

Girl, 5, Develops Fully Into Adult

HOUSTON, Tex.—(AP)—A five-year-old Houston girl, transformed by an accident of nature into a fully-developed adult, is testing the ingenuity of medical specialists.

The case recalled that of the little Peruvian child who became a mother at the same age last year.

The Houston girl's rare development was discovered Feb. 5 after she was taken as a private patient to Dr. Karl Karnaky here.

Dr. Karnaky diagnosed the trouble as arising from a tumor, of which there are only 10 recorded cases in children under 10 years old.

Removal of the tumor in such cases usually arrests the development and the child's condition gradually reverts to normal.

The operation was performed and specimens were sent to Duke University.

After more than 600 laboratory tests were made, and 12 other medical schools had participated in consultation and research, a new diagnosis was made.

It was discovered that all the girl's glands were over-developed; that she had reached full organic development when she was only two years old.

The girl's mind remains that of a normal five-year-old.

"However," said Dr. Karnaky, "she is more alert than children of her age. She is cleverer, her memory is better and she thinks faster than her playmates."

The child's physical development, while not that of a grown woman, also is abnormal. She is as tall as her 10-year-old sister—4½ feet—and weighs 79 pounds.

London Still Harried By German Air Raiders

the battle of London is to let up. Lord Woolton, minister of food, described the amount of damage done to food supplies during the week-end German raids on London as "annoying but entirely unimportant" either in regard to Britain's or London's food supplies.

A British communiqué said today the raiders showered the bombs at random "without any distinction of objectives" and abandoning "all pretense" of confining the attacks to military targets.

The Bank of London, London bridge, the big law courts, and the financial district all are within a few blocks in the mid-city area shaken by the thunderous explosions.

Cathedral Escapes Damage

A member of the staff of St. Paul's cathedral said the big-domed church escaped damage, with "not a window cracked." For a time the cathedral was menaced by bomb-started fires, he reported, but the wind blew flames the other way.

Bombs which fell in the neighborhood of St. Paul's struck warehouses, setting them afire. Large forces of firemen worked feverishly to prevent the blaze from spreading. They were aided by the auxiliary fire service and fought the fires with the aid of water towers.

Firemen ignored the falling bombs and crashing debris as they battled for eight hours without a break to check the flames.

Incendiary bombs, some believed to be of the crude oil type, started fires in several localities around big-domed 250-year-old St. Paul's.

Another famous church, St. Mary-Le Bow—behind St. Paul's—was said to be out of danger, after long hours of anxiety.

Casualty Toll Mounts

Outlying sections and densely populated residential districts also were bombed heavily. The communiqué said no count of the dead and injured in the nine-hour and two-minute attack was possible immediately, but that 286 were killed and 1,400 injured seriously in the Sunday night attack.

That brought the bombing toll to 522 dead and approximately 2,700 badly hurt, even without the figures for last night when the attack at least approximated the intensity of the previous two raids.

There were attacks, too, outside of London—in northwestern England and rural districts of the southwest in the midlands, Wales and Scotland—but they were overshadowed by the fury of the blows at the capital of empire.

The bombardment finally was broken off just before dawn by a tremendous surprise anti-aircraft barrage which beat back the last of the raiders.

One hundred and twenty persons were reported buried in the wreckage of 29 houses shattered in a single district. Rescue crews digging into the rubble by dawn had found only 20 alive.

A home for the aged, a London county council housing estate, and numerous workmen's cottages in the east end were hit.

Unaccounted fires blazed in the widened areas of ruin.

Raid Punch Less Severe

Although the attack at times reached the intensity of the raids the previous two nights, it appeared to lack the sustained punch which they maintained. The bombing was less steady and early indications were that fewer big fires were started and fewer bombs were dropped.

Even after the all clear signal brought weary Londoners out of their shelters, the battle of Britain went on with a thunderous cross-channel duel of destruction by long range guns resuming the shelling started the night before.

The heavy firing by British coastal cannon on the southeast coast chalk cliffs and German "little Berthas" on Cape Gris Nez near Calais, France, brought the threat of invasion back into sharper focus in the battle picture.

Some observers here have said German concentration recently on the blasting of London is a side issue—that the previously pounded English coast still is the real front line.

Nazi Ships Damaged

The admiralty announced that its dive bombers attacked a German military camp near Bergen in Norway yesterday and damaged two German supply ships along the Norwegian coast.

Reconnaissance flights over the Norwegian coast, it said, confirmed that two of the three tanks of the oil depot at Dolvik, attacked by naval bombers August 8, were destroyed, while the third tank and pipelines were severely damaged.

