyor of hope to the hopeless, has now come to bat with a thesis that may make hay fever almost a pleasure.

Dr. Bernavventura Jiminez of the University of Michigan has come to believe that there is a definite relationship between allergy and intelligence. Ten years ago he thought he noted an unusual number of high-normal students among his allergy patients. He kept records. It proved out mathematically, believes Dr. Jiminez.

So the next time you are rocked and racked by sneezes and reduced to that pitiable pulp that is the fate of the hay fever victim, console yourself with the thought, "Gosh, I'm smart!"

OUT OUR WAY

very scarce. Pate de foie gras? The shortage is grave. Filets of anchovy? The price is rising. English jams are scarce. Irish bacon can't be had. No Belgian endive. And Italian salami is off the menu entirely.

Well, there it is? Just think of the times during the past few years when you had truffles and pate de foie gras for dinner, and you see immediately how serious all this is.

Who can tell? If this sort of thing keeps up it may be necessary to turn to consuming some of our own agricultural surpluses, the wheat, the corn, the dairy products, native fruits, which our own farmers have produced by the sweat of their brows and can't sell for enough to make a living.

The forthcoming presidential campaign should prove beneficial to at least one national industry—radio tubes should sell like hotcakes.

manian port of Constanta on the Black sea. Today's dispatches indicate that after considering the ultimatum briefly Carol of Rumania submitted.

"Authoritative reports" assert that Germany and Italy consented to this squeeze play as payment to Russia for putting the bee on Turkey a few days ago.

It is "reliably" reported in Budapest that Hitler has assured Hungary that she will get Transylvania back. Bulgaria is hoping for another slice of Rumanian territory—the province of Dobruja.

Rumania's bones, you see, are being picked.

THAT'S the way they play the game in Europe. It's the way we'll have to play it if we let ourselves get rushed into Europe's wars.

STALIN, by his latest snatch has already picked up half of Poland, the little Baltic states and a part of Finland, gains not only added territory but control of the important Danube river traffic which reaches clear into Germany.

He is doing right well by himself.

Galento Slipping, Godoy's Opinion

By GAYLE TALBOT NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Arturo Godoy, still looking like he had been hit by a cleaver, sat at the ringside out at a training camp yesterday and watched Tony Galento chew around in preparation for his fight with Max Baer Tuesday in Jersey City.

It had been eight days since the Chilean sampled Joe Louis' fists, but his left cheek bone still was puffed and hidden by sticking plaster, and there was a long scar where a dozen stitches had been taken in his eyebrow. Having fought and licked Galento twice, Arturo could not be expected to go into raptures about the orange round man—and he didn't.

"I don't think he's so strong as when he fought me" he volunteered in his new found English. "After he can't be so strong again after having pneumonia."

"No, Tony don't hit like Louis. He hit me a left hook in our first fight that hurt, but he hits heavy punches, not sharp like Louis."

Whereupon Arturo proceeded to explode another theory about Tony, to wit, that it is useless to work on the Galento mid-section.

"I hit him once good in the stomach in our first fight, and he didn't like it," Godoy recalled. Arturo said he couldn't make a guess on the winner between Galento and Baer, because he never seen Max in action.

SERIAL STORY GHOST DETOUR BY OREN ARNOLD

ROSELEE DALE and CHRISTINE PALMER—Partners in a summer tourist venture at Goldcrest.

DICK BANCROFT and FRANKLIN LARRAWAY—They also found an interest in Goldcrest.

Yesterday, while Christine goes to Franklin, finds he is wounded, Dick starts after Roselee, catches up, takes her from her horse. At that moment they see Quait fall when his horse stumbles. Dick starts after Quait but he remembers Quait carries a gun.

CHAPTER XVII Almost the entire party that day at Goldcrest, 60 or 70 persons in all, headed by Roselee, hastened down the cactus-studded slope to discover Richard Bancroft walking back toward them.

"Dick!" Roselee shrieked from afar. The terrible fear that was intensified when she had heard Quait shooting lessened a bit now. At least Dick could walk.

She came running fast and without another word she was in his arms.

"What you need, little girl," he murmured, as he might have soothed a child, "is somebody to make you behave! You mustn't chase off after criminals that way, my lardy, Roselee girl!"

"Dick! Are you hurt?" "No. Of course not. My horse was bounding and twisting around the Joshua tree wasn't a good target for any pistol."

"That was a man named Quait, Roselee. Franklin got the dope on him in town. There's $2000 reward for him and the money he hid in your bank! I knew he'd come back, but I didn't expect him in broad daylight. And you cinnat Reds in the National League, 344 to 343, and the Boston Red Sox lost ground in the American."

