DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHAS. A. EDWARDS

"Be still and know that I am God." Owing to the shrinkage of the world due to multiplied inventions and greatly quickened means of communication, the nations and races of mankind act and react upon each other with startling directness, constancy and power. It is becoming increasingly more difficult to break away from the intricate network of human contacts. This makes it of added importance that each Christian maintain a zone of silence around his life. Moreover, we are living at a time when, even among Christian leaders, there is great confusion of thought, conflicting voices, divided councils, working at cross purposes and consequently comparatively meager spiritual results. Great, therefore, is the need of developing the attitude of recollection and of attentiveness unto God. For with Him is the fountain of life. Many of us are very busy with all that we want to do for the kingdom and too often we get lost in our many preparations and activities. In God is the fountain of life, therefore quiet hours with Him are necessary for us. Our strength is renewed. He is trying to say to us in our haste: "Be still and know that I am God." Amen.

Wilbur

WILBUR, July 12.—Mr. and Mrs. George Ayers and family left Friday for their summer vacation. They will visit relatives in Selk and then proceed to eastern Oregon to visit the former's parents at The Dalles.