40-Lb. "Iron Lung" Labeled "Godsend"

TACOMA.—(AP)—A new "iron lung," weighing 40 pounds compared with over 600 pounds for the old "brother-type" respirator, is being used here for the first time during Tacoma's current siege of infantile paralysis.

Paralysis specialists here had the new respirator, invented by Dr. F. H. Terhaar of Los Angeles, as a "godsend," particularly for cases where the more bulky and larger lung presents transportation problems.

Dr. Melvin Warren, head of the Pierce county hospital infantile paralysis ward, estimates the Terhaar lung will save thousands of lives annually because of its extreme mobility.

The new respirator looks like the chest protector of a suit of armor. Rubber sleeves fit tightly at the waist and arms of the paralysis victim, seating in the precious pulmonary air. It works on the same principle as the "boiler" lung, a portable motor collapsing and opening bellows that "breathe" for the patient.

Whereas the old-type lung fills a good-sized truck, the Terhaar respirator could be used in the back seat of an automobile.

The lung is a great aid to both doctors and nurses. It makes it possible for patients to be taken out of the hollers for massage treatments or for bathing.

In the old-type lung patients have to be with their arms at their sides and sometimes develop contraction of muscles. The Terhaar lung makes it possible for the patient to move his arms and legs as much as he pleases.

battleships of late design generally mount 16-inch guns.

A navy statement said the program would give the nation a fleet of 688 combatant ships, the largest elements of which would be completed in four or five years. This would be greater than any navy now float and, officials said, larger than any other power is known to be building.

SAULT LAKE CITY, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, republican vice-presidential nominee, viewed the sweeping victory of republican candidates in Maine as a "very hopeful sign" for his party early today.

McNary, en route to Indianapolis to confer with Wendell L. Willkie, republican presidential candidate, stopped here briefly while he changed planes.

McNary avoided questions on conscription legislation and other governmental business, saying "what I have to say about those matters, I'll say to congress."

PORTLAND, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Oregon republican leaders will be allowed no private visits with the republican presidential candidate on his visit here September 23, Ralph H. Cate said.

Wendell Willkie, the nominee, notified Cate, Oregon national committeeman, that such conferences were "definitely out."

Cate added that a parade was planned for Willkie and that he intended to make a brief talk either in the park blocks or the municipal auditorium but that he would make no major speech here.

The arrival of Willkie in Portland September 22 has been moy-

W. F. Harris Gets Post In Titlemen's Assn.

W. F. Harris, of this city, was elected vice-president of the Oregon Titlemen's association at the state convention held last week at Wallowa lake in eastern Oregon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Harris and before returning home visited in Pendleton with Mr. Harris' brother, Roy Harris.

Mr. Harris said that business appears to be good in eastern Oregon and in Washington, and especially in the Wenatchee valley, where the 1940 apple crop is reported to be excellent. Other points of interest visited by the Harris were Grand Coulee and Owyhee dams.

Interdenominational

PARKVILLE, Mo.—Park college officials tell this story: A Swedish Lutheran heard that a Roman Catholic youth would have to leave Park college, a Presbyterian school, because he lacked funds. The Lutheran obtained money from a Jewish friend to send to the Rev. William Lindsey Young, Park college president, so the Catholic youth could stay in school.

Il Duce Silences 'Defeatist' Groups

ROME, Sept. 10.—(AP)—Prince Alessandro Torlonia, wealthy young Roman nobleman and son of the former Elsie Moore of New York, has been arrested in a roundup of Italians suspected of "anti-fascist or defeatist tendencies," friends disclosed today.

The 28-year-old prince is a son-in-law of former King Alfonso of Spain. His sister, Marina, married Frank Shields, the one-time American tennis star.

Friends said he was accused of "talking too much."

Another patriot reported under arrest is Prince Filippo Doria-Pamphili, 54, member of one of Rome's oldest noble families and the owner of extensive property.

Doria-Pamphili married a Scottish nurse, Gealina Mary Dyckes of Newcastle, in 1921. His mother was a daughter of the duke of Newcastle. He is reported to have been exiled from Rome to a mountain village.

Scores of Italians were reported reliably to have been arrested singly in recent weeks in a purge intended to show that Premier Mussolini will not tolerate any defeatist or unpatriotic talk or activity.

Roosevelt Signs Bill for Hearing on Fruit Claim

—President Roosevelt has signed into law a bill conferring jurisdiction on the court of claims to hear and render judgment on the claim of Suncor Orchard, Inc., of Oregon, for losses incurred by the alleged wrongful seizure in 1926 of pear shipments valued at $76,000.