Wyatt pitched the Dodgers to a 2-1 decision over Erickson and the Boston Bees. Wyatt gave five hits and struck out six, finishing the eight-inning rain-shortened struggle with four hitless frames. Erickson permitted Brooklyn only seven safeties.

Mooty, an expert at hurling under the electric lights, came along with a six-hitter for the Chicago Cubs last night to edge out the Cincinnati Reds 3-2. Chicago nicked Derringer for 11 blows and scored all its runs in the first two innings.

The Reds announced during the day that Johnny Vandermeer, the double-no-hit hero of 1938, had been optioned to Indianapolis in the American association at his own request.

In another night game McGee of the St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-2, with seven-hit hurling.

Leonard made his knuckle ball do tricks as the Washington Senators squeezed past the Boston Red Sox, 4-3, in ten innings and moved out of the American league cellar.

Leonard, in carrying his ninth victory, allowed only seven hits. The New York Yankees amassed a two-game winning streak, their longest since June 15, by beating the Philadelphia Athletics, 4-1. The A's gave the game away with four errors to spoil a six-hit pitching job by Ross.

They hurried to the old bank and found Franklin lying calmly on the front porch, with his head in Christine Palmer's lap. Christine looked frightened and pale, but Franklin was smiling.

"Greet news!" Franklin greeted the others. "Christine kissed me!" "See-ay!" Dick began, pointing to his friend. "You're wrong to be married some day. Tell them it's true, sweetheart, I want to hear it!"

Christine nodded and held out her left hand. "Engagement ring," she barely whispered it, so grave had been her emotional stress. But she smiled happily.

"Gentle, petrifid wood, set in silver. Lucky I had it at the crucial moment when she gave her self away!"

He had been holding her hand and now he squeezed it and looked up at her.

"We'll get you to a hospital at once, my dear," Roselee cried. "I'm so happy for you and Christine. But goodness, your leg! We must—"

They had a lot to do. So much that there wasn't much time for private talk and explanations. The tourists were milling about and everybody tried to help or ask questions.

Within half an hour they had dressed Franklin's wound carefully and placed him on mattresses and quilts in a sedan—an improvised ambulance—and were riding away to Kingman with him. Kingman was the nearest village where a doctor was available. Mrs. Hogan and the elderly cowboys took charge of Goldcrest temporarily. Most of the college crowd had to leave at 1 p. m. on schedule anyway. They explained that never did they expect to witness another adventure comparable to this one, and Roselee regretted that she barely had an opportunity to wave them a final thanks and farewell.

Seattle Loses to Cast-Off Hurler

By the Associated Press

The Seattle Rainiers might well do a bit of wailing today—a Pacific Coast league veteran they cast off four years ago did them dirt.

The top-run Rainiers were handed their second straight defeat by San Diego last night, due in no small measure to 44-year-old Herynan Pilletera, who was called to the mound for the Padres in the seventh after two Seattle runs all but tied the score.

He pitched shut-out ball the rest of the way and San Diego won 6-5. Oakland handed Hollywood a 14-1 lacing, getting 18 hits while Salveson, Acorn hurler, held the Movie-towners to 10 and kept them well scattered.

Hollywood dropped to fourth place in the league, behind San Diego.

San Francisco also evened its current fracas with Los Angeles at two-all, winning 4-3 after trailing for six innings.

Sacramento's 4-3 win over the tail-end Portland club was due largely to the acting of Solon Outfielder King. In the fifth, Manager Frederick pinch hitting for the Beavers with the bases loaded, hit into the fence but King prevented an easy catch and the Portlanders held the bags. They got but one run off the blow, when three were possible.

Catcher Schultz homed for the Beavers in the ninth with one on but the rally was one short.

Senator Minton Renamed by Indiana Democrats

INDIANAPOLIS, June 28.—(AP)—Indiana democrats, meeting in state convention yesterday, chose Louis, Gov. Henry F. Shoberg, for their nominee for governor and renominated, by acclamation, United States Senator Sherman Minton, new deal supporter.

President Roosevelt was endorsed for a third term. The endorsement came in a last-minute plank, but was somewhat hastened, however, the plank reaffirmed "complete confidence in the statesmanship patriotism and fidelity to the ideals of democracy" of Paul V. McNutt and endorsed "his (McNutt's) position advocating the renomination" of President Roosevelt.

McNutt, former governor and now federal security administrator, had campaigned actively for the democratic presidential nomination until a month ago when he called upon Mr. Roosevelt to seek a third term.
