Control of the Mediterranean, thus shutting off supplies from the Italian forces in Africa and ultimately starving them out.

BOTH sides (British and German) have declared blockades on each other. Hunger, so far, hasn't played a large part in the war, but there is plenty of expectation that it will before the winter is over.

GREEK-ITALIAN tension is getting lighter. A Greek "spokesman" says: "We'll not be caught by surprise if Greece is invaded."

What does it mean? Well, such talk usually means MORE WAR.

Every state, county and city official or board that handles public money should publish an interval an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent.

To debate or not to debate—that is the question. A great many people, including many supporters of Mr. Wilkie, were disappointed that he issued the debate challenge.

But did Mr. Wilkie make an error? The Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk many years ago launched into the air a contraption made of wood, metal tubing and wire.

The president's statement, taken to be an answer to the debate challenge, was that he is too busy being president (which is a reasonable answer) and that he is not going to make a campaign for election—which statement is not reasonable.

Therein lies the "pick-up." Roosevelt immediately assumed that Wilkie was thinking only of campaigning. It is much more likely that Mr. Wilkie's desire is to have a full and frank discussion, with answers by both sides, of the state of the nation.

He would let all the public hear this discussion and in doing so accomplish two worthwhile things: First, the public would thereby be more completely informed as to issues and policies, and second, the case for and against the new deal would be sent to the jury with adequate summation by both advocates.

There is a Wendell Wilkie's idea of such a debate that it is simply a joint election campaign? Surely not—yet that was the interpretation placed upon the suggestion by the president.

Shocking at first to conservative republicans, the debate challenge seems rather rapidly now to be bringing a favorable reaction to Wilkie—thanks to F. D. R.

The president's statement that he will not make a campaign for election is patently absurd. He made the most brilliant and successful campaign for the nomination that has ever been made—but it was unlike any other. His campaign for election will certainly be as brilliant—though without a doubt it will be vastly different from the usual presidential election campaigning.

Fishing prospects, highway and forest conditions summarized in week-end bulletin of the Umpqua National Forest.

Roads: The North Umpqua road is still closed from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m., Monday through Friday.

Fishing: Taking the forest as a whole, fishing is receding somewhat. The unusually dry season has resulted in the streams being at near-record low water levels.

Trips: At Diamond Lake this is a good time of season for any interested in pack trips, hikes, etc. The mosquitoes and other annoying insects are gone, and trips over the beautiful, scenic Skyline trail, the Willamette divide, and the Fish Creek valley are very worthwhile.

A nice auto trip from Roseburg—total round-trip mileage 148 miles: South on Pacific highway to Canyonville; thence east on Tiller Trail highway through Tiller and Drew to the summit at Divide guard station.

Weather: The forest is very dry and travelers are urged to observe rules of fire safety: Obtain campfire permits. No smoking while traveling forest roads or trails.

South Umpqua streams and lakes are reported to be fair fishing, although not as good as they were earlier in the season.

LETTERS to the Editor

UMPQUA RIVER LOSING APPEAL FOR ANGLERS

To the Editor: You have printed editorials concerning the fishing on the Umpqua. I think you and the readers of the News-Review may be interested in reading a letter I received this week from the head of a large sporting goods store in San Francisco. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Hopkins: "Received your card and was glad to learn of the good fishing on the Umpqua river. This looks like a good year all around. We have had wonderful reports from the Rogue and Klamath rivers also. We have had a good salmon year locally. The boys have been going out trolling on the ocean and have been making some wonderful catches.

"I wish I could send you plenty of fishermen, but most of the anglers I know have had enough of the Umpqua river. Going up for a week or two weeks in the past has been too risky. As I have told you before, if they could ever stop the damn netting and racks you would have the grandest stream in the world. Let's hope one of these days that this will be done."

MARIAN HOPKINS, Circle 11 Lodge.