In asked passage of the legislation, Llewellyn A. Banks, owner of the corporation, asserted in a letter to Senator McNary that the pears had been seized by agricultural department for inspection of the insecticide with which they had been sprayed. He contended they were returned approved but in a spoiled condition unfit for sale.

votes in a race for the toga of re-igniting Senator Hale (R.), promptly issued this statement:

"The mounting majority in Maine means a change of administration in Washington. My opponent elected this year for the first time to embrace the new deal hook, line and sinker. The result was disastrous to the vote-getting power he has demonstrated in the last four Maine elections when he took a more independent position. His attitude made a square issue of the new deal. The country may interpret the significance of the Maine election accordingly."

MAINE RESULT GRATIFYING TO WILLKIE AND McNARY

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 10.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, republican presidential nominee, said this morning he was "enormously gratified" by the Maine election results.

"Apparently Governor Sewall also must have doubled the majority of the republican governor in 1936," he added, "and Senator Brewster's defeat of former Governor Brann by a very large majority is equally impressive. I have wired both Governor Sewall and Senator Brewster my heartfelt congratulations."

AIRPLANE PRODUCTION PROGRAM SPEEDING UP

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10.—(AP)—In 19 months, the army and navy will have approximately 11,000 combat airplanes—fighters and bombers—William S. Knudsen, chairman of the national defense commission, said today.

Almost through with a nationwide tour of aircraft plants in the company of General H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, Knudsen said "we know the United States is making the best airplanes," he added.

"I believe that presently we can say we are making the most airplanes."

The figure of 11,000 was based on a total production by April 1, 1942, of 33,000 planes, 14,000 destined for Great Britain and 19,000 for the armed services of the United States.

General Arnold said that of those to be delivered to the army and navy, approximately 60 per cent, or slightly more than 11,000, would be so-called combat types.

Knudsen said that airplane production, including military and large commercial planes in the United States, would be 3,000 a month by July, 1941.

Quite a Feat

It's well known that the Marine Corps is no place for the effete. And when Recruiting Sergeant William F. Black, above, lands, 'the situation is well in hand'—plus. Those six 12-F's he's displaying in his Philadelphia vice, are the largest allowed in the Corps.

Even in Waterville, one of the state's normally democratic strongholds, Brann's vote was off. He captured the city, 2,183 to 2,658, but four years ago he had 4,911 votes to White's 2,682.

Bath, where millions in naval destroyer contracts have been authorized, favored Brewster by 2,902 to 1,405, whereas Brann took the city four years ago. However, it is the home of Sewall, banker and airplane director.

ed back four hours, to 6:30 p. m., Cate said.

Willkie's train originally was scheduled to arrive from San Francisco at 10:30 p. m.

William S. Linnell, republican national committeeman for Maine, likewise asserted that the results showed Maine had "confidently accepted the leadership of Wendell Willkie. . . . They show also that Maine is stronger than ever in its repudiation of the new deal. Maine has once again pointed the way in which the country will go."

G. O. P. Margins Large

The gubernatorial vote in yesterday's balloting produced even a greater margin than did the senate race—more than 70,000 for Sumner Sewall (R.) over Fulton J. Redman (D.) and close to the 75,000 asked by Republican National Chairman Joseph W. Martin as "encouragement" to national supporters of Willkie.

Republican U. S. Reps. James C. Oliver and Margaret C. Smith won re-election easily in the first and second districts. Frank Fellows (R.), Bangor lawyer, succeeded to Brewster's seat in the third district, also with a wide lead.

The defeated democratic congressional nominees were Peter M. MacDonald, Edward J. Beauchamp and Thomas N. Curran.

Brann Loses Ground

This year's campaign was far less intense than that of 1936. Brewster, Brann and the congressional candidates all stayed close to such national issues as the new deal, national defense, and old-age pensions.

Brann carried but five of the state's 21 cities, whereas in 1936 there were a dozen in his column.

The senate vote in Portland, the state's largest city, was closely watched by observers. There Brewster, once a resident of the city, won by 11,916 to 7,654 for Brann, whereas in 1936 the democrat was a shade ahead of Senator White (R.), 12,511 to 12,432.

Even in Waterville, one of the state's normally democratic strongholds, Brann's vote was off. He captured the city, 2,183 to 2,658, but four years ago he had 4,911 votes to White's 2,682.

Fresh Debate Breaks

Clark's proposals and an attempt by Senator Adams (D., Colo.) to send the house-approved measure unchanged to the white house without any conference, provoked a new blast of conscription debate in the senate yesterday. Adams' proposal was shouted down on a voice vote after Senators Barkley, Connally (D., Tex.) and other conscription supporters had denounced the house amendment providing for a delay in the operation of conscription.

Supporting Adams' proposal, Senator Johnson (R., Calif.), recently renominated on both the republican and democratic tickets in his state, asserted:

"This is the most sinister bill ever passed during my long term as a United States senator."
